[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 16.—Without news, without bread and without wine, this usually carefree capital spent a Sunday of terror with thousands of citizens milling in the streets under the guns of mounted civil guards, who kept their fingers on the trigger. Several times the police fired into hungry mobs of men, women and children, who pounded at the steel shutters of bakeries.

After a day of bread riots, in which more than a score were hurt, the general strike was called off late this afternoon by labor headquarters in a communique, ordering 250,000 strikers to report back to work by 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Some doubt the order will be generally obeyed.

Taxicabs Again on Streets.

At midnight taxicabs were again on the streets and street car men were told to return to their jobs in the morning.

Several minor disorders occurred tonight, when great mobs tried to commandeer privately owned motorcars. Mounted police charged the rioters and dispersed them. A few were slightly hurt. Police also broke up groups of strikers who attacked a café attempting to reopen in defiance of the strike edict.

Three days of riots and disorders have resulted in two known deaths, a number of seriously injured, with more than 200 with less hurts.

Today a Critical One.

Little danger is expected during the night. Tomorrow is expected to be the critical period. If the troops can curb any sudden outbreak of revolutionary violence and the workers can be persuaded to resume their jobs, observers say the political storm will blow over and any prospect of an immediate revolution in Spain will be definitely removed.

Meanwhile the trouble is spreading to the provinces. It was announced today that a general strike will be declared tomorrow at Barcelona, Bilbao, Valladolid, and other cities.

Traffic today was at a standstill in Madrid with no taxicabs running. All shops have been closed and street cars did not operate, despite the government's promise that they would. A few subway trains, protected by armed guards, carried on a desultory service.

Madrid Locked Up.

All cafés and bars were closed, and the city was tighter than any Sunday in modern times. Theaters and other places of amusement were locked up. A few motion picture houses opened, but the public was warned they were entering at their own risk, despite the presence of troops.

Early in the evening crowds about the Puerto del Sol, often called the Times square of Madrid, swelled to such a size that the civilian guards were forced to close this part of the city.

A small quantity of milk reached the city to supply the hospitals and children. Although the government even put soldiers to making bread, the supply was insufficient to satisfy the famished mobs.

In the morning a few bakery shops opened to sell army made bread, and scraps left over from the day before. Long bread lines formed. The supply was almost speedily exhausted.

Premier Tours City.

Premier Damaso Berenguer has been working day and night, conferring with King Alfonso and his ministers. This afternoon he rushed about the streets of the city in an automobile, surveying all danger spots, making sure that the police were disposed in the most efficient manner possible.

Republican and Socialist elements tonight issued statements denying they had attempted to convert the general strike into a revolutionary movement. They said the time for a revolution is not ripe, but that one will be attempted later.

LEGGE REVEALS MOVE TO CHECK SKIDDING PRICE

Government Buys to Stem Selling.

The government sponsored Grain Stabilization corporation has again entered the demoralized wheat market in an effort to end a selling panic and to prevent "further unwarranted declines" in domestic wheat values.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, made this announcement in Washington last night, following reports that the stabilization corporation had purchased 10,000,000 bushels of wheat in Chicago last week.

Mr. Legge and George S. Milnor, head of the stabilization corporation, previously had denied that the governmental grain agency had made new purchases of wheat, explaining that the corporation merely had called for the delivery in December of 10,000,000 bushels of grain already bought on futures contracts.

Denial Is Not Explained.

Chairman Legge's announcement confirming the grain corporation's reentry in the wheat pit did not designate where the agency had entered the market, and did not explain why this fact had at first been denied. Legge's statement said:

"Demoralization in world grain markets has made it necessary for the Grain Stabilization corporation to again enter the wheat market in order to stop panicky selling and to prevent further unwarranted declines in domestic prices. Comparatively, wheat is lower than other agricultural commodities. The price of flour fully reflects the price of wheat, which, no doubt, is increasing the per capita consumption.

"While the visible supply of wheat is large, there is no congestion in any of the terminal markets. Receipts at primary markets are unusually light, which suggests the extent to which farm stocks are being used for feeding purposes.

Hold Secret Conference.

Chairman Legge's statement was issued following a secret conference at the farm board offices with Mr. Milnor and with Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat member of the board. Previously Mr. Legge had announced that he would have nothing to say about the situation until today. His statement last night was reported to have surprised some of his closest associates.

Although there was no intimation as to how much wheat the stabilization corporation has already bought in its new operations, it was intimated that the buying has been going on for several days and will continue in the future.

The effectiveness of the government's new wheat market operations was shown in a striking way on the Chicago board on Saturday, when buying by the stabilization corporation pegged December contracts at 73 cents despite the fact that December deliveries were only 58 cents a bushel in Winnipeg. This wide gap between the two markets was sustained by the government corporation, which snapped up all offerings at 73 cents, leaving the traders dazed by the unprecedented situation.

Clears Up Market Uncertainty.

Grain dealers in Chicago and other world markets yesterday were wondering what effects the reëntry of the federally sponsored corporation in the wheat pit would have on the grain trade. Leaders of the Chicago market said the statement of the government's position should tend to reassure the trade somewhat, since until yesterday there was some uncertainty as to what forces were operating.

But whether the reëntry of the stabilization corporation would have the desired effect could not be predetermined. "We will have to await the developments," said one observer.

Board of Trade officials and leading traders looked on the trading in December futures last week as without precedent. Millions of bushels changed hands on the Chicago market, but despite the huge volume of transactions sales and purchases were made at the virtually uniform price of 73 cents a bushel.

On the other hand, prices at other markets were depressed. The Winnipeg price of approximately 58 cents a bushel for December wheat was nearly 15 cents below the Chicago figure and at the lowest level in Canadian grain history. In Minneapolis the futures that brought 73 cents a bushel in Chicago were dealt in at 64 and 65 cents.

The Winnipeg situation gave rise to

Aimee Calls Zone Whoopee Stories False

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, returned today on the liner Tolon from a cruise in the Caribbean still not completely recovered from her recent nervous breakdown.

As the ship was tying up to the pier, she gave an interview in which she charged that "some reporter" had pictured her party as drinking liquor in canal zone cabarets. This, she said, was false, as were rumors of difficulties with immigration authorities.

Her face thin, eyes dark circled, she clasped and unclasped her hands as she talked, and when she reached out to take a newspaper clipping her hand shook. In moving about the deck, which was slippery from the fog, she was supported by the purser of the Toloa and her nurse. She said she had lost thirty-eight pounds during her illness.

Charges Reporter Threats.

Her remarks supplemented a prepared statement in which she charged that newspapermen at Cristobal, to whom she had refused an interview because of her health, had threatened to "write a racy story accusing me of making whoopee."

"I presume they made good their promise," she said, adding that she had heard of one story which "insinuated everything except that I smoked a pipe."

Explain Cristobal Visit.

"It is true that, with other passengers we broke the long sea journey by going ashore and making a tour of the canal and the city [Cristobal]—a sailor town, with long streets of saloons and places of entertainment. With other passengers of the ship, we entered as spectators several of these places, remaining only a few minutes in each. . . . I drank water or lemonade. To state otherwise is silly, and a mere attempt to slap back at the definite stand I have always taken for temperance."

Mrs. Margaret Smith and a secretary accompanied Mrs. McPherson on the cruise. She was met at the pier by F. C. Winters, her business manager, who said that because of the evangelist's condition he had decided that the party should rest two or three days in New York before proceeding to the Pacific coast.

Oak Park Man Fatally Shot While Hunting

Robert Thompson, 22 years old, of 1017 South Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, was shot and killed yesterday while hunting near Paris, Ill., with three Oak Park youths, according to a message received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond W. Thompson, who left immediately for Terre Haute, Ind., where the body was taken.

$150,000 BRIBE OFFER BARED BY EX-DRY CHIEF

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—(AP)—United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa in a debate on prohibition here tonight with Ira L. Reeves, Chicago, former prohibition administrator of New Jersey, countered a statement by Reeves that he was offered a $150,000 bribe while in New Jersey with the remark that Reeves would be summoned to Washington for questioning.

"No honest man can enforce prohibition and come out with a clean conscience," said Reeves, secretary of the Crusaders, an organization opposed to prohibition. "I could tell you of one incident alone in which I was offered a $150,000 bribe on a permit costing $1,000,000, but that's one they don't care to investigate in Washington."

"It's one they're going to investigate in Washington," interposed Senator Brookhart. "I'm going to invite you there."

"I'll come," Reeves promised.

"St. George for England," Yells Nude Man in London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A naked man shouting "Saint George for England" and thumping at the door of St. Paul's cathedral, created an unusual scene just as the service was beginning this morning. He took off his clothes on the steps of the cathedral, tied a handkerchief around his body and attempted to make a rambling patriotic speech. When police rushed up he became violent and was eventually forcibly removed to a mental hospital.

Kegels to Ask Secret Divorce Be Set Aside

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, city health commissioner, and Mrs. Marie Sahlin Kegel, who secretly divorced him in Chicago Heights on Sept. 25, will appear today before Judge Craig Hood in the suburban court to ask that the decree be set aside. This was announced yesterday by Attorney John J. McMahon, representing Mrs. Kegel.

Following the granting of their stipulation to set aside the decree, the Kegels are to leave on a second honeymoon. A second marriage will not be necessary under this procedure. The attorney explained that the Kegels had hoped to avoid publicity on the voiding of the decree, as they had succeeded for several weeks in keeping the divorce a secret.

Mrs. Kegel Charges Cruelty.

Mrs. Kegel secured a divorce on charges of cruelty, alleging that the doctor had struck and knocked her down. Dr. Kegel filed a formal answer denying the charge, but did not contest the suit. Mrs. Kegel left immediately for California. Almost on her arrival a second courtship began by mail, the attorney said, and both within two weeks agreed that the divorce was a mistake.

"Dr. Kegel placed the facts before me," Attorney McMahon said. "I drew up a stipulation to set aside the decree.

Kegels Refuse to Talk.

Mrs. Kegel returned to Chicago more than a week ago and made her home with her mother here although she appeared in public with Dr. Kegel to prevent possible suspicion of the divorce. Dr. Kegel returned to the city yesterday from a hunting trip at Henry, Ill. At the Kegel home reporters were told that all questions were to be put to the attorney as the Kegels had nothing to say.

PRICES GO UP AS WELL AS DOWN

Previous to last week copper was offered at 9½ cents a pound, with few buyers. Why buy, said the copper consumers, maybe it will go lower? But it didn't, and last week when a number who had put off the purchase of their normal supplies of the metal tried to place orders, they found many others had done the same thing. The price jumped to 12 cents a pound. There are now rumors of an advance in steel prices. Firmness appears in other commodity markets.

Many articles sold at the stores are at the lowest prices in years. By putting off the purchase of these things now, you may have the same experience the copper consumers had. If you hold off buying, you not only may pay a higher price for what you buy, but also delay the return of better days. By buying now, you not only get attractive prices, but you help to relieve unemployment in the most practicable way possible.

$250,000 Fire in Waukegan; Three Injured

Fire which started in the heart of Waukegan's business district at 5:30 p. m. yesterday was brought under control shortly before midnight after it had destroyed a three story building occupied by seven stores and a hotel with a loss estimated at $250,000 to $300,000, and caused the injury of a last three persons.

A call for help was sent out to neighboring towns when the high wind swept the blaze beyond control and fire departments from Lake Forest, Great Lakes, North Chicago, and Zion joined forces with the Waukegan firemen.

Some Merchandise Is Saved.

Early estimates by Jacob Blumberg, owner of the building, and Building Commissioner Walter Nibbelink of Waukegan, which placed the loss at $500,000, were reduced when it was learned that firemen and volunteer workers had succeeded in carrying out a large part of the merchandise in the stores before they were reached by the flames.

The fire was first discovered in a restaurant at 205 West Water street, and is believed to have started from an explosion of a boiler in the basement. The flames spread rapidly in the old frame building, which is a landmark in Waukegan, and swept through six other shops located from 100 to 110 South Genesee street. The New Central hotel, which occupies the two floors above the stores, also was ruined.

Try to Save Other Buildings.

By 7 p. m. hope of saving the three story building in which the fire started was abandoned and firemen concentrated their efforts on checking the spread of the flames, which had reached the brick wall of the recently erected Blumberg Furniture store building. An order was issued to police to close all windows in buildings in the block to the north of the fire for fear the high wind would carry the flames across Genesee street.

As the blaze progressed part of a blazing wooden side wall three stories high crashed into Water street, menacing several hundred spectators.

Fire Lieutenant E. C. Ullrey of Waukegan suffered a sprained back when he fell through a hole in a floor to the basement, and Gus Gorgan, caretaker of a building across Genesee street from the fire, was burned about the face and hands.

John Harris, part owner of the hotel, was overcome by smoke when he went back into the burning hotel to make sure there were no guests remaining in the rooms.

LADY ASTOR RISKS HER NECK IN DUAL MOTOR BIKE RIDE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Col. T. E. Lawrence, "Aircraftsman Shaw," has just taught Lady Astor the favorite sport of England's flappers—riding on the rear rack of a motorcycle.

Col. Lawrence, who is stationed at the Catterick camp, near Plymouth, took his motorcycle with him on a recent visit to the Astors at their home overlooking the harbor. He invited Lady Astor to come for a little ride and Lord Astor saw them off with warnings to be careful.

But instead of taking a spin around the block they were gone for more than an hour and covered 70 miles through the twisting, turning lanes of Devonshire. "Really, Lawrence," said Lord Astor afterwards, "my wife should not be encouraged to find new ways of breaking her neck."

NET COST TO U. S. OF PROHIBITION MOUNTS YEARLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Repeal or substantial modification of the Volstead law would save the United States government close to $50,000,000 a year, now paid out for dry law enforcement, plus a sum approximating upwards of a billion dollars annually, which would be turned back into the federal treasury.

These estimates indicating the tremendous burden which prohibition has saddled upon American taxpayers and the economic benefits which would accrue from its abandonment were made today upon the basis of figures from official government sources. Aside from the moral and legal aspects of Volsteadism, they show the price being paid for the "noble experiment" in actual dollars and cents.

Appropriations for Enforcement.

The $50,000,000 estimate represents the annual appropriations for enforcement by federal agencies such as the prohibition unit, coast guard, customs service, department of justice while the much larger figure is the sum which Uncle Sam would be collecting in revenues if liquor were sold legally.

Special significance is given the dry law cost figures at the present moment because of the decided wet trend of the recent elections, the increasing agitation against the dry rule in congress, and word that the Wickersham commission has reached the conclusion that some sort of modification is the only way out of the prohibition muddle. It was revealed yesterday that the so-called law enforcement commission has definitely decided that the dry law system must undergo a change.

Another factor which has emphasized the monetary aspects of Volsteadism is the need of the government for every available dollar to spend on construction, roads, and other projects to relieve unemployment and speed the return of prosperity. Such authorities as Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] have said that it will be impossible to continue the tax reduction another year, and President Hoover has foreseen a deficit in the treasury. Congress is preparing to allot large sums for seed and feed loans and other emergency needs.

Estimate of Costs.

An attempt to calculate the total cost of prohibition admittedly involves some arbitrary statistics, due to a number of undetermined factors and the failure of the government to segregate prohibition in departmental expenditures.

What is believed to be a fairly accurate summary of actual enforcement costs during the fiscal year 1931, however, is as follows:

Prohibition bureau	$ 9,000,000
Bureau of industrial alcohol	6,000,000
Coast guard	16,000,000
Customs service	5,000,000
Department of justice [other than prohibition bureau]	10,000,000
Miscellaneous	4,000,000
Totals	$50,000,000

Expenditures by the prohibition unit have steadily eaten up larger and larger appropriations. In 1921, the first full fiscal year of prohibition, its appropriation was $7,000,000 and at that time the unit combined the narcotics and industrial alcohol forces with the dry forces. For the present fiscal year the appropriation is $15,000,000, which is divided on a 9 to 6 basis between the prohibition and industrial alcohol bureaus. These bureaus were separated July 1, 1930, at the start of the fiscal year.

Coast Guard Becomes Navy.

Largely in an effort to cope with rum running the coast guard has been built up to the status of a navy, outranked in strength only by those of the larger powers: the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, Germany, and Russia.

Commandant Frederick C. Billard in his last annual report stated that on June 30, 1929, there were in the coast guard in commission 21 cruising cutters of the first class and 15 of the second class, 24 coast guard destroyers, 38 harbor cutters and harbor launches, 33 125 foot patrol boats, 13 100 foot patrol boats, 194 75 foot patrol boats, 13 other patrol boats, 75 cabin picket boats, and 32 open picket boats.

This formidable armada of vessels does not include the primarily life saving boat equipment attached to coast guard vessels and stations nor the fleet of new vessels put into commission during the last year.

The 1931 appropriations to the coast guard was $32,123,256 and the estimate of $16,000,000 as the part of this sum going for prohibition enforcement is based on a presumption that one-half of the coast guard's activities is required for that purpose.

In 1924 the customs service joined with the coast guard in the campaign against contraband liquor. The average annual increase in expeditures of the customs service from 1916 to 1923 was $228,095. If this rate of increase had continued the 1931 apropriation would have been close to $16,000,000. It was actually $22,952,160. Although the increase in Canadian and European tourist traffic is partly responsible for the difference, the five million dollars estimated for prohibition enforcement is believed to be reasonable.

Since 1920 one of the major duties of the department of justice, including the federal courts, has been the prosecution of Volstead and Jones law violations. Federal prison costs also come under the justice department.

Out of 35,849 criminal cases pending in the federal courts on June 30, 1930, 22,671 were started under the national prohibition act. During the fiscal year 1929 there were 11,237 civil prohibition cases commenced and during 1930 there were 11,882, while the new criminal dry law cases increased from 56,796 to 56,992. These figures indicate that prohibition enforcement is playing a major part in the federal courts.

Increased Prison Costs.

It often has been stated that prohibition is filling up the jails and prisons and the official department of justice figures show this to be correct. Out of 12,061 inmates in the federal prisons last April, 3,698 were dry law violators, while the department estimated that "over two-thirds" of the federal prisoners farmed out in county and city jails, a total of 13,565 on Jan. 15, were dry law violators. Otherwise stated, more than one-half of all federal prisoners were behind the bars because of Volsteadism.

As the appropriation for the department of justice in 1931 was $31,771,000, an estimate of 10 millions as the part spent due to prohibition is conservative.

Under the heading "miscellaneous" are placed such expenditures as those for congressional activities on prohibition, the $250,000 annual appropriation for the Wickersham commission, civil service costs, District of Columbia enforcement, all attributable in part to prohibition, and a share of capital expenditures for new coast guard vessels, penitentiaries, and government building space. This is lumped at four million dollars.

Turning from the actual cost of enforcement to the loss in revenues from liquors, millions of dollars become hundreds of millions.

Loss in Tax Revenues.

There has been a definite ascertainable loss in revenues from distilled spirits and fermented liquors. These amounted to 483 million dollars in 1919, and 443 million in 1918, but the drys say they were abnormal years. There was an increase of more than 80 million dollars in annual receipts, however, from 1910 to 1917. Discounting the two abnormal years of taxes collected and assuming that the ten years from 1920 to 1930 would have seen increases in these revenues comparable to normal years, the total that might now be expected if prohibition had not come would be close to 400 millions a year.

It is contended by the wets, however, that if alcoholic beverage taxes had increased on the same scale as in other countries, especially beers, the total in the United States would be nearer 1,500 million dollars or a billion and a half.

Pierre S. du Pont, appearing before the house judiciary committee last spring, estimated that had this country adopted the British control system there would have flowed into the treasury during the last 11 years 1,600 million dollars a year, a total for the 11 years of prohibition of 17 billion dollars. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has estimated the annual loss in taxes to be 850 millions a year.

Some idea of the size of a billion dollars a year revenue loss may be gained from the fact that the total appropriation for the war department in the present fiscal year was less than half that amount and for the navy slightly more than one-third of that amount.

Local Expenditures Not Added.

None of these calculations has taken into consideration the expenditures for prohibition enforcement by state, county, and municipal governments, nor the losses accruing to private interests such as those of the breweries and the farmers whose market for grains formerly used for liquors is destroyed.

Neither have they touched upon the tremendous losses incurred to governmental agencies and legitimate business through the fact that a stream of gold has been diverted into the underworld to bootleggers, rum runners, and gangsters.

It is not presumed to reckon in dollars and cents the economic losses due to the imprisonment of thousands who otherwise would be free to earn a livelihood nor to the deaths caused by the guns of dry agents and poisonous bootleg liquor.

Additions of such costs as these to the known losses of upward of a billion dollars to the federal government alone would pile up to staggering size the amount which could be saved by the abandonment of the Volstead system and a retreat to repeal or substantial modification.

Repeal Volstead Act Now, J. M. Beck Urges Congress

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.], one of the leading constitutional lawyers of the country, tossed a firebrand into the ranks of the drys today with a statement urging repeal or modification of the Volstead act without waiting for a change in the federal constitution.

Asserting that repeal of the 18th amendment now is impracticable because thirteen states can block it, Mr. Beck proposed that the next congress either modify the Volstead act to permit wine and beer or knick it out entirely. If this cannot be done, he said, appropriations for enforcement should be withheld.

Called "Nullification."

Two prominent drys immediately branded the Beck plan as "nullification." They were Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] and Representative Louis C. Cramton [Rep., Mich.]. Borah declared that it was "nullification on its face," while Cramton declared that "the wets are now unmasked; they have been for nullification from the first."

Representative Beck asserted that the recent elections clearly show that prohibition will be the dominant issue in American politics for at least a decade, and that "any political party that tries to sidestep it will be doomed to defeat."

He went on to say, however, that he believed that some of the "recent converts" to the anti-prohibition movement are doing it a disservice by confining their programs merely to repeal of the 18th amendment. He said that he could not share the confidence of Senator Elect Dwight Morrow that repeal is possible within a reasonable time and that meanwhile the Volstead law should be enforced.

Attempt "Should Be Made."

"Of course, a reasonable attempt should be made to enforce the Volstead law while it remains on the statute books, as with any other law, but why should it remain?" he said.

"To leave it unrepealed or modified pending a repeal of the 18th amendment must remain the ultimate objective. To attempt its repeal now is seeking for a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Thirteen states can defeat a repeal and he is blind to the realities of the situation who cannot see that, under present conditions, at least twenty agricultural states in the south and west and a few in the north, for example Maine, would obstruct a repeal. Indeed, if a resolution were adopted now by congress to submit the question of repeal to the states the result would be a foregone conclusion and would postpone any practical relief for another generation."

Mr. Beck also took issue with the program advanced by Charles L. Tuttle, defeated candidate for governor of New York, who advocated repeal of the 18th amendment with the adoption of a new amendment, which, according to Mr. Beck, would guarantee "continued intervention of the federal government in the internal policing of the dry states."

"Not Self-Enforcing."

"As I argued in my speech in the house of representatives on last Feb. 7," he said, "the 18th amendment is not self-enforcing. Congress was expressly given the power to determine to what extent, if any, and in what manner and with what appropriations, the policy of prohibition should be enforced. In the exercise of that undoubted political discretion congress enacted the Volstead lay. In the exercise of the same discretion congress can by a majority vote repeal the Volstead law and leave the method of enforcement of the 18th amendment to the political discretion of the several states. This is not nullification, for the constitution expressly gave such discretion to congress.

"Little can be expected in the present congress, but in the 72d congress, which, in my judgment, will be more closely divided on the wet and dry issue than the election returns would indicate, an attempt should be made to repeal the Volstead law."

CHURCH LAUDS CURTIS' O. K. OF SENATE DRY SPY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The action of Vice President Curtis in authorizing the placing of a dry spy in the senate office building received the commendation today of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals. Referring to George Cassidy "the man in the green hat," who was captured as a result of the dry sleuthing, the Methodist board statement said:

"Few public enemies of the United States have offered a greater affront to the honor of the government. Those guilty of conspiring with him, if oath bound, have soiled their own honor and have inflicted grave injury to the prestige of the senate and the government.

"Any coöperation afforded officers of the treasury department in the apprehension and conviction of this man was a simple matter of patriotic duty. There is no doubt that the common people of the country, wet and dry, will applaud the successful efforts of the government in this connection. The Vice President should be commended, and is commended by every right thinking man."

He disappeared about two weeks after his sister, Mrs. Thomas Haskins Graham, a former opera singer, had leaped to death from an eighth floor window of the Warburton house.

FINDS ICELAND'S ARRESTS LEAPING UNDER DRY LAW

Police Cases Multiplied More than Five Times.

BY AXEL THORSTEINSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Nov. 16.—The results of the "noble experiment" of prohibition in Iceland parallel those in the United States, according to detailed information issued by the statistical bureau of the government for the years 1919-1925.

In this island of little more than 100,000 inhabitants police cases multiplied more than five times as a result of efforts to stamp out the sale of liquor. During the seven years' period of 1912-1918, when Reykjavik was a city of 20,000, 660 men were arrested in the capital. Arrests outside Reykjavik totaled 700.

More Arrests; Stricter Law.

During the next seven years 3,416 were arrested in the city, which then had a population of 26,000, and 1,208 were taken into custody in other parts of the country.

The increase in arrests was due to a stricter law, which makes any one found under the influence of alcohol liable to arrest, for more than half of the 3,416, or 2,000, were booked under liquor charges. Almost the same ratio was recorded in the rest of the island.

During the seven years ending in 1925, 209 persons were accused of criminal offenses. Two were acquitted and 207 were convicted. Of this number fourteen were women. The most common crimes were theft and larceny. Of the total, 133 were convicted on such charges, 13 were convicted for crimes of violence, and the remainder on minor charges. Only two indictments for violation of the moral code were found.

No Murder in 7 Years.

Among the guilty 30 were sentenced to hard labor and 122 to prison. The rest escaped with fines.

Iceland's absence of murders is well known. During the entire period there was not a single case of homicide. One has occurred since then—the murder of an agent for an American car. The slayer was caught.

VETERAN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL; POISON NEARBY

Augustus P. Russell, 32 years old, an ex-service man and traveling salesman, was found dead yesterday in his room at the Mark Twain hotel, 111 West Division street. An empty glass and a bottle of poison were on a table at his bedside.

That he committed suicide because of losses in the stock market was indicated in a letter, the police said, which he had left, asking relatives to dispose of his body. Also there were two sealed letters, one to Chester D. Russell, president of the Associated Wholesale Electric company of Los Angeles, and one to Mrs. W. E. Doren, the Roosevelt hotel, New York City. Mrs. Doren last night refused to give any information regarding him other than that he had served in the marines.

REGARD PINCHOT AS BIDDING FOR '32 NOMINATION

His Power Trust Attack First Move.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Gifford Pinchot, governor elect of Pennsylvania, loosed a blast against the power trust today which is regarded in political circles as a manifesto of his candidacy for the presidency in 1932 on a platform declaring for federal regulation of public utilities.

The radicals in both old parties, strengthened by the sensational triumph of Mr. Pinchot over the regular Republican bolters in Pennsylvania, by the reelection of Senators George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] and Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], by the election to the senate of Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.] and Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Col.], and by the further aggrandizement of the house of La Follette in Wisconsin, are moving militantly to make the power trust an important, if not the paramount, issue in 1932.

Center on Norris Bill.

Their immediate strategy is to attempt to force through congress at the approaching short session the Norris bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals, passed by the senate and now in conference committee of both houses. If they fail of the achievement of this they will endeavor to filibuster appropriation bills to death in order to force an extraordinary session next spring for the exploitation of the power issue.

While the foundation for the issue is being laid the radicals are rallying to the gonfalon of the new shining knight of their cause, Mr. Pinchot, late of Armageddon, who pictures himself thundering into a new fight on "the interests," trailing clouds of Roosevelt ian glory.

Mr. Pinchot is being groomed by the radicals for their candidate for the Republican nomination for President in opposition to Mr. Hoover. Power will be their issue—and perhaps prohibition, if Mr. Hoover should turn the least mite moist before the convention, with the exception of the brothers La Follette, the Republican radicals are bone drys.

Third Tickets Framed.

Not that the Republican radicals expect to nominate Mr. Pinchot. But being defeated in the Republican convention, he would become the logical leader of a third party of radicals of both old parties. Some of the radicals are already framing third tickets in fancy; consisting of Pinchot and Borah or Borah and Pinchot—a "knockout" either way, one of their number said today.

The Pinchot pronunciamento against the power trust was delivered on the text of a suit brought by the Clarion River Power Company of Pennsylvania against the federal power commission, arguments in which will be heard by the Supreme court of the District of Columbia tomorrow. This power company seeks to restrain the power commission from determining the corporation's net investment as a basis for rate making, contending that the commission lacks valid authority therefor, and thus raising the question of the constitutionality of the water power act.

The company claims a net investment of $11,033,000, while the power commission found it to be only $4,645,-000. Inasmuch as the rates charged by the company are to be fixed so as to yield a fair return on the investment, its prospective revenue will be cut in half if the power commission's determination of its investment should stand.

Pinchot Makes Statement.

"As governor-elect of Pennsylvania," said Mr. Pinchot, "it becomes my duty to call public attention to a matter of great importance. The question involved is whether the people shall pay electric rates reasonable enough to yield a fair return on the actual investment of an electric company or high enough to pay a return on inflated valuation.

"The decision to be reached is as to whether the 'actual original legitimate investment' of an electric water power company shall be accepted as the base upon which the rates to be paid by consumers will be calculated, or whether the company's own padded statement shall be accepted on its face.

"The Clarion River Power company is owned by the Associated Gas and Electric company, which furnishes electric service over one-third of Pennsylvania and in many other states.

"If the decision of the court should be adverse to the rate payers of Pennsylvania and should later be sustained by the Supreme court of the United States, the cost to Pennsylvania would be serious. For it would mean, first, in the case of the Clarion River Power company, and, later, for other companies, that the consumers of current would pay at least double to the owners of the company what they would be required to pay if the finding of the federal power commission is sustained."

In support of his charge of padding the investment account, Mr. Pinchot cited what the power commission accountants referred to as "unsupported items totaling, $1,121,942.67," and "expenditures of J. R. Paull, $448,-722.50" and took exception to inclusion in the investment of "such items as $144 worth of neckties bought of Vantine in New York, and also cigars, dinners and more than $4,000 charged to the expenses of the grand opening."

Sees Issue at Stake.

Mr. Pinchot asserted that if the power company wins this suit federally licensed power companies will be enabled to establish any rate base they may choose and fix the conditions on which the properties may be recaptured for public operation at the close of the fifty year license period.

The Pennsylvania governor-elect conclude with a quotation of President Roosevelt's veto of the Muscle Shoals bill twenty-two years ago which asserted that "to give away this, one of the greatest of our resources, would be an act of folly. If we are guilty of it our children will be forced to pay an annual return upon a capitalization based upon the highest price which 'the traffic will bear.'"

Charge Hoover Is Tool.

The Popular Government league, an anti-power trust propaganda agency financed by Mr. Pinchot, charges that President Hoover is a tool of the power trust and is wrecking government regulation of the federally licensed power companies.

Critics of Mr. Pinchot charge that he misrepresents the facts of federal regulation for the deliberate purpose of inflaming the public and making the power trust a political issue.

AUTO PLUNGES ON SIDEWALK TO KILL STROLLER

Girl, 14, Victim of Vampire Driver.

Albert Rysner, 42 years old, 1718 Augusta street, was killed yesterday at Wood and Augusta streets when struck by an automobile belonging to Joseph Fritch, 1900 West Ohio street. He was walking on the sidewalk when the car ran up over the curb. Soon afterwards Fritch, who is 20 years old, reported to the Racine avenue police that his car had been stolen. He was taken into custody and is being held for the inquest.

Madeline Olson, 14 years old, 5428 Byron street, was killed by a hit and run driver in front of 3906 North Central avenue. Passing motorists found her lying unconscious and took her to the Belmont hospital. Irving Park police have a description of the death car and are hunting the driver.

These deaths and five others increased Cook county's motor toll for 1930 to 952. The other victims:

Michael Carey, 74 years old, 6609 Greenwood avenue. Died at the Washington Park hospital of injuries received late Saturday when he was struck at Cottage Grove avenue and 64th street by a car driven by Paul Johnson, 7649 Rhodes avenue. Johnson is being held for the inquest.

Christ Helster, 70 years old, 3923 North Whipple street. Died at the Martha Washington hospital of injuries received late Saturday night when struck by an automobile, the police allege, driven by Percy Lings, 41 years old, 4835 Byron street. Lings was released on bond.

Mrs. Josephine Schumann, 43 years old, 3027 Quinn street. Died last night at West Suburban hospital of injuries received Nov. 9 in an automobile collision at Cortland street and Neva avenue. Frank Charbonar, 2939 Cornell avenue, and Gust Sonitczi, 806 Wrightwood avenue, drivers of the cars, were ordered by police to appear at the inquest this morning at 10 o'clock.

Marion Young, 5 years old, 4932 North Hoyne avenue. Died last night at the Ravenswood hospital of injuries sueffered Nov. 9 when she was struck by the automobile of E. Hedman of River Grove at Argyle street and North Seeley avenue.

Edward Ward, 65 years old, 209 West North avenue, an unemployed tailor, suffered a fractured leg and possible skull fracture last night when an automobile driven by William Bolle, 844 East 40th street, ran into a group of unemployed men at Madison and Bishop streets. The men, most of whom lived in a nearby cheap lodging house, were staging an impromptu parade in protest against their unemployment when the machine scattered them and struck Ward.

Louis Rodvany, 45 years old, of Whiting, was killed when struck by an auto as he walked across Sheffield avenue in Hammond. Fred E. Backman, 10848 Avenue L, Chicago, driver of the car, was held for $5,000 bond.

SEN. BORAH IS VOCAL BUT ALSO AMBIGUOUS OVER EXTRA SESSION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Reports that the Democrats and insurgents may attempt to force an extra session of congress by filibustering against imperative supply bills were branded by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Ida.] today as "an exhibition of superlative impudence."

"I have been a member of the senate for 24 years. I have never joined a filibuster; I do not propose to join one now. But I do not propose either to be stampeded out of giving proper and necessary consideration to appropriation bills.

"I think it an exhibition of superlative impudence to be stating, in effect, that the progressives or the Democrats have not just as keen a sense of responsibility and quite as intelligent conception of their duty as the regulars."

RIOTS RAGE IN INDIA AS REBELS HAIL JAILED CHIEF

Europeans Are Stoned by Mob at Karachi.

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Serious disorders were reported from Karachi and Surat today, with lesser trouble occurring in Bombay itself, during the celebration of "Jawarhalal day," honoring the imprisoned pundit Jawarhalal Nehru.

Several Europeans were injured at Karachi when stones and dust were thrown by Indian congress adherents at the occupants of motor cars returning from the opening of the new Lloyd quay and Lloyd gate.

One of the injured was the wife of an assistant commissioner, who was struck over the eye.

Mob Beats Taxi Driver.

More trouble occurred at dusk. By that time nearly all the cars had departed, but a taxicab knocked down three women in the middle of a road and this incensed the crowd, which stormed the taxi, filed it with stones and beat the driver.

The president of the municipality suffered a leg injury while investigating the disturbances and two policemen also were hurt.

Fifty persons were arrested in Surat following upon attempts in various parts of the city to defy the district magistrate's order forbidding meetings and salutations to the congress flag in connection with "Jawarhalal day."

Police Charge Paraders.

Many were slightly injured when police dispersed attempts at processions.

In Bombay large crowds gathered on Chowpatti sands in honor of the occasion. Joseph Binnie, Indian Christian president of the Bombay war council, walked among his followers while reading speeches by Jawarhalal Nehru, which have been declared seditious. He was arrested, as were two other members of the war council. The police then withdrew and other members of the council addressed the crowd.

Numerous persons were arrested in various suburbs for forming processions in defiance of the police ban. Two hundred and eighteen persons, including one woman, were arrested in New Delhi when police broke up a large procession.

Princes Outline Demands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The demands of the Indian princes and their terms, under which they are prepared to enter an all-India federation if the agreement is acceptable to all parties and parliament, were reached today at a meeting of the princes' deputation and British Indian delegates.

It is understood that their demands include:

One, that the viceroy remain in India as the king's representative; two, that all dynastic questions affecting the princes—succession, marriage, and their powers within their states—be left exclusively to themselves; three, that the princes get a fair share of all state services such as railways, canals, irrigation and customs; four, that the defense army remain under the viceroy, who shall employ state troops when and where they are necessary; five, that the existing treaties with the crown shall remain; six, that disciplinary authority exercised by the viceroy for misrule, malpractice and squandering state funds shall be left to the council of princes for action.

It is understood that the princes' deputation is prepared to recognize frontier defense as an imperial question and to support a non-votable fixed budget for its maintenance, while, at the same time, desiring to see second line troops gradually becoming Indianized for the purpose of internal security.

BLAME TABLETS FOR DEATH.

Headache tablets which he had swallowed without water were believed responsible for the death last night of John Spratt, 50 years old, Western Union messenger, who was found choking at the entrance of the Board of Trade hotel, Van Buren street and Plymouth court, where he lived.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Nov. 16.—Socialists attacked Pilsudski supporters at Pruszkow today, killing two and wounding nine.

WARSAW, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Sixty-one persons were wounded or bruised during clashes in Warsaw last night and today in connection with the Polish parliamentary elections, in which a victory was indicated for the government party of Premier Joseph Pilsudski.

Five persons in the capital were recorded as seriously injured, four of them were shot. Most of the injuries resulted from minor scuffles, principally between communists, government adherents, and Laborites, with the Zionists and orthodox Jews in their crowded quarter battling frequently.

Victory Is Assured.

Early reports from the various centers indicated that Pilsudski would be victorious. If he obtains the three-fourths majority that he has sought in the sejm of 444 seats, he must capture 333 mandates. In the old sejm, which the veteran premier abruptly dissolved last August on charges that it "hamstrung" the government, Pilsudski's party had only 118 seats.

After this dissolution Marshal Pilsudski began putting opposition deputies out of the way until 81 of them were in jail by election day. In addition, other prominent oppositionists were arrested today. Among the last minute arrests was that of the priest Pansas, a former army chaplain, who is noted as the man who threw his decorations at the feet of Marshal Pilsudski after the coup d'état which set up the present régime.

Complete returns from the province of Poznan gave the government party six seats, the National Democrats thirteen, the central radical bloc nine, and the German party two. The oppositionists are particularly strong in this area.

Pilsudski Loses in Poznan.

Complete figures for Silesia gave the government adherents six mandates, the central radicals one, the Germans three, and the Christian Democrats seven.

Government circles smiled tonight at the likely discomfiture of the Socialists, who had invited two prominent French Socialists, Leon Jouhaux and Jean Loquin, here to witness the conduct of the elections. The visit of the Frenchmen aroused indignation in the government newspapers.

Five Students Wounded.

POZNAN, Poland, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Five university students were seriously wounded today by police, who dispersed a demonstration in front of the government party headquarters. A great many others were bruised. The students, with National Democrat sympathies, attempted to demolish the government offices.

CUBA PUTS GUARDS ON AMERICAN PROPERTY; FEARS PLOT OF REDS

HAVANA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—American property in Cuba was put under special police guard tonight after the government announced discovery of an alleged communist plot to force the United States to intervene in Cuba by destroying American owned buildings.

The authorities said they believed the American embassy might be the first object of such attack, and for that reason placed a large police guard there.

Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim expressed confidence that President Machado had the situation in hand. The number of troops in Havana has been reduced as the recent tension died down.

SUSPECT SLAIN, 3 ARE SEIZED IN ARSON CASE

Insurance Plot Charged to Prisoners.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A father of four children is dead and three men are under arrest as a result of what police charge was a plot to burn a house for its insurance.

Zoaney E. Merreighn, 35 years old, was slain with a riot gun in the hands of Detective Dennis J. Bennett last night when Bennett and others officers sought to arrest him. Bennett said Merreighn refused to halt and made a motion as if to draw a gun.

Officers had been informed that a plot had been formed to burn a farm home owned by Edward Mackin for the $3,000 insurance on it. They left for the house to lie in ambush, but were too late, for the dwelling already was in flames. The house was badly damaged.

Robert Powell, a companion of the slain man, was taken into custody and police said they obtained information from him which resulted in the arrest also of Mackin and Logan Debord, a real estate agent. Mackin and Debord were charged with engineering the plot. They deny their guilt.

DO-X DESIGNER REPORTS PLANE'S MOTORS PERFECT

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the giant seaplane DO-X announced today that weather conditions might prevent a trans-Atlantic flight before spring, but insisted the engines had given entire satisfaction on the trip toward Lisbon. He said final decision regarding the trans-Atlantic trip would be made at Lisbon.

Certain French experts said last night a trans-Atlantic flight at this time might be hazardous, because the DO-X's motors had not been turning as well as expected.

The DO-X remained in the Gironde estuary today instead of coming up to Bordeaux. Tomorrow the plane will fly over Bordeaux with officials and newspaper men aboard. Present plans call for departure for Lisbon on Tuesday.

WORKERS READY FOR $5,000,000 JOB FUND DRIVE

Clarke Calls Condition of Needy "Appalling."

The Relief Problem

Figures on unemployment in Chicago and Cook county, as well as on the people in need of relief, were given yesterday by the governor's commission on unemployment as follows:

Unemployed registered in Chicago	125,000
Estimated registration in country towns	25,000
Emergency cases	50,000
Quick relief cases	8,000
Quick relief cases hitherto self-supporting	5,000
Indicated total needy	300,000

Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the campaign to raise $5,000,000 to help Chicago's unemployed, completed his plan of operation last night. The campaign formally opens tomorrow.

Sunday was no day of rest for Mr. Clarke. He was at his desk in the headquarters of Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission by 9 a. m. and, with only 10 minutes' respite for lunch, spent a 10 hour day conferring with and directing his lieutenants.

By 5 p. m. most of the campaign literature was ready for the printers. First there was a pamphlet entitled "What and Why?" setting forth the object of the drive, detailing the sums to be raised by respective subcommittees, and graphically portraying the need for the large sum asked.

Calls Conditions "Appalling."

To learn the background of the unemployment situation, Mr. Clarke spent hours conferring with social workers and relief experts serving on the governor's commission. At the conclusion of these conferences the campaign chairman, who, incidentally, is president of the Central Trust company, described the conditions portrayed to him as "appalling."

"Veteran welfare and charity workers say the situation is the worst in 25 years," said Mr. Clarke. "The charity organizations, swamped by appeals, are spending as much in one week as was formerly spent in an entire month.

"A typical district is the lower north side, where in normal years 200 families were cared for. Now more than 500 families are seeking aid. They have barely enough to eat, let alone clothing and shelter."

Estimates 300,000 Needy.

When final returns are in from the country towns, which held unemployment registrations on Saturday, the needy total of the county will have reached 300,000, Mr. Clarke estimated.

"The $5,000,000 we are after is not too much," he said. "Every cent of it will be needed to care for the destitute and hopeless men, women and children who will otherwise become victims of the ravages of winter."

A second task completed yesterday by the campaign chairman was the drawing up of detailed instructions for the chairmen of the 26 trade and professional divisions through which he hopes to reach every contribution source in the county.

Instructions to Aids.

The "guide book," which was placed in the hands of printers last night, instructs chairmen on how to approach heads of corporations on their respective lists, what arguments to advance to effect a sympathetic reception, and how to set up the collection machinery in plants to be canvassed.

Mr. Clarke hopes to wind up his drive within two weeks after the start, he said, covering all the business and industrial sources in the city for the "big money." Thereafter, under his supervision, the campaign will be spread to the general public by appeals of "minute men at theaters," sale of buttons, special sales at mercantile establishments, and through other methods yet to be worked out.

Rowland Haynes, secretary of the University of Chicago and associate campaign chairman, telegraphed President Hoover yesterday suggesting that he call upon luncheon clubs and commerce associations throughout the United States to impose a 50 cent surcharge at the weekly luncheons, devoting the sum to unemployment relief.

Andrew J. Weisburg, proprietor of the Merchandise Mart restaurant and of two hotels, announced yesterday that the Chicago's Better Day committee, a group of business men, had obtained a charter and would dine at his restaurant next Monday evening and there discuss plans for an advertising campaign "to take the mourning band off the hat of Chicago."

Mother of Four Slain; Police at Loss for Motive

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Rosario Abato, 40, mother of four children from 9 to 15 years old, was found slain in her beauty shop here today. She had been shot in the head and abdomen. While the police were detaining her husband, they said they had not been able to establish a motive and that they had no clew to the killer.

UNITED CHARITIES TO LAUNCH WINDUP DRIVE WEDNESDAY

With a luncheon on Wednesday for the 600 members of the trades group, the United Charities will launch its short and intensive windup campaign for the remainder of the $1,140,000 fund needed for its work in 1930.

The organization committee, headed by Scott Brown, is complete and includes 1,400 workers in the church and women's divisions, besides the 600 in the trades group. Reports on pledges to date will be made at Wednesday's luncheon, to be held at the Palmer house.

"There has been some confusion with reference to the governor's unemployment commission and the United Charities," said Mr. Brown. "The governor has sanctioned our campaign and the two do not conflict in any way. The governor's commission is working on unemployment; the United Charities is conducting its regular family work, much increased this year because of current conditions."

Estimate Based on Report of Census Bureau.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The latest attempt to estimate the number of unemployed workers in the United States has been completed by the department of commerce, which sets a figure of 3,400,000 persons out of work in September.

The first attempt to gather statistics on unemployment was made by the census bureau when it took the decennial census last April.

Charge Estimate Too Low.

Criticism was directed at the census figure of 2,500,000 idle. It was claimed that only those actually out of work were considered, while those on layoffs without pay had not been counted.

An estimate in August, which President Hoover used in commenting on unemployment, took workers on layoffs into account and arrived at a total of 3,500,000 jobless persons. Still other estimates, which included idleness on account of sickness or disability, employable immigrants without jobs, and graduate students not returning to school, placed the total as high as 4,800,000 unemployed.

Based on Census Figures.

The department of commerce estimate is based upon the April census figures with the number of idle on account of lay offs included, and the development of unemployment conditions figured in according to monthly reports issued by the department of labor.

It is pointed out that any estimate is at best an approximation, and credit is given to the last year's relief measures for the fact that unemployment is not so distressing here as it is in other industrial countries.

Quake on Jersey Island Makes Many Flee Homes

ST. HELIER, Island of Jersey, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A severe earthquake today sent many Jersey residents running from their houses to the streets, despite a heavy rain. The shock, which occurred at 3:45 p. m., was preceded and followed by loud rumbling. No damage had been reported late today. The quake, however, was more severe than one felt here Tuesday evening.

Woman Struck at Party Dies of Skull Fracture

Mrs. Ethel Davis, 26 years old, 2904 Wallace street, died yesterday in the county hospital of a skull fracture which she suffered from a blow on the head with a candlestick at a party in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, 426 West 28th place, on Nov. 7. Before she died Mrs. Davis declared she did not know who struck her and the Fishers also denied knowledge. The Fishers were held for the inquest today.

Wife Slayer Lives After Triple Suicide Attempt

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—John Schoberl, manager of a grocery store, killed his wife with a razor today, after a quarrel. In an attempt to commit suicide, Schoberl slashed his own throat and wrists, took poison, and leaped two floors to the sidewalk. Although forty stitches were taken in his throat, physicians said he will live to face the death penalty on a murder charge.

MORE FAMILIES ADDED TO WORK OF GOOD FELLOWS

Small Children in Need of Food and Heat.

Another group of families, carefully investigated as to needs and worthiness by trained social service workers, was listed yesterday at the Good Fellow headquarters, in THE TRIBUNE office at Dearborn and Madison streets. These families are destitute and must rely for food, shelter and clothing this winter upon Good Fellows.

Reports on these families are received at the Good Fellow headquarters in thumbnail sketches prepared by the social service investigators. Some typical examples are the following:

Widow with Five Children.

Mrs. R.—A widow with five children, all boys, ages ranging from 3 to 16 years. When Mr. R. died, not long ago, the family was buying a home. They had a small equity and a large mortgage. They were unable to meet payments and the property was lost. Mrs. R. obtained housework and tried to support the family on her earnings. A few days ago, however, she was warned by a physician that she will have to give up this work immediately as she has high blood pressure and kidney trouble.

D.—A man, his wife, a daughter of 17, a daughter of 4, and a son, 1 year old. Last April, Mr. D. was taken from his place of employment to the county hospital. He was placed in the tubercular ward and later transferred to Oak Forest infirmary. He was discharged from the infirmary three weeks ago, the doctors saying he is able to do light work. But with many well men unable to find employment, he hasn't found a job. The family's only income is $8 a week earned by the older girl. They will need help until the man becomes strong and finds a job.

War Veteran Needs Help.

McC.—A man and wife and three children, 6, 3 and 1 year old. He is a war veteran receiving treatment at a government hospital for varicose veins. He is unemployed. He has borrowed the limit on his government insurance and his claim for a disability allowance has been rejected.

M.—Woman and seven children, the oldest a boy of 13 and the youngest twins born in 1928. Mr. M., a building laborer, after months of unemployment, has gone to Cleveland on the prospects of a job there that did not materialize. Mrs. M. is being treated at a tuberculosis sanitarium. There's no income for food, shelter, heat or clothes.

More Help Is Needed.

The stories are all alike in that they tell of destitution. It is such families that the Good Fellow fund is carrying through the winter, or at least until they can become self-supporting with the return of prosperity and jobs for all who are able and willing to work.

On this page is published a coupon for those who want to help. You can adopt one of these families by yourself, if you are able, or with your associates in your office, your church, your factory, or with your neighbors. Or your outright donation, whether $1 or $1,000, can be applied against the budget of these or similar families. Every penny contributed to the Good Fellow fund reaches some destitute family. THE TRIBUNE pays the expenses of administration.

WOMAN DIES FROM POISON.

Mrs. Estelle Manne, 40 years old, 1520 North La Salle street, died yesterday in St. Elizabeth's hospital of poison taken Friday night.

GODDESS CERES WILL BE GIVEN QUICK CLEANING

Ceres, goddess of grain and harvests, is going to have her dirty face washed.

Ceres is the proud, immobile figure perched atop the new Board of Trade building, Jackson boulevard and La Salle street. Her perch is the loftiest point in the city. It is also surrounded by skyscraper chimneys and smokestacks. As a result, Ceres has been coated with soot, and she has lost considerable of her glimmer which, when she was immaculate, made her visible for miles.

Not only the face of Ceres is soiled, of course, so the cleaning job calls for a complete washing. The job will be done in less than a minute, according to Peter J. Niemann, exchange headquarters supervisor for the board. He has devised a permanently fixed sandblaster, automatically operated by air pressure, which will clean Ceres by the mere press of a button and restore her immaculate, dazzling shine. The cleaning will be soon, he said.

SHOOTS UP AUTO WHEN ITS HORN AWAKENS HIM

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—College Point, L. I., is a quiet suburb of this big city, and Anton Kral, printer by trade, is going to keep it so, especially on Sunday mornings.

He proved his point to John Sleter, a man of 51 years, who likes to toot on his automobile horn, even on Sabbath mornings. Kral, after asking Sleter to desist, fired a shotgun full of slugs into the automobile, with small detriment to the driver, but with the effect that the Sleter horn ceased tooting while the Sleter car dashed off to the nearest police station.

Sleter reported damages to his right toe, where one slug took lodgment, and the police took Anton Kral into custody. Today the printer will explain his novel method of silencing horn tooters in the presence of a Flushing judge.

DIES FROM STREET CAR INJURY.

It's almost impossible to say exactly what has brought about this important fashion of Low Heels.

Some attribute it to the longer dresses. Others say it is the Grecian influence. Still others say that this age of individuality is responsible, with Youth having its way regardless of the fashion authorities.

But whatever the reason, all are agreed that an astonishing Low Heel vogue is upon us, and all femininity is in favor of it!

Yet why not? Who doesn't welcome the ease, the smartness, the swankiness, the youthfulness of Low Heels? And finding all these factors present in the I. Miller Low Heel array, the fashion-minded women of America have come to accept I. Miller as the Low Heel leader of 1930.

TINKHAM AGAIN URGES CANNON BE PROSECUTED

Charges Bishop Violated Corrupt Practices Act.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Special.]—A fresh demand for the prosecution of Bishop James Cannon Jr. on charges of violating the federal corrupt practices act during the 1928 political campaign was made upon Attorney General W. D. Mitchell today by Representative George Holden Tinkham [Rep., Mass.].

Asserting that the attorney general had taken "no action whatsoever" on his request a year ago for a department of justice inquiry into Bishop Cannon's activities, Mr. Tinkham in a letter to Mr. Mitchell "formally and officially" called upon him to place before a federal grand jury the facts brought out by the senate lobby investigation committee last winter.

Tinkham's Statement.

"Unless the evidence is placed before a federal grand jury shortly the operation of the statute of limitation will bar action against Bishop Cannon and he will be granted immunity by you from the penalty of a gross violation of a criminal statute and of conduct wholly lawless," said Representative Tinkham.

"Therefore there arises for your determination the question whether this officer, Bishop Cannon, and other officers of ecclesiastic organizations may indulge in political activities in contravention of the constitution and the traditions of our country and be regarded nevertheless as immune from the operation of criminal statutes."

Outgrowth of 1928 Election.

As chairman of the Anti-Smith Democrats, according to the Tinkham charges, Cannon received $65,300 from E. C. Jameson, a New York capitalist, and reported receipt of only $17,000 to the clerk of the house as provided by the corrupt practices act. Following the lobby committee inquiry, the Massachusetts representative made these charges on the floor of the house. He was warned by Bishop Cannon at that time of prosecution if he repeated them off the floor.

Mr. Tinkham said in his letter to the attorney general that the charges were repeated off the floor and that the bishop had not denied them. He suggested that Mr. Mitchell begin his inquiry by examining the bank records of checks involved in the transactions.

Bishop Cannon at present is confined at a Washington hospital where his condition is said by his physicians to be serious. His latest public statement was in connection with a $5,000,000 libel suit brought against W. R. Hearst on Oct. 16.

FIRE IN LOOP BUILDING.

MAY NAME JUDGE TODAY TO HEAR SANITARY CASES

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court said yesterday that if, as expected, opposing counsel in the sanitary district indictment cases report to him today that they are unable to agree on a trial judge he will appoint a judge to preside at the trial. He said he did not have any particular judge in mind as yet.

Most of the defendants, including Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, and Trustees John J. Tuohy and James M. Whalen, are Democrats, but Trustees Frank J. Link, John Lawler and August Mueller are Republicans, so it makes little difference whether a Republican or Democratic judge is chosen, it was pointed out. The indictment charges them with conspiracy and declares they mishandled the funds of the district.

Judge McGoorty said it is not anticipated that they will be placed on trial immediately after a judge is assigned to the trial. There are many preliminary motions to be disposed of, which may take a month or more.

ROB COAL COMPANY CASHIER.

Two armed bandits yesterday held up N. A. May, cashier of the Eastman Coal company, who was alone in the company offices at 3443 South La Salle street, and obtained $230 from the cash drawer and a revolver. May lives at 308 West 76th street.

CERMAK REPLIES TO MALONE ON TAX PUBLICATION

Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board and Democratic leader, was asked yesterday if he had replied to the query of William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, asking when the real estate assessment lists are to be published.

"I don't want to give a short answer to Mr. Malone," President Cermak said, "but if Malone hadn't got us into trouble we'd have eight million dollars in our pockets now. The Republicans held back the tax bills, being afraid if they sent them out before election the county would have been unanimously Democratic. The bills that will go out any day now will show a general increase of 20 per cent. Then the next set of tax bills will be another 20 per cent higher.

"When Malone ordered the reassessment in 1927 he told us it would cost $800,000 and take four months, but it's been going on for four years and has cost us $8,000,000. Our first bids on the printing of the assessments were $90,000 and we rejected them, and finally we have a bid of $30,000, so we saved $60,000 by not letting Malone rush us."

SEVEN ALDERMEN TO HOLD 2 JOBS, CERMAK ASSERTS

Will Take New Offices, but Stay in Council.

Seven of the eight Democratic aldermen elected to other offices on Nov. 4 will not give up their council memberships when they take their new offices, Anton J. Cermak, Democratic county chairman, asserted yesterday. They will disregard an opinion by Corporation Counsel Ettelson that they must vacate their aldermanic jobs when they qualify for their other positions.

"The council is the judge of its own membership and we feel certain the council will not reject the offers of the seven to serve the city without pay until new aldermen are elected for their places," Chairman Cermak said. "There is plenty of precedent for the holding of two public offices at the same time.

Cites Other Office Holders.

"City Treasurer Charles S. Peterson is also a county commissioner. County Commissioner John Jaranowski is mayor of Calumet City, Commissioner Kriz is clerk of Western Springs, Commissioner Schmidt is or was also president of his village board. Several men, including myself, have been alderman and representative at the same time."

Cermak was asked what he expected would happen if Mayor Thompson directs the city clerk to refuse to call the names of the two job aldermen on roll calls. He said he believed the council would direct the city clerk to keep their names on the roll call.

Seven Aldermen Named.

The seven aldermen who—if Cermak's forecast proves true—will have double duties are: Joseph B. McDonough, who was elected county treasurer; William D. Meyering, elected sheriff; George Self, elected clerk of the Criminal court; George Maypole, elected state senator, and Thomas J. Bowler, Thomas F. Byrne, and Dennis A. Horan, elected sanitary district trustees. Ald. Albert J. Horan will resign from the council when he takes his new office as bailiff of the Municipal court on the theory that it is a city office, unless present plans are changed, Mr. Cermak said.

The Democratic organization as well as many civic agencies wishes to keep the aldermen in their present offices during the budget making session at least. As the present membership of the council is 24 Democrats and 26 Republicans the loss of all the eight Democratic aldermen might make it easier for the mayor to control, Cermak said.

Urges Change in Primary Law.

Cermak also said it would be desirable to change the state laws regarding the dates of the coming mayoralty and aldermanic primaries. As the law now reads, the mayoralty primary would be held on Feb. 17, and on Feb. 24 the aldermanic primary would be held. If Thompson should be renominated for mayor he would be in a position to force the election of many aldermen favored by him, Cermak said. Merging the two primaries would save the city $500,000, he added.

No decision has been reached in Democratic conferences on the election of the new president of the sanitary board. The eight Democratic trustees are reported to be undecided between Trustee Ross A. Woodhull and Trustee Elect Bowler.

KILLS SELF WITH KNIFE.

William Howard, 37 years old, 4434 South Park way an unemployed Negro, died yesterday in Provident hospital of self-inflicted knife wounds in a suicide attempt.

40 NATIONS PLAN WAR ON DUMPING AS TRADE EVIL

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Nov. 16.—An outcry against dumping as one of the greatest obstacles to a tariff truce has been raised among the delegates of 40 odd countries arriving here tonight for a conference on concerted economic action in Europe to end the trade depression which opens tomorrow. Several delegations, notably the French and Swedish, have served notice that they will place the dumping question before the conference.

"It is self-evident," says a French memorandum, "that it will be useless to attempt further progress toward commercial understanding until some substantial result has been obtained toward the elimination of practices of indirect protectionism, of dumping, and other obstructionist tactics which often have more harmful effect than customs barriers themselves."

Sweden urges the need for a definition of dumping since it has appeared in too many forms to be controlled under any one form. Agricultural dumping by means of a system of export certificates is rapidly growing, Sweden points out, and is having a disorganization influence on price levels.

U. S. MAY DEPEND ON FOREIGN DEBT TO AVOID DEFICIT

Payments Can Be Used to Retain Income Tax Cuts.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—More gradual retirement of the public debt is being forced upon the government.

President Hoover, if he finally decides to recommend a continuation of this year's reduced income tax rates, will be obliged to sanction temporary use of foreign debt interest payments for current expenditures, and may go so far as to favor doing so permanently.

Treasury officials have indicated that the foreign debt interest payments may have to be used for ordinary expenditures to avert a large deficit, whether the low tax rates are continued or not, but their disposition has been to oppose adoption of a permanent policy of this nature.

Repayments of Principal.

It is estimated that the treasury during the current fiscal year will receive $236,143,599 from foreign governments on their debts to the United States. Of this sum, $51,579,059 will be repayments of principal and $184,564,540 will be payments of interest.

Under existing law there is nothing to prevent the use of the interest payments for current expenditures, but the treasury has gone on the assumption that the foreign nations might exercise their option of paying in American securities rather than in cash. In practice the securities thus received have been canceled, constituting a reduction in the domestic debt, while the cash has gone into the annual surplus, which has found its way into debt reduction in connection with short term financing operations. Recently, however, foreign nations have found it desirable to pay entirely in cash, and on the theory that they will continue to do so during the coming year it will be possible to include the $184,564,540 in advance estimates of amounts available for current expenditures during the current year.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon did not, however, include any of this amount when he advised the President six months ago that if the reduced income tax rates of the present year were continued it would mean a deficit of one hundred eighty million dollars under conditions then existing.

Further Revenue Shrinkage.

Since Mr. Mellon made this estimate there has been a further shrinking in revenues and an expansion in expenditures so that the foreign debt interest payments might have to be supplemented by increased temporary borrowings to tide over the next year or so if the low tax rates are continued.

Actually, the amount of the foreign debt payments which can be used for current expenditures is several millions greater than the interest total. About 8 per cent of the indebtedness of foreign countries represents relief and war supplies loans and principal payments on this indebtedness can be used for current operations if they are made in cash. It is estimated that this item will amount to $4,125,460 this year which, with the interest payments, would give a total of $188,690,000.

Even if the foreign debt interest payments are used for current expenditures the reduction in the public debt during the present fiscal year will amount to upwards of $450,000,000. The statutory sinking fund will amount this year to about $400,000,000 and this will be supplemented by the principal payments by foreign nations and a few minor items.

Adopt Permanent Policy.

Adoption of a permanent policy under which the annual reduction in the public debt would be limited to the sinking fund and principal payments from foreign nations would still make possible the wiping out of the entire present debt of about $16,000,000,000 within the next 25 years. If all foreign debt payments were to continue to be added to the sinking fund it is estimated that the debt would be paid off within 17 years, and the time still would be further shortened if occasional surpluses were accumulated.

The sinking fund, which represents 2½ per cent of the aggregate debt on July 1, 1920, minus foreign obligations held on that date, increased each year by the amount of the interest which would have been paid on debt retired during the previous year, will amount in 1947 to $778,260,000. This sum plus $363,533,240, the estimated amount of foreign debt payments in 1947, would complete the retirement of the public debt in that year if there is no change in present policies.

In the fiscal year 1930 the aggregate debt reduction amounted to $745,778,650. This included a surplus of about $185,000,000 besides the sinking fund and foreign debt payments and minor items. In 1929 the reduction was $673,204,717; in 1928, $907,613,730; in 1927, $1,131,309,383; in 1926, $872,977,572; in 1925, $734,619,101; in 1924, $1,098,894,375; in 1923, $613,674,342, and in 1922, $1,014,068,844.

KEMAL WINS BIG CONFIDENCE VOTE OF TURK DEPUTIES

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mustapha Kemal Pasha today retained his control of parliament after a hot battle in the assembly at Angora last night. The parliament expressed confidence in the government by a vote of 225 to 10.

Fethi Bey, opposition leader, opened the fight with an attack on Kemal's minister of interior. He said the minister had not allowed the citizen to vote freely in the recent municipal elections.

"You want to kill the opposition party, fearing free opposition will bathe the nation in blood," cried Fethi Bey. Members of parliament shouted him down, however. The vote of confidence was taken on a question of the minister of interior's worthiness.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The "baby" air car, whose running cost for gasoline and oil is estimated as low as one cent a mile, has arrived. It is a midget edition of a popular light plane for use by private owners, seats two, and is now undergoing final tests at the Croydon airdrome. It is claimed that it will make a speed of 100 miles per hour. Driven by an air cooled motor it is able to come down slowly, which enables a safe landing on a small field.

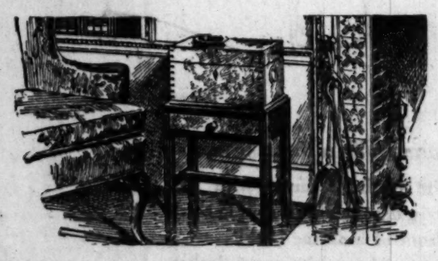
TESTS FOR INTELLIGENT PEOPLE—A SERIES

Why did Virginia gentlemen invite cabinetmakers as their guests?

In the 1700's in Virginia, most of the furniture was built by journeymen craftsmen, of woods cut on the plantations. Thus the master craftsman was always sure of a welcome and often spent as much as a year on the estate of a Virginia gentleman. Among the choice objects made at that time were beautifully joined lock boxes mounted on frames in which the connoisseur was accustomed to keep his prize vintages. Pictured below is an authentic reproduction of a Virginia wine box adapted as a humidor made by the Danersk Scotch and English craftsmen who are even more skilled than the journeymen cabinetmakers of the 1700's.

Which wood looks like ivory?

Fine furniture is often inlaid with a wood that closely resembles ivory in whiteness and texture. This wood, known as holly or boxwood, comes from the same tree whose evergreen branches and bright scarlet berries are annually wreathed to celebrate Christmas. When inlaid by hand, as in the Danersk Virginia Humidor pictured below, the white lines of boxwood add beauty and value to a fine furniture piece.



The Danersk Virginia Humidor is made with hand dovetailed corners of beautiful burled woods whose borders are inlaid with boxwood, rosewood, amaranth, ebony and walnut. The ring-pulls are imported from England. The interior is equipped with the best Benson & Hedges cork lined humidor. A worthy gift for the head of the house or a business executive!

We have recently published a seventy-two page book on "How to Know Good Furniture." If you will write us specifically about your home, a copy will be sent you. Call and see the furniture itself where you are welcome to inspect at your leisure hundreds of different designs collected over a period of years and based on valued antiques and rare originals in private collections and museums. Convenient monthly terms may be arranged by the Danersk Plan.

U. S. TO FINISH EVIDENCE TODAY AT GUZIK TRIAL

Barker and Sammons to Face Courts Anew.

Federal prosecutors said yesterday that they expect to conclude the presentation of evidence against Jack Guzik today. Guzik, a public enemy, vice monger who joined with Al Capone in gambling ventures, is on trial charged with defrauding the government of more than $200,000 in income taxes for 1927, 1928 and 1929.

The government's contention that Guzik's income during those three years from gambling houses alone was nearly $1,000,000 may be the subject of testimony by Nels Tessem, special agent who computed Guzik's income from records of deposits in two banks. Assistant United States Attorney Jacob I. Grossman argued that Tessem's testimony is admissible when Capt. William F. Waugh, defense attorney, challenged the reliability of such testimony. Federal Judge Woodward is to rule on the question today.

Trial of O'Brien Next.

The trial of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien of the 29th district, who was reelected on Nov. 4, is on Judge Woodward's call for today. Prosecutor Grossman said it was probable that O'Brien's trial would begin as soon as the Guzik case is finished. Representative O'Brien was indicted on a charge of evading income tax payments amounting to $70,000, alleged to be owed by him on the profits of his trucking business.

Two other public enemies besides Guzik are scheduled for court appearances today. They are George (Red) Barker and James (Fur) Sammons. Barker, who gained control of the coal teamsters' union after being released from prison, is to appear before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, who sent him back to Pontiac reformatory two months ago. Sammons is to be arraigned on charges of burglary growing out of his arrest three years ago while stealing whisky out of a government warehouse.

Ask Transfer for Barker.

Barker will appear before Judge McGoorty on a motion to transfer him from Pontiac to the Joliet penitentiary. Pontiac is for prisoners under the age of 26 and Barker is over 30. He was under 26 when he was paroled on two occasions, but was well over the age when returned to Pontiac three years ago for his third violation of parole.

Sammons, who has a long criminal record, was convicted in federal court on the whisky robbery charge and sentenced to eighteen months in Leavenworth prison. The technical charge in that case was violation of the whisky tax sections of the internal revenue law. No action was taken in the state courts until last week when Judge Lyle in the Felony court issued burglary and robbery warrants for Sammons, William ["Klondike"] O'Donnell, John Barry and George Davis. The four were caught in the act of siphoning whisky from barrels in the Morand Brothers warehouse through a garden hose and into barrels in a cottage several doors away.

Sammons is now on trial before Judge Jonas on a vagrancy charge. Yesterday he was paraded with 310 other prisoners at the police showup in the detective bureau. The showups have been resumed after a lapse of five months.

Boy, 13, Is Stoned to Death by Five of His Playmates

Northfork, W. Va., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Bruised and battered by stones hurled by playmates, Norman Williams, 13, struggled home, but died as his father bore him in his arms up the steps of a hospital. Five boys, ranging in age from 8 to 15 years, are held awaiting a hearing. All six, they said, were returning home from a movie. Norman lagged behind. As he caught up with his companions a stone was thrown, and then another. Soon it was a battle, five against one.

EXPECT BRIEF POSTPONEMENT OF FOLEY TRIAL

The trial of Matt Foley, who while an assistant circulation manager for the Herald and Examiner operated a fake lottery on the Kentucky Derby, will probably be postponed in Judge Joseph Sabath's court this morning. The reason for the postponement is that Judge Sabath is now occupied with the murder trial of Frank H. Bell and Richard Sullivan, who are charged with killing Christ Patras, manager of the Villa Rica café.

Assistant State's Attorneys Walker Butler and Ross Lee Laird, who have charge of the prosecution of both cases, said that the postponement will be a short one. They will insist, they said, that the Foley case go to trial immediately following the Bell-Sullivan case.

Foley, it is charged, was the head of the fake lottery which distributed some 50,000 tickets on the Derby. The alleged plan was to issue tickets on a horse not expected to run in the Derby. Instead, the horse did run, and Foley has not made the payments of $50 for each ticket, according to the charges.

ADVICE TO DRYS IN CONGRESS.

Although Republican party leaders of the dry persuasion are ascribing the late unpleasantness entirely to business depression or, as Brother Fess quaintly remarks, to the general world-wide political unrest, the dry bosses in both parties would be well advised to look certain disagreeable facts in the face. It is true, the business depression played a foremost part in the Republican reverse, but so did the prohibition issue. Any one in touch at all with sentiment in this rock ribbed Republican stronghold knows that Republicans who would be the last to desert their party on account of business conditions were voting the Democratic ticket straight. That was because they were determined to accept no compromise or uncertainty on prohibition issues.

They represented the swiftly rising tide of revolt against prohibition. That revolt began with the beginnings of prohibition outrages. It has steadily grown as the consequence of prohibitionism spread over the country, the invasions of private liberty, the confiscations of private property, the wounding and killing of citizens on suspicion, the growth of intemperance among our youth, the hypocrisies of dry lawgivers, the rise of the powerful illicit liquor industry with its army of killers and the general corruption of agencies of the law. The storm is still rising. On Nov. 4 it swept away many buttresses of the dry régime. It did not level the whole structure. Congress is still dry, but the dry votes have been cut drastically, and this is only the beginning.

If dry leadership is wise it will face the situation. It will realize that in the present congress, which is on the old basis, its dictates will have more weight than in the next, to say nothing of the congress of two years hence. Dry leadership can continue on its way to its own destruction by continuing to support and demand the outrages which have roused the American conscience, or it can bring the dry régime into some conformity to American sentiment and opinions. It can shake off the folly of its fanatic extreme and put a stop to dry outrage and oppression while there is yet time to save something of its credit among self-respecting and sensible Americans. It can begin to prepare for a restoration of American rights and for a rational solution of the problem of liquor control, or it can put itself completely out of court.

The American people will not tolerate the rule of fanatics and racketeers of reform. They will not barter their birthright for the mess of poisonous pot ge prohibition has produced. The problem of liquor control will be solved in the only way in which it can be solved, by well considered measures consistent with American principles.

CALIFORNIA AND MR. CAPONE.

Donald D. Conn, managing director of Fruit Industries, Ltd., and of the California Vineyardists association, being in Chicago, said that the Pacific coast grape production, with the financial and legal backing of the United States government, would continue to do business even if Al Capone tried to prevent it. There may be a wine publicity agent hiding in this story somewhere [it ferments legally in your basement], but often when gangland is least credible it is most so. When the government-subsidized wine production of California bucks the Capones anything is possible.

Mr. Capone, according to a story coming out of Fresno, has notified the official wine producers that their competition in his markets will not be allowed. They are scabbing a good bootlegging trade. The California grape industry is regulated almost entirely by the demand for non-Volstead beverages. The production is for alcoholic drinks, whether the customer takes the grapes and makes his own or buys a processed juice with the understanding if not the guaranty that it will ferment after he has bought it and will give him an illegal beverage.

These facts are notorious and the California grape growers wish them to become more so. Thus far neither the eighteenth amendment nor the Volstead act has interfered with the prosperity of the growers, who are exceptionally well wired in politically. Not only has the government not interfered with the industry; it has financed it. One of the early items in farm relief was a government loan to the grape growers who supply the demand for alcoholic beverages. When Mr. Conn said that the industry was backed by the dry government in Washington he might have explained that it had been given $14,000,000 of the farm relief fund. That helps put wine at the disposal of dry America.

Mr. Capone may subsidize branches of government, but he is not known to be subsidized by any. He is described in a Florida indictment as "a person of vicious, dissolute, low, immoral, depraved and lawless habits and character," which is part of the truth, but he has not asked the government to back him financially in his violations of the prohibition law.

It ought to make an interesting fight, if it comes off. Mr. Conn will rely upon the financial, moral and police support of the United States government; Mr. Capone upon his usual methods. Thus the noble experiment progresses toward perfection.

REMAIN ON GUARD.

The eight aldermen elected to other offices include some of the ablest and strongest members of the city council. They are all needed during the period in which appropriations are made up and passed. They are more needed for this period at their present posts than at those to which they have been elected, and we think it is their duty to remain until the more important and urgent service is performed, if legal justification can be found, as we think it can.

UNIONISM IN DECLINING INDUSTRIES.

Eight hundred delegates, says a news report, representing the five principal trainmen's unions in the United States and Canada, have been conferring in Chicago upon measures to obtain a six hour day.

The conference suggests some interesting reflections. Railroad employés represent a high level of intelligence in organized labor and both their leaders and the rank and file are undoubtedly aware that the railroad industry is carrying burdens and meeting new conditions which seriously restrict its progress and even endanger its prosperity. Not only does it carry a very heavy weight of taxation, but its revenue is limited by law, and it is meeting an increasing competition from new agencies of transport which operate under no such handicaps or restrictions. The conclusion that railway transportation has reached its zenith and will henceforth decline is held by many, and it is apparent, at any rate in this time of general business depression, that in spite of the comparative prosperity of those railroads that are most fortunately conditioned the industry as a whole is in a very poor situation to meet any serious new exactions. The establishment of a six hour day, for which of course the same wage would be demanded as the eight hour day, would increase the cost of rail transportation radically and thereby strengthen competition by the new agencies of transport. Unless their revenues were substantially increased the railroads could hardly survive this increase of their cost of operation, and even if the interstate commerce commission permitted higher rates, the handicap in competition with untaxed or lightly taxed and almost unregulated transport would remain.

Does the labor situation on the railroad support the theory that unionism reaches its greatest power in industries that have reached or passed their best days, and that in its strength unionism is prone to demand more and more than the industry can give, thus gradually bleeding it to death?

Certainly the problem of union leadership in such a situation is difficult. If leaders do not constantly strive for bettering in immediate terms the conditions of the membership they will be attacked by rivals seeking office and are likely to be put out. A foresight which would take account of the eventual consequences might not and probably would not be shared by the rank and file, especially as it would be misinterpreted by rivals as unfaithfulness to the interests of the rank and file. There are also in the railroad unions those who favor state ownership and who therefore would not regard a process destructive of private ownership as something to be avoided.

Whatever may be said in favor or against the reduction of the hours of labor, the problem is one which cannot be intelligently considered apart from the conditions of each industry. In the case of the railroads the public has a special interest as it has a special responsibility. We have established public regulation, but we are not ready to adopt public ownership or public operation. American individualism is not tempted to take so long a step into state socialism. But if the railroads are to survive as private enterprise the economic conditions of survival must be assured to them. If the six hour day is desirable, it must be justified economically in the conditions of the industry.

INJUNCTIONS AGAINST RACKETEERS.

The former head of a local union has resorted to injunction proceedings to restore him to office. He was shot out of it by gangsters who took over the union as a racket. The latter are now in jail and the ousted union official considers it safe for the time being to appeal to a court of equity in his own behalf.

Perhaps a court of equity can give him a protection the Criminal court was not able to provide. Time will tell. Meanwhile we suggest that any measure for the limitation of injunctions to be passed by congress or the legislatures of states shall be formulated so as not to prevent or improperly restrict this use against racketeers.

Editorial of the Day

BLACK ARTERIES.

[Providence Bulletin.]

To the Romans a road was a means to an end. Straight as a string, built with uncompromising zeal over all obstacles; streams, marshes, mountains, other men's property, and the numerous other irregularities which lie in the path of material logic, your Roman road was designed to "get there."

The superhighways which our latter day road builders are advocating have no such simple duty. They are to be the nourishing arteries of our entire economic system, employing thousands of laborers in their construction and upkeep, stimulating hundreds of wayside industries.

There is something fantastic in the vision of America rolling joyously along the broad highways from Maine to California, bypassing the cities, hurdling the mountains, skimming the plains, consuming sandwiches and gasoline, and keeping business humming by wear and tear on apparatus.

They say—or they used to—that a hundred persons are involved in the natural life of one needle from its birth in the mine to its interment in a crack of the sewing room floor. Think of the millions involved in the eternal life of these superhighways. The conception becomes staggering under the added thought of the five day week releasing carloads of customers over the week-end. People spend twice as much on holidays as they do on workdays.

We confess that we lack the prophetic vision to see how successfully this enthusiastic migration would solve the difficulties that confront us. But of all the panaceas which the troubled times have called forth this one of black arteries certainly makes the liveliest imaginative appeal. "We don't know where we're going, but we're on our way," isn't such a bad slogan for a light-hearted people—at least it wouldn't be if they didn't have to come back.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Of the various forms of ordinary contagious disease only measles and whooping cough are matters of much concern to health departments. Practically every person over 15 years of age, who has lived his childhood years in a city, has had measles. A. W. Hedrich gives the percentage thus protected as 95. The people who live in the rural districts have not been so unlucky.

Measles epidemics come in waves. These waves are spaced about two years apart. The city that enjoys a low measles rate in 1930 should restrain its tendency to boast, for it is due for a fall in 1931.

Averaging the years, Hedrich finds that about one-sixteenth of the child population is scheduled to have measles in a given year. Of those over 15 years of age, only one person out of about each one hundred and forty is due to have the disease in a given year. As a rule, a person who has had measles will never have it again. There are a few exceptions.

In Baltimore, Hedrich found measles was most prevalent in the sixth year of life, though the seventh year was a close second, and the fifth year was not far behind. The opinion was based on the reported cases. In Aberdeen, Scotland, the fifth year was the year of greatest prevalence, as judged by all cases and reported cases, for many cases are never reported. In all cities, by the time school age is reached, most children have had their allotment of measles.

The disease is most fatal in the second year of life, though the first year is a close second. The disease becomes milder year by year. At age 10 and after, in Aberdeen, the death rate was very small. This means that, next to protecting a child completely, comes delaying his attack of measles until he reaches 10 years of age. We should take great care to protect every child under 2.

The problem of protection is an easy one so far as the individual family is concerned. All that need be done is to draw a little blood from either parent who has had measles and inject it into the muscles of the child. This should be done as soon as possible after exposure to the disease. In addition, all the precautions set forth in the laws should be obeyed.

The problem of the health department is more difficult, and will remain so until a proved preventive vaccine is marketed.

TUBERCULAR.

M. M. F. writes: 1. Are these symptoms of tuberculosis: A terrible cough, expectoration of blood and pus; coughs every half hour in daytime and all night; fever and night sweats; loss in weight and fatigue all the time?

2. Is there any danger in being around a person with these symptoms?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Yes.

APPARENTLY EYE STRAIN.

S. M. writes: Quite frequently my eyes tear and become inflamed. I have been informed that inflammation of the eyes is a natural course, is not dangerous, and that glasses are not necessary. If the latter statement is false will glasses remedy the defect? Is it possible that this same inflammation is the indirect cause of my headaches when I attend a movie?

REPLY.

My guess is that you need to wear properly fitted glasses and that your symptoms are the result of eye strain.

IT CAN BE DONE.

C. P. writes: Can knockkness be operated on and straightened?

REPLY.

1. Yes.

OPERATION FOR CYST.

C. H. D. writes: Please give cause and remedy for cyst and advise how same can be removed without surgical operation. The cyst is in the neck underneath the skin.

REPLY.

A cyst is a sac filled with water, grease, or something else. There is slim chance of cure except by operation.

NO MORE DUMPING.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—Last spring I complained about people using the empty lot in rear of my home for a dumping ground. You had the city clean this away and it was kept clean this summer. Now the people are beginning to dump their ashes, broken dishes, etc., in this lot. Would like to have the city keep this clean and post a sign up forbidding this practice under penalty. E. B. G.

Conditions complained of have been remedied. A "No dumping" sign will be erected shortly by this bureau.

JOINT OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband and I own real estate which is carried in both our names. We also have money invested in stocks and bonds which are in my husband's name only. He states that the bonds and stocks cannot be in my name, too. How can I safeguard myself so that my husband cannot sell these securities without my knowing it?

A. H.

One course would be to have them placed in a safety deposit box, under arrangement that both of you must be present whenever the box is opened.

POOR OPTICAL SERVICE.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About eight months ago my wife bought glasses from a doctor in Chicago. The lenses had to be changed in September, 1930. We went over to the same fellow. He fixed her up with glasses, but she could not see with them. He made them over and they were still worse, causing headaches. I paid $10 for same. Upon calling on him he promised to take care of it, but we never heard anything further from him. What can we do?

G. K.

If he has failed to exercise the care and skill that he undertook to exercise, you would be entitled to recover, but the amount is not sufficient to make court proceedings worth while.

SEEIN' THINGS!

London is all excited over the apparition of a helmeted and armed figure resembling Wagner's Siegfried floating in the air above the singers at a performance in Covent Garden. It may mean war, of course, or it may just mean that the people who saw the apparition have been drinking American hootch. No, it wouldn't be that, because if Yankee bootleg stuff was to blame the horrified spectators wouldn't have seen merely a specter of Siegfried in the air. They would have seen a dozen Siegfrieds mounted on pink elephants with polka dot tails playing tag on the chandeliers.

DESERTED HOUSE.

Within its walls no stirring greets the day,
Only the bat within the chimney flutters,
Only is heard the vagrant wind at play.

Perhaps when the last tear fell upon its threshold,
And lives went out to ne'er relume again,
Or in the splendid days when it was less old,
It was a sweet abode from wind and rain.

It held a promise then, the tendril love
Bloomed with its perfumed petals fair within,
Held in its precincts infinite treasure trove,
With golden hours as they came flooding in.

A house deserted is a lonely place,
Pity and loss and tragedy are there;
Once I recall I looked on a dead face,
And in such house there is that same dull stare.

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

DOWN in New Jersey the prohibition director has ordered his dry sleuths to arrest the consumers of booze as well as the likker merchants. And if there aren't enough patrol wagons the sleuths are told to commandeer all the taxis and buses that can be found. Oh, goodness, it will take more taxis and buses than that!

WE WERE OVER at the garage moaning about the service we got from our auto concern. The garage man said that's the way they all sobbed, no matter what car they owned. Then we got to thinking it over. Maybe the trouble is that the auto salesmen are so sweet and kind before we've bought a car, always greeting us with a kiss and asking us what we want for Christmas and everything, that after we've got the car—well, just another sucker caught, pulled into the boat, and salted away, so why bother any longer with him? This way to the wailing wall; bet we can sob louder than the rest of 'em, anyhow.

THE QUESTION of whether or not the income tax will be raised next year is hanging in the balance. And we're wondering not only if it will be raised but how we're going to raise enough jack to pay it.

TREES IN AUTUMN FOG.

When trees are cloaked in clouds of white,
I walk among them in cold fright.
In their clothed beauty comes to me
A certain foreign ecstasy.
Their thousand twigs do us implore!
But the sky will never answer. Nor Can I say anything that can
Be understood by them. Yet man
Must feel his bones are of some worth,
Knowing that when he's back in earth
His sinews will be seen in trees

NORMAN STRAND.

AND THERE YOU ARE! Dr. Albert Einstein himself, the inventor of the theory of relativity, which nobody understands but himself, confesses that he is absolutely unable to say which came first, the hen or the egg. So there is no use for the rest of us to bother with that question any more. If Doc Einstein can't settle it, it would be worse than foolishness for anybody else to try. But it must have been the hen came first, for if it had been the egg without a hen to lay it, then it wouldn't have been a hen's egg.

THE REPUBLICANS are sitting up nights worrying over what to do about prohibition. And the Democrats are sitting up nights worrying over how they can make the Republicans worry harder. Ach, worry, worry!

AND IF GOOD MR. FESS, the chairman of the national committee of the G. O. P., remains so sternly arid that he starts a party of his own, we wonder what its name will be. What about "Festers"?

SH-SH-SH! The stock ticker went up Saturday. Don't speak, don't breathe, don't move, on your life! Maybe—well, keep your eye on that corner down there. Maybe prosperity is just about to poke his head out, and if he does, grab him and choke him until he promises he won't run away again.

SOUND OF WATER.

To women waiting and enduring
What is the sea, what is its sound?
The women hungering and waiting—
What do they hear when waters pound?

They know the sea as a wary mistress
Who can outmatch, outwit their charms,
Who will be ever luring, holding
With changing moods and wide, wide arms.

What do they hear in the sound of water—
What do they hear, prolonged and deep?

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 17, 1914.

ROME.—A dispatch from Vienna says news has been received there that Cracow, capital of Galicia, is burning and that its inhabitants are fleeing.

LONDON.—A dispatch from northern France says: "There has been a heavy rain which has been almost incessant for 36 hours. The troops are in some danger of being washed out of the trenches. Meanwhile the battle continues, and shell and shrapnel fall as incessantly as the rain."

ROME.—The pope today caused to be published his announced encyclical urging peace among the warring nations in Europe. In this document the pontiff attributes the war to four causes: Lack of mutual and sincere love among men; contempt of authority; injustice on the part of one class of the people against another; and the consideration of material welfare as the sole object of human activity.

BERLIN.—An official statement says the Germans have stemmed the Russian tide all along the eastern frontier, and have administered severe defeats to the forces of Emperor Nicholas in East Prussia and farther south in Russian Poland.

CHICAGO.—The first of the many benefits expected from the new regional reserve bank system came almost simultaneously with the opening of the new Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago yesterday in the form of an announcement that the interest rates on collateral demand loans will be reduced by the larger national banks of the city from 7 to 6 per cent. This reduction on commercial paper is a sure sign of the lifting of the general depression throughout the country.

NOVEMBER 17, 1900.

LIMON, Colo.—A lynching more awful in its details than any ever known in the south took place in Colorado today when Preston Porter, a Negro, was chained to a railroad rail and burned to death in the outskirts of Limon for the murder of 13 year old Louise Frost. Never was vengeance ever meted out by a lawless mob in a more deliberate manner. Remarkable features of the affair were the parts taken by Gov. Thomas of Colorado and Sheriff Freeman of Lincoln county. The governor permitted the surrender of Porter, then in the Denver jail, to the officer from this county and the sheriff brought his prisoner by train to the station where he knew a mob was waiting.

CHICAGO. — C. B. Marks, 6559 Princeton avenue, fell from the 19th story gable of the Masonic temple and was caught in a rain gutter on the 17th story. There he lay for 19 hours in the snow and cold before a passerby saw him wave a paper and he was rescued with ropes and ladders, nearly dead from exposure.

CHICAGO.—If human life can be measured in money, Mrs. Florence Pullman Lowden is the most valuable woman in the world. It was announced that by policies recently placed she is insured for a quarter of a million dollars, the heaviest insurance carried by any woman.

NOVEMBER 17, 1880.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Congressman Strait, president of the board of trustees of the insane asylum of St. Peter, telegraphs at midnight that the number of dead, as the result of the fire which swept the institution, will not exceed 10. The inmates are being returned to their homes. Many of those who escaped, scantily clad, were found speeding over snow fields or burrowing themselves in the snow. It is expected many more will die from exposure.

DUBLIN.—John Bright, speaking at Birmingham, strongly condemned the land laws of Ireland, which virtually gave the proprietors a monopoly of the land. With regard to the future, he declared that force would effect nothing, and said the government would not approve the chimerical projects for transfer of land to tenants.

LONDON.—A Brussels dispatch says there is good reason to believe that 8,000 rifles were shipped recently to Ireland and that the rifles were purchased in Switzerland by Irishmen who had come from the United States.

CHICAGO.—In a quiet wedding at Grace Episcopal church, Miss Nellie Gross, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gross, became the bride of Frank Hadduck, only son of the late B. F. Hadduck.

THE $100,000 CONTRIBUTION

Chicago Nov. 14.—Referring to Notre Dame's approval of the transfer of the Northwestern-Notre Dame game to Soldiers' field in 1931 Father O'Donnell states: "It is not clear how Northwestern is to be reimbursed to the amount of $100,000 if the assumed excess receipts of the game do not total that amount." This same thought occurred to me when I first read of Northwestern's new proposal and have the following suggestion to offer:

Since Notre Dame and Northwestern are making every effort to help the poor, it is up to the public to coöperate with the universities and give them every assurance that they are behind the movement. The best way to do this, in my opinion, is for the 50,000 who will see this year's game and the thousands whose requests for tickets were denied, to send in their $3 for next year's contest at once. From the looks of things neither university will have a team of the same class as the present outfits, which would naturally affect the receipts for the game. But if all those who were so free in condemning the Big Ten for refusing permission to transfer the game this year for charity's sake are really sincere in their desire that the poor should be helped they will take a chance on next year's contest being as good as the one next week promises to be.

A year may seem to some a long time to look ahead, but since we have no lease on life, not even for the next second, we can just as easily plan ahead one year as one day. After all, there is nothing to lose and everything to gain; it is each individual's part in helping suffering humanity, and next year when football season comes around there will not be that last minute mad rush for tickets which cannot be secured because Notre Dame and Northwestern have turned out another set of championship teams.

HOW DRY IS KANSAS?

Hastings, Neb., Nov. 13.—In your editorial on Chairman Fess you mention dry Kansas. Just back from the football game of Kansas and Nebraska at Lawrence and wonder if any Illinois or Ohio people had ever been in Kansas; if so, they would not call this dry Kansas. Why not come out and see how dry Kansas is not?

Did you notice any one who was in favor of the dryness? Moderate wines and beer certainly would be preferable to the jake that is sold there.

A. A. LAWSON.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The request that Mr. Barrett should run for mayor ought to cause a smile of satisfaction to envelop every countenance in this city. Thus the slogan: GRIN AND BARRETT.

THE PROFITS OF BEGGING.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Perhaps my experience on a street car yesterday may be of interest to your readers. A pitiable dreg of humanity, a man about 35 years old, with both legs severed just above the knees, shabbily dressed, with an unkempt, dejected, hairy face, boarded a street car at 63d street and Stony Island avenue. He wabbled to the front end of the car, took off his shabby cap, and passed it in front of every passenger. In exactly two minutes he received money from twenty people, ranging from 5 to 25 cents each. Averaging, say, 19 cents, he netted $2. He alighted at the next intersection, 55th street, and then boarded another car. Figuring $2 for every five minutes, that is $24 an hour. Ten hours a day would net him $240. A month's income surely would reach, or at least approximate, $6,000. On this basis you can easily imagine what his bank account would total after a few years of such remunerative labor.

I am sure that his appeal to other passengers in other street cars is no different from the one in my experience. I often wonder if this poor, unfortunate beggar is not content with his pitiful affliction.

NUMBERING THE DAYS.

Elmhurst, Nov. 13.—Get this picture! Groups of children about 15 years of age, many of whom reverence the knowledge of physicians as scientific men—children, many of whom are highly impressionable at this age, naturally eager to hear some favorable comment as to their health and expectancy. Imagine, if you can, such a group under examination by a school physician being told they would die under 40 years of age!

This happened to my sister along with others at the York Community High school, Elmhurst, Ill. I was furious. Don't you think I had a right to be?

INDIGNANT.

DEMOCRATIC RESPONSIBILITY.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The gentleman out in Burlington, Ia., whose letter charges the Democrats with being the cause of the further slight decline in the stock market after the recent election, should at least give them the credit for the very substantial rally in that, and also a very much more optimistic tone in business conditions generally within the last few days. Of course, no one but a dumbbell would think for a minute that the great number of Democrats elected, who will not be in a position to do anything in the way of legislation for more than a year, when congress meets in December, 1931, would have anything to do with stock market prices now; if so, one would be compelled to put the blame for the continual slump in commodity prices of all kinds for the last year on the Republican party. As to prohibition, no one except fanatics and bootleggers are in favor of it.

BREACH OF PARIS AND ROME OVER NAVIES WIDENS

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 16.—Hopes of setting the Italo-French parity deadlock during the session of the league of nations' preparatory disarmament commission are dwindling as the viewpoints of Rome and Paris on all questions connected with armaments seem wider apart.

Following the Fascists' shift from favoring the budgetary limitation of navy material to backing up the United States' proposals for direct enumeration Italy is now reported to have about faced on the naval phase and favors a categorical limitation of sea power instead of the global tonnage system which France demands.

Reds Propose Limit.

The soviets have prepared an amendment to the big naval powers' pact by which the Reds demand limiting capital ships to 10,000 tons with 11 inch guns. Such battleships would be the same size as Germany's Ersatz Preussen, which mounts 11 inch guns.

Spain, Holland, and the Scandinavian nations desire a 100 per cent tonnage clause covering small cruiser and destroyer categories so they can shift their entire tonnage from one class to the other if conditions demand.

Discuss French Plan Today.

Tomorrow the preparatory commission is expected to take up the proposals of Rene Massigli, French delegate for a committee of experts to examine how war materials can be tabulated, enumerated and dealt with by the general disarmament conference.

When the general debate on war material is concluded, which is expected on Wednesday, the conference will take up naval statutes, which, after discussion, are expected to be handed to the naval subcommittee.

FRENCH SUGGEST GIVING LEAGUE OF NATIONS A STATE

Want Saar Basin to Be Buffer Country.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 16.—A suggestion that the seat of the league of nations be transferred from Geneva to Saarbruck and that the Saar mandate territory become a sort of European District of Columbia was offered today by the semi-official newspaper Le Temps under circumstances which indicate that the idea is being seriously considered by French statesmen, as well as journalists.

Le Temps points out that the Saar basin has an unique status in that it is governed by a league commission, thus constituting the only territory really "owned" by the league. The paper proposes that this condition be made permanent.

Would Have Own Army.

If this suggestion is adopted the league would become a full-fledged state with its own internal organization, laws, courts, customs, and army —especially an army.

Le Temps rallies to an idea recently expressed by the Socialist leader, Paul Boncour, that disarmament is impossible until the league possesses a super army which can be used against any country threatening the peace of Europe, and suggests that the population of the Saar, which is at present immune from military service, be enrolled to form the nucleus of the super-army. Thus the league would assume roughly the same status as the papal state before the cutting off of the temporal power of the popes, both a state and a super-state.

A number of arguments are advanced in favor of the project by French supporters. It is recalled that the activities of the league, which is merely the guest of Geneva, are often hampered by the jealousy with which the Swiss guard their independence and neutrality—as when the Swiss government quietly spiked the dream that the league officials operate their own radio station at Geneva for use in transmitting bessages in time of war.

Would End Wrangle.

Another argument is that the permanent occupation of the Saar by the league would definitely settle the question as to whom the territory is going to belong. Negotiations for the return to Germany of the mines, over which France was given rights by the treaty of Versailles, have broken down owing to the inability to agree on the price of indemnity. The eventual plebiscite, it is said, will probably have unsatisfactory results, although a large section of the inhabitants of the Saar are certain to declare for Germany.

Yet a third reason put forward is that in addition to cementing good will between Germany and France by removing one of the causes of discord, the plan would ensure peace by setting up a buffer state between the two countries. This would be especially advantageous from the French point of view, as the Saar territory, although not covering a wide area, occupies a strategic military position, and a German invasion would be crippled at the start by the necessity of making a detour around the league territory.

The enthusiastic tone with which Le Temps speaks of the plan is significant indication that it has official approval. It is undeniably calculated to appeal to all French pacificists and internationalists like Paul Boncour, and even such blazing Nationalists as Leon Bailby, editor of the powerful L'Intransigenat. A stumbling block, however, appears to be the German attitude. The Germans are certain that a referendum will restore to them almost all the Saar territory.

DEATH AND HAVOC IN WAKE OF TORNADOES IN FOUR DIXIE STATES

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 16. — (AP) — Tornadoes blustering through widely separated sections of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia today left an undetermined number of deaths and heavy property damage.

Details could not be ascertained immediately, as roads and other forms of communication from a number of rural communities stricken were blocked.

Country settlements in the vicinities of Alexandria and Winnsboro, La., and Brookhaven, Miss., were the first to report fatalities. At Brookhaven, Mrs. George Davis, 24, was crushed to death. Near Winnsboro, La., a Negro infant was hurled 75 yards by the force of the wind and killed. A Negro was killed near Alexandria, La.

Near Macon, Miss., 22 Negroes attending a funeral "wake" at a church were slightly injured but greatly frightened. The fright was caused by the sight of the casket containing the body of Brown Hughes, Negro, being hurled into a nearby field by the lashing wind.

HUNTER DROWNED AS BOAT UPSETS.

Havana, Ill., Nov. 16.—(AP)—John F. Zeman, 39, of Peoria, was drowned today when a boat from which he and two companions were hunting ducks was overturned by rough water on the Illinois river two miles south of Bath. The companions reached shore safely.

PERSIAN TRAFFIC COP FORCES SHAH TO OBEY ORDERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Nov. 16.—Political privilege, fixing tickets, and winking at minor violations of the traffic law mean nothing at least to one Persian policeman. He stopped Shah Riza Kahn this morning, just as the ruler of the Persians was unwittingly bent on breaking a Teheran traffic ordinance.

The police department had recently ordered one way traffic on a narrow street in the European quarter. The shah's car was driven into the street from the wrong end. The first traffic cop held up his hand. When he recognized the royal personage he changed his halting gesture into a salute, and the car passed on.

At the next block another traffic officer saw the car, recognized the occupant, and lifted two hands, one in salute and the other a motion to pull up to the curb. The shah, in a thunderous voice, asked who he was to stop the progress of the government, and the copper, still saluting, said he was only obeying orders. Riza Khan smiled at the explanation. But while the car was being backed out of the street he scolded his chauffeur for not keeping up on the traffic laws.

EMPLOYMENT

UNEMPLOYMENT

The days ahead offer to everyone who is able to buy a real chance to help those who are unable to buy.

Any curtailment of buying by those who are able to buy will result only in further unemployment.

People who are out of work would much rather receive wages than charity.

The need for widespread charity will disappear with the resumption of normal buying for normal needs.

People who still have jobs—by far the largest percentage of the population—are asked only to spend their money for their own needs. Then it will be unnecessary to ask them to put their money into circulation in the form of charity.

The need for charity at the present time is great. The need for normal buying is greater.

Give as much as you can to charity. At the same time spend your own money for your own normal Christmas requirements.

Unemployment and the need for charity will then automatically take care of themselves.

BRITISH AIR FORCE BOASTS FASTEST PLANES IN WORLD

U. S. Left Far Behind in "Warships of Sky."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The British air ministry now boasts the fastest and most deadly pursuit planes and day bombers in the world.

The Hawker Hornet, with a speed of 200 miles an hour or more, is believed by royal air force officers to be the best machine of its kind known. The Hart day bomber proved itself capable during the recent aerial maneuvers of outstripping anything in the air in its field.

The charges of the American Society for the Promotion of Aviation to Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley that American military planes are of an inferior type, even to the best machines available to the public in the United States, only serve to emphasize the high point to which British warships of the air have been brought.

Tested for Two Years.

These ships were produced, according to information reaching THE TRIBUNE, after lying tried and proved in blue print for more than two years. They had been tested as experimental types and found thoroughly satisfactory. Since 1928 the Hart day bomber had been a reality in the minds of the British high command. Then an appropriation made it a reality of the air, as was shown during the recent mimic air war between "red" and "blue" forces over England.

The new war planes were developed from opposite directions.

The first consideration was that peculiarities of the British empire's air needs make it necessary that small detachments of planes cover large areas. Development of landing fields, mapped air routes, and aerial bases has been carried out with the purpose of drawing reenforcements quickly from one area to another.

Planes Built for Strength.

The second consideration was that, coupled with the conclusion that weak planes will not stand the test of war in the first place, the air ministry recognized that squadrons of planes could not be expected to move with safety and assurance from one station to another unless built strong enough to fly great distances under any of the manifold conditions found throughout the world.

Accordingly, development of the royal air force was carried on under a hard and fast rule that any plane, no matter of what type, be sturdy enough to meet the worst flying weather.

Planes of this type were cross bred with the freakish speed planes evolved during the Schneider cup races. It was recognized that no airplane designed to fly at a speed of more than 300 miles an hour could possibly have any use as a part of the air force. But as an experimental type it was of great value.

Used As Laboratory Specimens.

Lessons in design were learned and as laboratory specimens the speed planes which captured the trophy for Great Britain proved their worth. Air force officers state frankly that the United States lost heavily by dropping from the competition.

Principles worked out in designing these ships were applied to regular service planes, and the present pursuit ships which the British declare can outfly anything known in military aviation are the result.

The Hornet has been called "a machine gun platform moving with extreme rapidity," and in its function of protecting London and other British cities it is advanced as "the fastest aircraft in any of the world's air forces." It is a single seater fighter designed for rapid interception of enemy airplanes. There is a similar craft called the Fury, and either is capable of flights in excess of 200 miles an hour.

The Hart day bomber also is classed as the premier craft of its type in the world. It is the superhead of the air attack. The Hart bombers are designed to carry an effective load of bombs at the greatest speed possible, and the air exercises this year proved that they are likely again and again to penetrate the defense. In many attacks they reached their objective, bombed their targets and were away before defending squadrons could take the air either to resist or pursue.

Smaller Than Other Bombers.

They are smaller than the other types of bombers, and therefore are suitable for long range reconnaissance. Their adaptability to this duty is increased by equipment with wireless telegraphy sets for communication with artillery or troops.

The Hart day bomber's armament consists of one fixed Vickers machine gun mounted in the runner's cockpit. It carries 500 pounds of bombs. It is assigned to the defense arm and is credited with the highest performance of any light day bomber in service anywhere in the world.

It has two cockpits, and like the Hornet and Fury, is powered with the Rolls-Royce "F" type of engine. Its speed is in excess of 180 miles an hour at an elevation of 7,000 feet.

These are the latest members of the air force, which comprises 81 squadrons, including those in India but not in the dominions. The military craft of Great Britain number 780 airplanes, and these two new types are the stellar performers in the fleet of 476 which is regularly stationed in England.

GERMANY TO PAY PRIVATE DEBTS, SCHACHT SAYS

He's Not So Optimistic About Reparations.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Germany will pay its private debts to the last cent, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, declared in a message to California investors who have purchased German securities. Private debts of the reich must rank ahead of reparations debts, he said in a speech made before a large gathering of San Francisco investment bankers.

Unless Germany is allowed to produce and develop markets for its goods, reparations payments cannot be made, Dr. Schacht said.

"Payments must come from surplus earnings," he insisted.

Keep Out Political Pressure.

Through economic reason rather than through politics will Germany's problems be worked out, he said, adding that the great advantage of the Dawes and Young plans was to keep out political pressure and put all payments on an economic basis.

"As long as things are working out on an economic plan everything will go along on a sound basis," he pointed out. "If Germany is permitted to build up its export business, private debts will be paid and as much of the reparations payments will be made as can be.

"We must not allow politics to spoil business," he said, that at times international economic problems have been subordinated to political factors.

Conditions Greatly Changed.

"You can't force a man to pay more than he has or can earn."

Pointing out that conditions have greatly changed in the last decade, he said:

"We know each other, and we now realize that we all have faults and that those who make the mistakes must pay for them. The world has come back to economic reason again, even the United States, which benefited most by the war, has learned that happiness and prosperity do not last forever.

"Nobody can act against the laws of sound economics, the allies decided they couldn't pay their debts and added these to Germany's burden. They couldn't pay them, but thought Germany could. All of which is nonsense.

One-Sided Obligations.

"As long as one-sided obligations continue, world prosperity cannot return."

Dr. Schacht is today speeding east to Omaha, where he is due Monday night. He will go on at once to Des Moines, where he will spend a day. From Des Moines he will go to Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 16.—The seizure of 5,000 gallons of bootleg liquor, the cargo of the cruiser Standard, a former German submarine destroyer, was made last night by a small Finnish coast guard patrol consisting of four men under the command of Capt. Eriksson, near Pietarsarri.

The Standard, commanded by a Swedish rum runner named Malmberg and manned by a crew of 30, was anchored near Pietarsarri and was delivering its cargo to purchasers who had set out in boats to meet the vessel from the nearby village of Sakaluoto. Half of the village's population are smugglers.

Capt. Eriksson's motor launch mingled with the purchasers and, coming astern, the coast guards boarded the Standard. After a battle in which one smuggler was killed and two others and a coast guard were wounded, the rum runner surrendered and was brought to Pietarsarri. The value of the confiscated liquor was estimated at $25,200.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Abraham Wolff, who came to America from Russia penniless and started in the junk business here with one horse and wagon 45 years ago, left an estate which today was estimated at $1,000,000.

WHEN PAIN COMES...

Two hours after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses, are enclosed with every bottle.

FATE OF MILLION IDLE SOLDIERS PUZZLES CHINA

Civil War Victor Seeks to Disarm Professionals.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 16. — The conclusion of China's latest civil war which occupied most of the present year has left Gen. Chiang Kai-shek more securely seated on the top of the Chinese world than he was previously. But while Gen. Chiang has emerged in a stronger military position, he probably is beset with more problems than any other world executive.

While every other country on the face of the globe has an unemployment problem, Gen. Chiang's unemployment problem makes those in other countries appear infinitesimal, largely due to the fact that most of China's out of work class are military men, professional soldiers who have fought up and down the coast of Asia for the last decade and know no other activity.

Gen. Chiang's chief problem is how to separate this vast army of possibly a million men from their rifles and get them into productive industries.

Faced Possible Defeat.

There seems to be no end of China's ability to produce soldiers. When the recent civil war started early last spring the two northern generals, Yen Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang, quickly mobilized more than a quarter of a million men, most of them carrying some sort of a rifle. These troops swarmed across the plains of Chihli, Shantung and Honan provinces and for a time it appeared they would overwhelm the armies of Gen. Chiang's government, since these did not exceed 100,000 men.

But Gen. Chiang, with a smaller, better trained and equipped force, finally succeeded in stopping the northern horde at the Yellow river, in the meantime using modern air bombers to blow up his enemies' bases and lines of communication in the rear.

The tide of battle definitely turned in September when Gen. Chiang's two Cantonese divisions defeated Gen. Yen's armies in Shantung and blocked the Christian general's drive into Honan. At this point Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, dictator of military and political affairs in the four northeastern provinces, popularly known as Manchuria, entered the picture with a new army.

Nanking Best Briber.

Both sides in the civil war had been pressing the young marshal of Mukden to come in, offering him all kinds of inducements. Nanking won out because Nanking had more to offer in the form of control of ports such as Tsingtao, Weihaiwei, and Tientsin, which are producers of revenue. Also, Marshal Chang, being the son of the late Mukden war lord, Marshal Chang Tso-ling, had grounds for suspecting the soviet connections of the Christian general, Feng Yu-hsiang. Hence, Manchuria decided to come in on the side of Nanking, but not until the tide of battle had turned in favor of Gen. Chiang. The practical effect has been that the Manchurian troops, numbering possibly 150,000, have now marched into north China, occupying the territory that previously had been controlled by Gen. Yen.

The question now occupying the minds of China's war-worn millions is whether there is to be another fight in the spring between Gen. Chiang and Marshal Chang. Both are young, the Mukden marshal being 32 and the Nanking generalissimo 42; also, both are ambitious, with more or less clearly defined ideas about how China should be governed. Gen. Chiang is the creature of the Kuomintang party, political invention of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen at Canton.

Marshal Chang, schooled under the military dictatorship of his father, who ruled with an iron hand in a frontier district for many years, is not particularly interested in the Kuomintang party.

Nevertheless he is attending the fourth national congress of the Kuomintang now in session at Nanking. This congress today took a step which may mean the eventual elimination of the present system of Kuomintang dictatorship by definitely deciding to call a national assembly. It is scheduled to meet in Nanking on May 5, 1931, for the purpose of taking steps to promulgate a preliminary constitution of China.

SEES STATE CONTROL OF PHYSICIANS UNLESS FEES ARE REDUCED

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Unless the medical profession organizes a centralized system for selling professional services to a greater number of patients for smaller fees than are charged now, physicians and surgeons face the possibility of state administration of their work, Health Commissioner Wynne said today in a talk before the men's Bible class in the Riverside church, Riverside drive.

Dr. Wynne said the profession must put expert medical and surgical service within the reach of the white collar class. He predicted that such a move would not be a disadvantage to members of the profession and would probably increase the average life span by fourteen years or more.

The proposed centralized service, with proper advertising, he declared, would put regular physical examination within the reach of the masses.

COAL ✿ HEAT ✿ COSTS ✿ LESS

Coal saves* $1,668.24
every three years

Not on one person alone does the cost fal of heating this apartment building at 317 West Marquette road. For this bilding is co-operatively owned, and every family must pay its share. Because coal is burned every family shares in savings as well as expenditures.

Careful study of this building's heating requirements reveals the fact that for the past three years 5,225,820,000 B. T. U's. were needed. Coal has furnished this amount of heat for $2,574.54. To get this number of heat units from fuel B would cost $4,242.78. To get them from fuel C would cost $9,359.25. From these facts, it can be estimated that the families who own this apartment save $1668.24 by burning coal instead of fuel B, and $6,784.71 by burning coal instead of fuel C.

Important as it is, cost is not the only consideration which determines the fuel choice of this corporation. These families must have safety to protect their investment. The safety of coal is unequalled by any other fuel. Dependability is another demand. Again coal alone provides it in its fullest measure.

Lastly, these families insure full economy and satisfaction by buying their coal through a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. He is pledged to honest weight and honest grading.

By following their example, and burning coal purchased from a member of this Association, you will enjoy proportionate savings, equal safety, equal dependability.

COAL HEAT GIVES MORE B. T. U's. PER DOLLAR

*Figures estimated from average prices and burning efficiencies of fuels, as determined by an impartial digest of many authoritative and unprejudiced sources. They include equipment and operation.

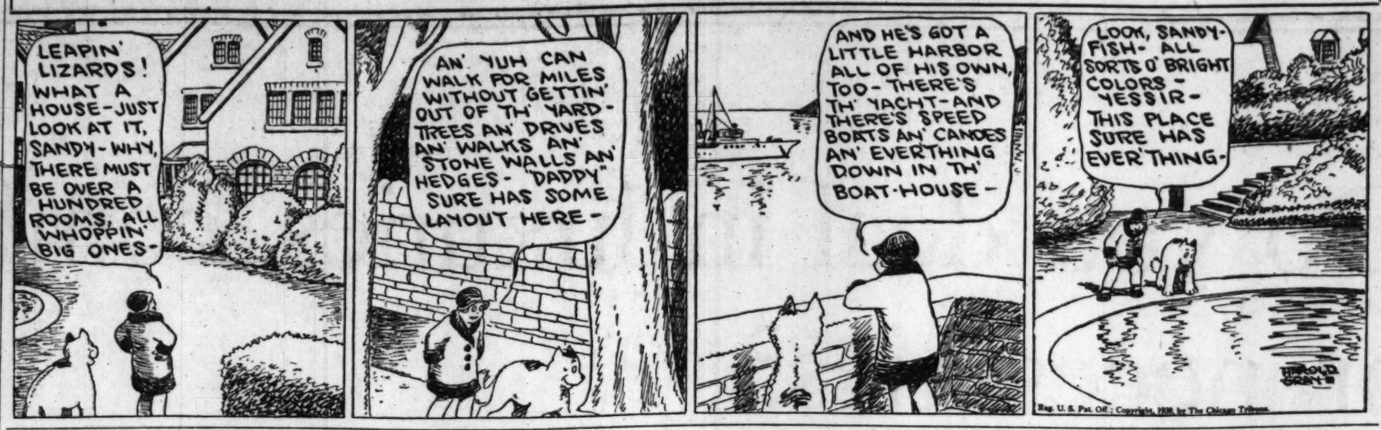
Mr. Craig reports that wages of building trade mechanics in the principal cities of the nation have remained stationary during the agreement making period of 1930. Stationary wages, together with the establishment of a tribunal designed to eliminate jurisdictional disputes between the building trades, should prove factors helping to revive building, he says.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Nothing Missing



FIVE BANKS FAIL, BUT QUINCY HAS FAITH IN OTHERS

Town Backs Remaining Institutions.

Quincy, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Judgment and common sense used by the business men and the citizenry of Quincy in facing one of the worst financial crises in the history of the city brought the business in the banks Saturday night to almost normal. The failure of two of the biggest banks in Quincy within a week, tying up almost one-half of the deposits, together with the South Side Savings bank, which went down in the undertow of the State Savings Loan and Trust company Saturday morning, and the failure of the Payson State Savings bank at the same time, institutions that were considered as strong as Gibraltar, left the people stunned at first.

Support Remaining Banks.

The five remaining banks of Quincy, the Illinois State Bank of Quincy, Mercantile Trust and Savings bank, State Street Bank and Trust company, Broadway State Savings bank, and the Broadway bank, were open on Sunday, not for business but to analyze Saturday's transactions. The amount of withdrawals were exceptionally few. Saturday evening's newspaper containing signatures of nearly a hundred business men and firms in the city of Quincy, was augmented Sunday morning with a full page spread donated by the Sunday morning paper urging the people of Quincy to use common sense and pledging the banks their full support and agreeing to cash all checks when business opened on Monday.

This was signed by practically every business man and business house, firm and industrial plant in the city of Quincy. It has done much to assure a feeling that the remaining five banks were perfectly sound. It was felt among financial circles that the State Savings bank will pay its creditors one hundred cents on the dollar, and the same regarding the Quincy Ricker National bank, which closed its doors a week ago Saturday night.

Two in Federal Reserve.

One strange coincidence, the Savings Loan and Trust company and the Quincy Ricker National bank, were the only banks in Quincy to be members of the federal reserve bank. The national bank was compelled to be a member because it was a national bank. The State Savings Loan and Trust company became a member from choice and in order better to serve its patrons.

The banks are expecting a big day Monday, opening new accounts and making arrangements for new banking homes for business men who were depositors in the banks that have closed. It is felt the crisis is past.

DROPS GUN; IT KILLS HIM.

Gerald J. Maher, 35 years old, of 1159 South Highland avenue, Oak Park, was killed last night in his home when a revolver which he had been cleaning discharged when he dropped it, the bullet striking him in the body.

CHICAGO CHAPTER VOTES FOR SECESSION FROM DISABLED VETS

The Woodrow Wilson chapter, No. 4, of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War yesterday voted to secede from the national and state departments at a meeting held in the Capitol building. It will continue under the name of the Woodrow Wilson chapter of the Wounded and Disabled Veterans of the World War, incorporated in Illinois two years ago. The secession movement was led by Joseph B. Lynch, commander of the chapter for seven years, and followed charges of alleged racketeering on Forget-Me-Not day.

Vivian E. Corbly, national adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans, in a statement last night declared the state and national organizations were coöperating with State's Attorney Swanson's office. He pointed out that on the annual Forget-Me-Not days each chapter conducts its own drive, and that 50 per cent goes to the chapter, 25 per cent to national headquarters, and 25 per cent to the state department, and added that "all receipts are accounted for."

A vote of confidence in National Commander H. H. Weimer was taken last night at a meeting of former service men at which George E. Clark, first vice president of the 33d Division War Veterans association, was in charge. Commander Weimer, a captain in the 131st Infantry, was cited by the United States government for heroism and given the D. S. C. The French government awarded him the croix de guerre with palm.

$1,875,000 SPENT IN A YEAR BY ROSENWALD FUND

Report Shows Gains Made by Negroes.

The Negro problem can no longer be considered among the "unduly difficult" questions in the United States, Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, states in the annual report of the fund, made public yesterday.

During the fiscal year ended June 30 the fund expended a total of $1,875,655. This was divided among the following projects: Negro welfare, reducing the cost of medical care, general educational experiments, study of social problems, and public administration.

Reports $5,000,000 Pledged.

Pledges for future work slightly exceed $5,000,000, the report states.

The fund expended $1,317,739 for Negro welfare, most of which went into schools. Five thousand of these schools have been built, the last being at Greenbrier, Va. In this typical case the Rosenwald fund gave $2,600, the Negroes of the community $1,000 and the public treasury the remaining $16,000. It is Mr. Rosenwald's policy to give only a small percentage of the total cost of each school.

For Negro health the fund expended $163,815, through which nursing services were endowed, health clinics established and Negro maladies studied. Payments of $157,572 were made for studies and experiments in low cost medical treatment, virtually all in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, and Keokuk, Ia., and irrespective of race.

A number of child study institutions and recreation centers received gifts and $129,556 was given to a campaign against adult illiteracy in the southern states. Rural libraries received $79,601.

"Race Issue Being Solved."

"Though hundreds of harrowing incideats seems to contradict us," said Mr. Embree, "we may say that 'all is quiet on the Negro front.' The race question in America is being solved. Negro progress is satisfactory."

The report pointed out that colored children are attending schools in nearly the same proportion as the rest of the population and that in higher education the Negro is holding his own with other races; Negroes are steadily making their way as workers, farmers, and business men, 700,000 owning their own homes, 232,000 owning farms, and 70,000 owning or operating business enterprises.

TRY FATHER AND 4 SONS TODAY IN $30,000 SWINDLE

Charged with swindling hundreds of clients out of an estimated $300,000, Hyman Goldman and his four sons are to appear before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court today.

Final preparations for the prosecution were completed yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys George S. Lavin and Wilkie C. Ham.

The sons, William, Max, Samuel, and Jacob, were out on bond last night, but the father, who is 68 years old, was being held in the county jail for want of $25,000 bail. The five face four indictments each, charging confidence game, embezzlement, larceny by bailee, and obtaining money under false pretenses. The fraud is alleged to have been perpetrated through the Goldman Bond and Mortgage company which was located at 3220 West Roosevelt road.

The state will allege that they were guilty of forgery, of duplicating bonds, of selling property to which they had no title—in one instance a tract in Douglas park—and mishandling of money entrusted them to be sent to European relatives of clients, according to Lavin. Reports that the Goldmans also operated in Boston and in Canada are also being investigated, he said.

ARTHUR NATHAN, INSURANCE MAN, LAWYER, DEAD

Arthur S. Nathan, attorney and former head of the insurance firm bearing his name, died yesterday at his home, 2000 Lincoln Park West. In the Morning!

Just take a pleasant-tasting candy Cascaret tonight and see how fine you feel next morning. You wake with coating gone from your tongue. Breath is sweet; eyes brighter; you feel like a different person. The most pleasant way to be rid of constipation ills is with candy Cascarets. They are made from cascara—a never-failing laxative—as any doctor will tell you—and a laxative that actually helps strengthen the bowel muscles. So the prompt, harmless relief Cascarets always bring is lasting! Their gentle, thorough action makes them ideal for elderly people. Children love their delicious candy flavor.

Edward Moore Writes of Music and the Musicians

SNOW

By Ednah Aiken

SYNOPSIS.

Before the honeymoon is over Sheila discovers her husband is a drug addict. She determines to fight for his regeneration. A federal narcotic agent suggests a program, which, if rigidly adhered to, would effect a cure.

King promised Sheila to go with her to Alaska, after the races at Tia Juana. Sheila plans to kidnap King and take him to a remote spot, there to help him fight off his hateful habit. Jim Molloy is living in Nome and he promises to help her. At breakfast in Jim's cabin King's coffee is drugged and Sheila and Jim carry him off unconscious to a cabin not far from Nome, although seemingly in the heart of the frozen wilderness. Jim leaves them his servants, Hi-Jack and Casino, an Eskimo couple, and returns at once to Nome, promising Sheila to return secretly every month.

When King regains consciousness and learns he is trapped for the next eight months he flies into a fury breaks in verbal abuse on Sheila, accusing Jim of wanting to get him out of the way. He tries to bribe Hi-Jack to go to Nome for him. Failing in this, he tries to escape on snowshoes and is saved by the timely arrival of Pere La Clerc, a missionary. The priest begs Sheila to let him take King to the mission, but she refuses to abandon King.

CONFLICTING EMOTIONS.

Each time Sheila tiptoed to the curtains she saw King staring, wide-eyed but dull, at the ceiling. When at last, toward midnight, she found him asleep, his jaw dropped, his breathing stentorous, she beckoned Happy Jack.

"Wait," she said again.

Already she had discovered from its niche over her own couch the box which she had determined to give back to Jim, "next spring." Releasing the handcuffs and removing the key, she went back to King's corner. To the Eskimo she displayed the steel bracelets. "Understand?" she asked.

He grunted. He understood handcuffs. "Help make sick man safe."

As the cold bands snapped on his wrists King slowly opened his eyes. He was too steeped in drugs to know at once what had happened to him. He found his hands were helpless; he saw his wife and the Eskimo staring at his wrists. When he leaped from the bed the shackles flung him on his back again. A stream of ugly words were beginning to flow when Sheila covered his mouth with her hand.

"No; it is for you to listen to me. It is for me to say what you must to. Can you understand? Do you hear what I say? You would have hurt me tonight—that would be all right for me; I am strong. But I can't have you hurt what you would have hurt. King, are you listening? Can you understand? In this cabin, long before we can leave here next summer, it will come to us—your child."

They had accomplished their fifth month of banishment before the secret of Jim Molloy's monthly trips to the snowbound camp in Sliscovich cañon was discovered by the man he had helped to kidnap. Some one—Jim himself or one of the faithful Eskimos—had blundered. Though King could have no possible proof that it was Molloy himself whose dog team had been replenishing their ice cellar, or that any regularity had been observed by the man who mushed in to the servants' dwelling, the wife who had planned and aided the abduction knew that suspicion was now sharpening not only King's circumspection but his memory.

When he would sit for hours staring into the ruddy heart of the log fire, his beautiful face stripped of its youthfulness by this new responsibility of his—aggravated she was aware by his hatred of Molloy—she knew he was assembling every recollection of minute details to which the agony of his ordeal had made him once indifferent; that he was weaving them into a pattern not yet conclusive, but to which the blunder had given form. During the long and increasing absence which ensued, leaving Sheila in the lonely hut, she who had risked her life and that of the unborn child to save him knew he was abroad in the hope of waylaying Molloy . . . Jim would then discover her state. Yes, King was plotting; they had exchanged roles.

Though his reticence was maintained as only a King George could maintain it, she divined the two passions which were motivating this new activity of his—neither sleet nor snow, not the heaviest of storms could keep him in the cabin during the short hours of daylight—and both emotions, pride of paternity, and hatred of Molloy alarmed her. What would happen when these two antagonistic men met? And if Jim learned of her condition, would he not insist on her immediate return to Nome with King's term of physical probation yet unfulfilled? Her husband knew that release was not safe for him until June, when his cure would be complete, but he also knew that fatherhood would come to him the last days of March or the first of April.

His new status was giving him a solicitude as well as the pride which daily amazed her. No fear of a blighted heredity had yet occurred to him . . . Yes, Sheila might bewilling to risk the advent of his child without doctor or nurse, but, he, the father, was not.

The first time she had heard the distant baying of Molloy's malamutes in November—Sheila, whose arm chair for three days had been stationed between the phonograph and the radio, had instantly turned the dial, releasing the whining bravado of distant saxophones; the nearer sound was drowned. Thirty-one days, she counted, had it been since the one of arrival at the cabin; thirty-one since Jim had announced, "I'll be mushin' in a month from today, Sheila." Whether his reckonings were to be made in term of weeks or days he had not stated, and so for three successive afternoons her ear had been patrolling the white silence without—afternoons of early darkness those, for the nights were already swelling prodigiously. Since that first unseen visit she had learned to expect one of his terse messages on the twenty-ninth of each month. It was like Jim to want her to rely on his regularity.

Though the signal from the malamutes had been sweeter to her than melody, though she yearned to silence the radio for a second of assurance that it was actually dogs she had heard, her breathing was tense and spasmodic while the ribald airs moaned on. For the chance of a visitor would have sent King exploring the white plain beyond the cut in the hills. Though the gruelling days of his term were over, he had not yet become resigned to his sentence of isolation. And these two men who loved her and hated each other must not be allowed to meet.

Because of the sacrifices she had shared with him and the ordeal she herself faced, King had forgiven her; he might some day bless her. But the man who had made the abduction possible, never.

Before the second jazz tune had ended that day long ago in November King, whose sick nerves wearied soon of all diversions, had implored her: "Call it a day, Sheila!"

"Won't you let me finish this gay concert?" she had weakly wheedled, and before he could enter word of protest: "My nerves are tiresome today, King, dear."

Instantly he had leaned over to pet her softly on the shoulder. "Why, sure, little mother. Anything you say goes."

Not having yet discovered that it made her wince, he was flaunting hourly the name born of the new expectation. Although dismay—apprehension for her—had been his immediate reaction to the announcement of parenthood, pride had swiftly followed. Except for her risk he had no fear. Not of the threat to his child in terms of health or character. How could he be proud, marveled Sheila daily; how could he be proud? The words, Little Mother, made her recoil. . . .

While King set the pieces on the chess board to its close moved the hour of jazz. She was wondering if it were yet safe to let silence fall when Casino shuffled into the cabin, pulling off her malodorous mukluks, and scuffling into the moccasins she had used in place of mitts for the short journey between the two huts. Sheila was aquiver with impatience to know if Jim had come, gone, or was even now with Happy Jack. The instant the little brown woman disappeared behind the curtains of her dressing corner, she followed, murmuring deceitfully. "Washed stockings already, Casino?" For if Jim had gone, there would be a letter for her under the friendly soap dish.

The letter was there. It said: "I've been and gone, Sheila. Must be in Nome tonight. Casino tells me you're fine and dandy. That the worst is over . . . Hi-Jack says they heard the dogs. Next time I'll muzzle them sooner, or leave them down at the river. Don't fear . . . I've brought ptarmigan. Hi-Jack'll make a snare to account for them, and to maintain supply . . . Before I return you'll have celebrated Thanksgiving. Wonder if you provided for that? The shops at Nome are making a great display of canned grapefruit, sweet potatoes, plum puddings. I've lugged in enough for Christmas, too. I'll be back next twenty-ninth, Jim."

WHY'm I so bored with William Haines,
When once I used to love—he?
Is it the fault of William Haines
Or is it the fault of—me?

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

You have duly noted, I trust, that the bill at the State-Lake is a double-decker this week, presenting two "third dimension" films. Both the scenic picture, "Niagara Falls," and the feature, "Danger Lights," were photographed by the "natural vision" process patented by George K. Spoor and P. John Berggen of Chicago, and are shown on a screen approximately twice as wide as the ordinary silver sheet. This process does away with the flat effect of regulation photography, creating that of depth. The pictures are recorded on standard panchromatic motion picture film that is twice as wide as the everyday variety, filling the entire stage opening.

"Niagara Falls" is revolutionary and wonderful. Some of the shots are so grand, so vividly real, as to be almost unbelievable. There you are, sitting in a theater on State street, with the beauty and magnitude of the falls passing before your eyes! You see the tumbling waters, the river, the surrounding country, the tourists. You take the trip on the stanch little boat "Maid of the Mist." The thunder of the falls isn't in your ears nor the spray in your nostrils, but otherwise the illusion is perfect.

I was thrilled to my toes!

"Danger Lights," a good, old fashioned railroad melodrama, did not seem so radically different, except as to size, from the usual movie. It has some flashes of scenery, however, that make you realize the value of the "natural vision" process. The piece sings of trains and the men who run them, and most of its action was photographed along the Milwaukee road. As you follow the interesting story of two men who love a girl you learn a lot about railroads and the camaraderie and cooperation which keep the danger lights flashing at the right times.

Louis Wolheim plays a hard boiled, tender hearted division boss, worshiped, respected and feared by the men under him. Robert Armstrong impersonates a chap who, brought back to self respect and a job by the boss, has the rotten luck to love and be loved by his benefactor's girl. Disaster hinges on this turn of affairs—disaster fraught with excitement and suspense for the onlooker. There's an ingenious surprise in the finale for which you are grateful. It sends you away with a smile.

Direction and photography are fine and all the men in the cast play up in great shape. Jean Arthur as the heroine is rather wooden. Dialogue is good in most places and, in several instances, quite smart. Hugh Herbert as a tramp, passionately addicted to travel on the line, hands you much to laugh about. Action is swift, and, in the main, convincing. Sound and synchronization were execrable during the showing of the first half of the film at the premiere performance Saturday morning. Chances are, however, that whatever was wrong at that time has been remedied by now.

Be loyal, Chicagoans! Go over to the State-Lake and give a great big hand to our native inventors, George K. Spoor and P. John Berggen. They deserve it! And I guarantee that both pictures will entertain you. [They, and a Walt Disney comedy titled, if I remember correctly, "Monkey Symphonies." It's lovely!]

BY EDWARD MOORE.

By study and reflection you may convince yourself that Spanish dancing occupies only a limited arc in the spectrum of the complete dance. Just the same you come away from La Argentina with a pronounced impression that you have seen a good part of the types of the world, and this, though her programs are pretty much fixed quantities.

She was back for the second time at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon, and, as before and always a person of unbelievable contrasts. In her portrayal of Granados' "Goyescas" she was all dignity and graciousness and courtly coquetry ,and in the peasant dance all high spirits and awkwardness that approached goofiness.

And "Cielo de Cuba" was quite a different kind of a peasant, and the Iberian dance was a complete, if brief, drama. But always there was the flaming personality that is La Argentina, and always, in farce or tragedy, there was perfection of gesture and pose and expression.

Also, one never gets over being astonished at the range of tone she gets out of her castanets. Just two pairs of clicking wooden shells, but when her fingers dance over them, they speak of gayety and sadness, passionate fervor and melancholy depression. It sounds impossible that just clicks should do so much, but unless you have heard them answer to her, you do not know. She is coming again.

The rest of yesterday afternoon's music consisted of two piano recitals, by Tomford Harris at the Civic theater and by Rebecca Benson at the Playhouse. Mr. Harris began his program with a Bach choral prelude transcribed by Rummel and the D minor toccata and fugue, also by Brahms, in the Busoni transcription, both brief but distinguished and radiant, played with an excellently trained pair of hands and in exuberant, youthful spirit. These were followed by Brahms, Chopin, and a group of moderns.

Miss Benson also began with Bach, but Wilhelm Friedemann instead of Johann Sebastian, a long work with about as little distinction as would be possible in a piece of such dimensions. She likewise played with excellent technic and good attention to the composer's intentions of expression. After this came one of the early Beethoven sonatas and a number of moderns, including the Chicagoan Isadore Buchhalter.

The Rosa Raisa scholarship committee sends word that because of the present industrial depression the annual concert by Miss Raisa and her husband will not be given this season, and that there will be no audition nor applications for scholarship during that period.

Art Declines in Present Day, Speaker Argues

New Yorker Lauds People of 13th Century.

Judged by the standards of human happiness and contentment, this age of electricity, radio, automobiles, talking pictures and jazz bands is far below the achievement of the thirteenth century, Dr. James J. Walsh of New York argued yesterday before the Chicago Forum at the Adelphi theater.

In their individual development of the arts and crafts and the cultivation of their minds, he asserted, the people of those days far excelled the present generation.

"They lived then," he said, "in towns that were built around cathedrals, to which each person contributed something of their labor and talent. They made everything that went into those cathedrals, and those things have survived as masterpieces of art, even though they were made by a village blacksmith, perhaps. The people used the churches and were constantly in contact with these works of art. The universities of those times were greater than any in the history of the world with the exception of the last ten years.

"Take New York today with its marvelous Metropolitan Museum of Art, where priceless treasures are gathered. I once asked the curator if they could be valued as high as $150,000,000, and he said he believed they might.

"It has been estimated that a net total of about 30,000 New Yorkers visit the museum in a year. How many go to the movies? At a very conservative estimate, I am informed, the number is about 300,000,000. Does that mean anything as a comparison of our relative achievements?"

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

I was afraid that Edward Tracy was a doomed man as soon as I saw him take a seat opposite me on that Van Cortlandt express. He was a quiet, unobtrusive business man in a panama hat, who looked as if he had had a good day on Wall street; but there was a strange, vacant stare in his eyes.

"Tracy," I said to myself, "there's going to be murder done in this subway car tonight, and it looks to me as if your number is up."

He continued to sit there for more than two hours—almost long enough for the train to reach Albany if the subway ran that far north—and all the time there was that strange vacant stare in his eyes. But he never twitched a finger or batted an eyelash. Five minutes after I had my ominous premonition Edward Tracy was dead.

He was shot through the heart in a brawl between two drunken Italians and the man who had seduced his wife. But before that happened he had been silently and mysteriously electrocuted by a fiend who had rigged up a device that tapped the juice from the third rail. Yes, poor Tracy was "burned" before my very eyes.—But honestly, Inspector, I didn't have a thing to do with it, and I wish you wouldn't give me the third degree.

And there you have an inkling of the thrills which are contained in "Subway Express," which came to the Erlanger theater last night to please the full membership of the playgoers' crime club. This melodrama, ingeniously plotted and cleverly staged, is one of the famous plays of the year, and is good enough to justify all the advance propaganda that has been spread by the Chicagoans who insist upon telling their friends about the shows they saw in New York. It offers a jolly evening of plausible blood and thunder, and although much of its material is the familiar cross questioning and bullying by our old friend, the grim, relentless inspector in charge of the murder brigade, it is consistently fascinating.

The illusion of a New York subway car with its riff-raff of passengers on a run from Brooklyn to the Bronx is admirably sustained. The play is a triumph of realistic stagecraft; and it is refreshing to find the stage competing so competently with the literalism of the cinema. The stage director—young Mr. Chester Erskin, who by his technical skill in this melodrama and another called "The Last Mile," won an appointment as head of Frohman, Inc.—is the real hero of "Subway Express." He succeeded in catching every detail except the smell.

There are forty characters in this cast, and each is neatly individualized. In mass, they are completely convincing as a group of ordinary New Yorkers homeward bound. The police inspector, of course, commands the scene, and he is excellently acted by Leo Curley. The humble clerk who is involved in the deviltry, and gets shot just as a confession is being tortured out of him, is effectively played by Jack Burne. The tearless widow holds attention as represented by Virginia Curley, and if you are interested in theatrical family life you might make note of the fact that she is Leo Curley's pretty and promising daughter.

As for that strange, vacant stare of the electrocuted Mr. Tracy, before and after his demise, there is a reason. His eyes—or what you think are his eyes—are painted on the lenses of his spectacles. I feel that I can fairly reveal that much of the secret of "Subway Express." But you will have to find the murderer and his motive for yourself.

Knighted for His Poems, He's Now Ill, Poor

LONDON, Nov. 16.—One of the tragedies of English letters is the revelation that Sir William Watson, poet, is seriously ill and poor at Bath.

Sir William gave his life to poetry, almost became a laureate, and now finds himself with a wife and two daughters devoid of income and forgot.

"Always it is verses, verses, but at last comes a poet," Alfred Lord Tennyson said after reading Watson's poem, "Wordsworth's Grave." He probably would have succeeded Lord Tennyson as poet laureate had not W. E. Gladstone felt that post to be a useless anachronism. A recommendation that Watson be appointed therefor was passed over. The place remained unfilled until Lord Salisbury gave it to Alfred Austin.

Years later Lord Rosebury obtained for William Watson, as he than was, a pension of £500 yearly out of the civil list, but that is insufficient for his daily needs, and he has been in the care of physicians for some time.

His last effort to obtain money from his poems ended in disaster. It brought about a pathetic incident of which he knows nothing, even yet.

Lady Watson urged him to collect his best poems and publish them two years ago. He resisted.

"Nobody reads me now," he said, "and I do not think it will do any good." Finally, however, she persuaded him to make the venture and in 1928 "Selected Poems" appeared.

"It fell flat," Lady Watson admits. "It did not bring us in £50 altogether, and," after a pause, "I bought practically all the volumes myself. Sir William did not know that, and he d esn't know it now. I bought them to give to his friends and to send to people in America who I thought might still take some interest in his work.

"My husband has been writing poetry for 58 years. He can do nothing else. For many years editors in London and America threw open their papers and magazines to him. But th re was very little profit in all that he did."

An appeal for money has been hastily organized since the discovery that the 72 year old poet is in need. Efforts to collect a large testimonial fund will be made in Great Britain, the United States, and in the dominions.

The note accompanying the appeal asks "lovers of great literature everywhere to unite in doing honor to one who has done full honorably by them."

HUNTINGTON HEIRESS WED TO COLLEGIATE ICE WAGON DRIVER

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Miss Harriet Green Huntington, 20 year old heiress to the Huntington millions, has become the bride of Albert Doerr Jr., 20, who worked his way through Stanford university driving an ice truck.

In far contrast to the first meeting of the couple at Stanford when, for lack of other means Doerr took the young woman to a dance in his ice truck, they rode from the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James E. Brehm, last night in a limousine after a wedding witnessed by southern California social leaders.

Miss Huntington's grandfather was the late Henry E. Huntington, traction magnate and art patron. Her mother's father was the late Adam Green, pioneer San Francisco business man. She is a graduate of Smith college and attended Stanford.

Doerr graduated from Stanford last June and is employed by a Los Angeles steel corporation. While in school he gained a reputation as a boxer. He is the son of a Mexico City mining executive.

Neighbor's Advice Fails to Help You in Running Your Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In one of the current weeklies recently a fiction tale bore a question and an answer that affects a number of wedded pairs. In some households the problem is settled by the stronger character in the union assuming the burden of every decision. This story hovered around the quarrels that arise when one decides one way, the other another way, with perhaps as slight a question as the position of an armchair in the living room involved. The actual object of contention has little to do with the case, as was pointed out in the tale referred to. It is one mind trying to domineer over another that leads to words and more words.

The girl in the story spoke of an aunt of hers as a conqueror wife who got her own way, but her face registered grimness, not happiness, as a result. A good verbal expression that—and a recognizable facial one in women we all have met.

It is an expression that belongs to women who insist upon having their way in every small detail of their homes. It probably has been a characteristic in these persons since childhood. Every other will in the household has to bow to theirs. And rarely do you find sweet content in homes over which they domineer.

However, it so happens, as it happened in this tale, that some women marry men who are incapable of making a decision unhelped. They want their wives to decide all of the home questions and, in addition, to decide their business steps for them. When one draws this sort of an individual the thing to do is to take up the decision reins and act with the best acumen possible. Usually such a husband makes up in other ways for his inability to make a decision.

The heroine of the tale tried out a friend's recipe, which, in the friend's case, meant letting her George do all the directing. It didn't work because our heroine didn't have a George on her hands.

And that's the moral of our story today, prompted by the fiction tale. There's no use going over to a neighbor's house to learn how to handle one's own domestic affairs. The neighbor has a different husband or a different wife, and a wholly different policy necessarily must be adopted to meet the temperament of the mate at home.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Gambles and Rackets.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend promised he would not go with any other girl, but he broke his promise. Now he is a gambler and a racketeer. Please advise. Do-Do."

Enough said, Do-Do. Let the other girls have him.

Complete the Foursome.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend's chum is keeping him away from me because my sister doesn't care to go out with him. Please advise. "BROKENHEARTED."

If your sister refuses to be a good Samaritan, perhaps you can induce one of your close friends to complete the foursome.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Five hundred baby chick hatchery operators who produce a large share of the $27,000,000 worth of chickens raised annually in Illinois will pass around some of the newest problems, solutions, and practical suggestions for their business when they meet Nov. 20 and 21 at Urbana in a two day school.

This program at the College of Agriculture of the University of Illinois is to be led by L. L. Jones, secretary of the International Baby Chick association, Lafayette, Ind., and G. S. Vickers, secretary of the Ohio Poultry Improvement association, Columbus, O., as foremost of a list of 14 speakers. L. E. Card, as chief of the university college poultry husbandry department, is to speak on "The Hatcheryman and the Poultry Industry."

Other subjects include highly technical problems and some of the more common questions which face all persons in the poultry industry. "Chicken Pox Control by Vaccination" will be described by Dr. W. A. James, an assistant in animal pathology, and Dr. Frank Thorp, in the same department, will talk on "Chick Sanitation in the Control of Diseases."

During the second day's program those in attendance will hear J. Turner Mills, hatchery owner of McNabb, Illinois, answer the question, "Should the hatchery man be a flock owner and breeder?" Kemp Crome, hatchery owner and poultryman of Albion, Ill., will describe his experiences with a specialty hatchery. Mr. Jones of the international association will talk the morning of Nov. 20 on "A flock improvement program for hatchery men."

Mary Borden Tells About Noted Britons

BY THALIA ——.

Mrs. Mary Borden Spears, novelist who left Chicago two decades ago to dwell in England, talked of literary London last night at the Arts club before an audience of some of the social and literary lights of her native city.

Although she assured her listeners that she is an American writer, her pleasant and informative talk of authors and books revealed to her 250 listeners [another hundred were turned away] how completely she has become identified with the literary life of London.

Standing on the small stage which fronts the art gallery of the club, Mrs. Spears spoke slowly in a very British vein of what goes on in Chelsea and Bloomsbury. She told of the "private lives and public performances" of the men and women whose books have made them famous and whose friendship she has won through her own literary efforts.

Drily and humorously, and with an air of refusing to take her subject too seriously, she drew brief analyses of the work and personality of Bernard Shaw, Arnold Bennett, Noel Coward, Edgar Wallace, H. G. Wells, and others.

At the supper that preceded the talk Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and her daughter, Miss Genevieve Carpenter, were hostesses to Mrs. Spears and her husband, Brig. Gen. Edward L. Spears of the British army. The dinner guests also included Mr. and Mrs. John Borden, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Aldis, Arthur Meeker Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, and William Nitz, Diarmud Russell, and Harry Channon. Mrs. Spears wore a black velvet dress with a skirt of narrow ruffles and a bolero jacket with elbow length sleeves, long crystal earrings, and scarlet slippers.

Among those present in the audience were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Miss Nellie Carpenter, Miss Anna Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Miss Marie Rozet, Miss Agnes Foreman, Arthur Bissell, Miss Cass Lake, Mrs. Arthur Slade, Mrs. A. F. Callahan, Mrs. Harry Channon, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, Mrs. Murry Nelson, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, and Mrs. Lyman T. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, the latter with her arm still bandaged as the result of a recent hunting accident, had with them the Wolcott Blairs, and the John Payne Kelloggs. Others present included the Valentine Buttletts, the George F. McLaughlins, the Thorne Donnelleys, the Kenneth Carpenters, Mr. and Mrs. John Wentworth, Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Massey, who had with them Mrs. Cornelia Otis Skinner Blodgett, Miss Helen Rend, John Locke, and P. Tollivér, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, the Harold and the Sidney Strotzes, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Taylor, the Russell Kelleys, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, the Robert Cuttles, the David Pecks, the Vincent Hoslys, Miss Harriet McLaughlin, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis Cochran.

Mrs. Polly Chase Boyden has taken an apartment in 10th street in New York City, and is to be there for the winter. Two of her youngsters are with her, and the eldest is in school in Paris.

Mrs. Boyden's sister, Miss Janet Chase, is to be with her for part of the winter before she goes back to Germany for more art study. The two are to collaborate on a book of children's poetry, Mrs. Boyden doing the verses, and Miss Chase the illustrations.

Their parents, the Samuel T. Chases are going to remain in Lake Forest through this month, and will then come in town and occupy Mrs. George B. Magoun's apartment at 74 East Walton place.

The first meeting this season of the Friends of Opera is to be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Drake hotel ballroom. Mrs. Charles H. Swift is chairman of the program committee, Mmes. Frida Leider, M. Vanni-Marcoux, and Virgilio Lazzari are to sing.

The second of the trio of lectures being sponsored by the Drama league is to be given this afternoon at the Arts club by Barratt Clark, who is to speak on "American Drama Comes of Age." Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., president of the league, will preside, and Mrs. William E. Wright is in charge of arrangements for the tea that is to follow Mr. Clark's talk.

DOROTHY DULIN PARIS

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.] —The Paris mode is a whimsical lady, there's no doubt about that. You never can tell what she'll lay hands on in the interests of chic. This season she's given us more than one shock, with her short sleeves for winter, her lamb pie hats and her velvet trimmed with string, but we must admit that even her most far-fetched ideas materialize into one hundred per cent smartness.

Take, for example, her lately acquired habit of putting fur hems [and even fur sleeves] on lace and chiffon gowns. If any one had suggested it to us a mere six months ago, we'd have thrown up horrified hands, but now all the leading couturiers are doing it with perfectly stunning effect.

Gotham Girls Plan Bigger, Better Debuts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—America's two richest heiresses have joined the throng of almost 300 debutantes who will make their bows to Father Knickerbocker's society this winter and dazzling nights are in prospect.

Over on the bank of the East river and along Park avenue, where gardens have replaced gas houses, a lot of mothers—and fathers, too—are deep in plans for debutante festivities. The whirl will begin the week before Christmas, and if all goes well will end sometime in the spring before an altar.

The spotlight has centered on Doris Duke and Barbara Hutton, for they are coming out in their first season in the splendor which great wealth bestows. Doris Duke, blond and blue eyed, inherited more than $75,000,000 from her father, James B. Duke, the tobacco man.

Tobacco and dime emporiums, however, are dim in the background of these two little rich girls. They have grown up through a gilded childhood.

Doris Duke came into her fortune almost five years ago. Eighteen now, she already has filled many a column of newspaper space, has been presented at Buckingham palace, and has made an initial debut at one of her five estates in Newport. This has been her most exciting year. Last spring she and her mother sailed quietly for Europe. Theirs was a simple first cabin crossing and no one guessed their identity until the court presentation.

Clad in white satin and ostrich feathers America's richest girl courtesied before King George and Queen Mary to formally begin her social conquests. A few months later the heiress to vast tobacco acres and power plants made her summer debut at her Newport home. Great searchlights played over the waves and through the trees as the slim, blonde girl stood under a flower covered marquee to receive her 600 guests.

Miss Duke has been luxuriously reared. A town home valued at $1,600,000. A 2,000 acre estate, near Somerville, N. J., Rough Point, the Newport place, and a house in Europe are among the spots where the heiress has grown up. Over in New Jersey she has a sunken garden to stroll in, a marble swimming pool, motor cars, and horses.

Barbara Hutton will make her initial entrance into society Dec. 22 at a ball at the New Hotel Pierre on Park avenue. She too is 18, but has lived rather quietly since she first began to receive publicity, when at 14 her trustees, acting for her, sold $10,000,000 worth of common stock in the Woolworth company a couple of days before the big market break. They saved $4,000,000 for the heiress in one of the largest private stock transactions ever made in Wall street.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover, who is visiting her son, Herbert Hoover Jr., during the absence of his wife, who is in their California home, will remain in Asheville, N. C., over the week-end.

The secretary of state and Mrs. Stimson have as week-end guests at Woodley Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lee Loomis of Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Wilbur gave a tea this afternoon for other members of the cabinet circle, the officials of the interior department and their wives. They were assisted by Mrs. William R. Castle Jr., wife of the assistant secretary of state; Mrs. Adolph C. Miller, formerly of Chicago; Mrs. George Akerson, wife of the secretary to the President, and Mrs. Keith MacIntosh.

Miss Gertrude Lamont, daughter of the secretary of commerce, is spending the week-end in Baltimore with her school friend, Miss Elizabeth Duncan, and will return tomorrow. The secretary will return tomorrow from Chicago.

Word was received here by Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, formerly of Aurora, Ill., of the birth there last week of a son to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. McClure Kelley. Mrs. McClure Kelley was formerly Miss Theodora Catalina, a debutante in Washington several years ago. She is a niece of Signor Catalina, second counselor of the Italian embassy. This is the second child of Mr. and Mrs. Kelley.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The wrapped, flared tunic skirt of this charming dress and the curved seaming and button trim of the hip yoke all contribute to an effect of slenderness. The bodice shows a slight all around blousing and pin tucks narrow the shoulders, while the dainty flared cuffs of the long sleeves make the arms appear slender. Wool crêpe, crêpe satin, and flat crêpe are suitable for this model.

The pattern, 2561, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 39 inch constrasting.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The influence of fashion on beauty was expressed by a friend who told how she never believed much in face massage until she bought one of the new bonnets that are decorating the back of women's skulls this year. She took one look at herself and said: "A new face for you, dearie, before you strike out with that skull cap!"

And she's been going once a week for a professional "lift" as she calls it, but which really is nothing more than an excellent massage treatment. Betimes, shes' rubbing on the cold cream and slapping her face and throat to spank 'em into shape.

A deal of freshness is required in these open-faced exposures with but a scant wisp of hair blowing around the temples. If one is self-critically inclined, one views that exposures of a face that's neither sixteen nor pampered with qualms.

It is amazing the beauty reforms that follow in fashion's wake. Silhouettes never would have been the home trained things they are today were it not for that period of excessively short skirt and cut of dress that demanded a slim body.

So with faces—I predict. More faces will be treated to care this season than ever before. Also, if I am any judge, more skill will be cultivated in make-up application. For badly put on make-up looks like the very you-know-what where there is no brim or softness of hair to take the curse off.

Eyes, if you notice, are being "shadowed" much more cleverly than they formerly were, which I take as another influence of the "close-up" on the season's faces.

If there are lines showing beneath the chin, that skinny little bonnet surely does make them prominent.

All of which means if you are not acting for your facial betterment you'd better be up and doing with massage cream and plenty of action.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

V. M.: ROUGH SKIN ON THE arms may be overcome by the application of some bland oil with sufficient frequency to keep the skin soft and pliable.

A. M.: LINES AT THE CORNERS of the mouth may be overcome by massage. Use a good cold cream on the finger tips, using an outward and upward movement.

ENGAGEMENTS

Food Talk.

Just about this time of the year many housewives feel that tables must of necessity take on an increasing dullness and lack of color. They long for the bountiful array of vegetables they saw all summer at the market and regret the sparse use they made of them. Now the problem of variety is more complicated for them and requires too great ingenuity to plan meals with the same fresh, attractive touch of summer time.

To them I would exhort: Behold the cabbage family! Apparently nature has been cognizant of our winter needs, for it sends many varieties of cabbage relatives to market at this time of the year. Among the less commonly known types we find broccoli—a beautiful, brilliant green vegetable and a most delicious one. It is closely allied with cauliflower, genealogically. At first sight broccoli may not have the appearance of cauliflower but on closer comparison you will find it very similar, except that the heads average smaller, are coarser and more open. This is because they take a longer time to form the "curd" of succulent incipient flower buds.

Broccoli is cooked in the same manner as cauliflower. It should be carefully washed and split up into sections. The thick fleshy stems especially should be split so that they may cook more readily. Unlike cauliflower, the stalks as well as the "curd" part is cooked. The broccoli is dropped into rapidly boiling salted water and cooked until just tender and in an open kettle to preserve the lovely green color. The cooked product is quite delicate, so watch it carefully and don't cook it one second after it is tender. It must be cautiously lifted from the water so that it does not break. Butter, drawn or plain, and salt are the only accompaniments that broccoli needs to preserve and enhance the natural delicious flavor.

Creamed broccoli on toast makes a excellent luncheon dish. The broccoli should be placed on the toast and the cream sauce poured over it. Stirring broccoli around in a pan with a sauce would break it up and spoil its attractiveness. Please try broccoli, undoubtedly you'll be pleased.

Reading List on Child Management Now Available

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Suggestions for dressing the small boy and small girl will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Did yesterday's [Sunday's] article give you an idea that I thought all mothers did their reading on child management with a booklet propped up above the sink while they washed the dishes? Or with a duster in one hand and a leaflet in the other? Or that perhaps I thought it consisted of paragraphs edged in between watching the pie and the peas?

I may not have thought quite that when I planned those very short reading references on child management—but I did, almost. Any one who has run her own home, taken care of and loved her baby [and the latter takes time that mechanical care doesn't]—and any one who has just average strength and average efficiency and so gets tired and perhaps nervous, too, knows it's often hard to get lengthy reading done at a time when you're fresh enough to take it in. A book would discourage you, while a leaflet wouldn't. Hence the short cut list of yesterday.

There are, however, many mothers and an increasing number of fathers who have time and inclination to do more extensive and intensive reading on child guidance. There are thousands of women, married but not yet with children, who are preparing themselves for motherhood. And hundreds of young girls betrothed [don't you like the pretty old fashioned word?] and some who aren't—who are eagerly reading everything they can get on childhood.

So, for all those I have prepared a list of longer reading, consisting of books on child management which will be sent in the usual way, on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope.

There isn't a day that doesn't make a demand on the type of frocks that these frocks are—they are informal in style, yet present the important fashion points of the season in new, unusual ways with a really chic simplicity.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Johnny Gottselig, flashy Blackhawk forward, saved last night's 1930 hockey inaugural at the Chicago Stadium by shooting a long range goal in the last 15 seconds of the final period. This desperate bit of artistry tied the New York Rangers, who had scored less than four minutes before, and the tie prevailed through overtime. The final score was Blackhawks, 1; Rangers, 1.

More than 15,000 persons were on hand to see the season opener and until 55 minutes of the game had been played about all the fans had to do was speculate on this year's Blackhawks as compared with last year's Blackhawks.

Gardiner Stars as Goalie.

Those who figured that the new brand didn't seem quite so good as the old, if there were any such, had nothing to prove their theories except that in the first and second periods the New Yorkers were able to get through the Blackhawks' outer defense wall. But that, in each instance, proved nothing to really moan about, for Chuck Gardiner was playing at the peak of his form and with all manner of circus flopping about, warded off any a serious threat.

So when the contest got well into the final period the consensus was that the Blackhawks, playing their first league game of the season, were not about as good as the Rangers, who were playing their third contest of the National league schedule.

Murdock Scores for Rangers.

With four minutes to go, Waite got the puck far down the ice and outskated the Chicago defense, but danger did not seem imminent when the puck went into the area behind the Chicago cage. This reassuring condition was momentary, for Keeling took the puck off the boards, passed it to Murdock in front of the cage, and Murdock rammed it home for what appeared to be the bacon.

With Capt. Dutkowski shouting instructions, praise, and criticism to his mates, the Blackhawks opened up a desperate attack. But it didn't seem to be getting anywhere. The announcer made it known that there were only 30 seconds to play.

Gottselig's Shot Finds Net.

With twenty seconds to play, Ripley retrieved the puck in a mixup on the north side of the ice. He shot it to Dutkowski in the middle of the rink, and Duke shot it along to Gottselig, waiting clear across the ice from where Ripley had started the play. It was the last chance. And Mr. Gottselig made good in a great big way. He slammed the disk with great fury —and it landed in the net. You never heard folks holler and yell so loud.

The Blackhawks were a rollicking outfit in the ten minutes of overtime, but developed no real scoring chance.

The first period of the season, while it produced no scoring, had enough zip to keep the fans howling almost continuously, especially in the last five minutes of the session, during which Chuck Gardiner executed two swell saves while sprawling on his tummy.

No Score in Second Period.

If penalties are proof of zeal, the aggressiveness of the second period was produced by the visitors, for the Rangers drew five penalties to the Blackhawks' none, including one major penalty on Carrigan just before the siren which ended the period.

On the basis of stops, the Black-

A. A. U. RULE HITS ATHLETES' PROFIT ON FOREIGN TRIPS

See Acceptance of Wykoff Century Record.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A new rule designed to prevent American amateur athletes from commercializing their activity by accepting money for barnstorming tours through foreign countries was adopted tonight by the foreign relations committee of the Amateur Athletic union at the opening session of its forty-second annual national convention.

The rule provides that all A. A. U. athletes accepting invitations to appear in other countries take an oath they have not received and will not accept any gratuity outside of their bare expenses.

At the same time the foreign relations committee approved the acceptance of an invitation to compete in New Zealand this winter by three of America's leading athletes.

Harlow Rothert of Stanford university, weight star and all-around man; George Simpson, Ohio State's sprinter, and Rufus Kiser, former University of Washington middle distance performer, will sail Dec. 24 from San Francisco for New Zealand, to be gone about three months. This trio will be the first to come under the provisions of the new rule.

Sees Decline in Interest.

Meanwhile, a decline of interest in track and field sports in the United States was reported by Avery Brundage of Chicago, national president of the A. A. U. This observation is a part of his annual report which will be submitted tomorrow. He also criticized commercialism in amateur sports.

Virtual assurance that the magic figures of 9 2-5 for the 100 yard dash will be inscribed on the official record book opposite the name of Frank Wykoff of the University of Southern California was given when the records committee approved his application for recognition as a new American record holder. If accepted by the convention proper tomorrow, as is predicted, it will be in line for submission to the International Amateur Athletic federation as a new world's record.

New York Gets Boxing.

No important record applications were rejected by the committee. Among the others expected to go through without difficulty are a discus throw of 169 feet 8⅞ inches by Paul Jessup of Seattle at the A. A. U. games in Pittsburgh Aug. 23, and a 4:12 2-5 mile run by Ralph Hill of the University of Oregon at Eugene, Ore., May 17.

After a hot discussion in the boxing committee room, New York won the award of the national senior boxing championship over Boston by a vote of 10 to 9. The boxing championship has been held in Boston annually for 28 years with two exceptions.

Lincoln, Neb., was recommended as the scene of the national senior outdoor track and field championship of 1931 by the track and field committee, which turned down the bids of Seattle and Springfield, Mass.

FIGHTER, FAMILY ARE POISONED BY CREAM PUFFS

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A dozen cream puffs purchased at a Greenwich village confectionery store caused havoc today among the family and friends of Vic Burrone, featherweight boxer who once fought a draw with Tony Cazoneri, new lightweight champion.

After eating the puffs in the Burrone apartment late last night, the boxer, his wife, their son, and four friends were stricken with acute food poisoning.

All returned to their homes after treatment at a hospital, but a physician said Burrone probably would have to postpone a match against "Little Jack" Sharkey in Philadelphia Nov. 25.

Iowa Upholds Dismissal of Track Coach

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Disclosure that a student petition was being circulated to support Charles R. Brookins, erstwhile assistant track coach, led tonight to the revelation that the University of Iowa athletic board had upheld the dismissal of Brookins at a meeting Saturday.

The board meeting was originally scheduled for tomorrow, but was held yesterday because of the presence of alumni members who were in the city for the university homecoming, Dean C. C. Williams, chairman of the board, said.

Brookins, who, following his dismissal from the department and his arrest on bigamy charges last week, had announced his intention of appearing before the board to "tell his side of the story." He was not present, however, at yesterday's meeting. E. H. Lauer, director of athletics, who announced the dismissal of Brookins last week, said the former coach had not asked him for a hearing before the board.

The petition, praising Brookins for "unceasing loyal services" to the university and expressing high esteem for him "as a coach and a gentleman," was being circulated by John Beckner of Clarinda, a member of the Iowa track squad. Beckner originally had planned to present it to Dean Williams on Monday before the board meeting, but he said tonight that the petition would be given to Brookins since the board has already acted.

The petition has more than 1,200 signers, Beckner said tonight.

No successor to Brookins was named by the board on Saturday. Director Lauer said that as a means of economizing, part time assistants may be recruited from senior classes in the coaching courses during the remainder of the year.

Hableuse, Acadryos Win Steeplechase at Auteuil

AUTEUIL, France, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Prix Montgomery, one of France's classic steeplechases, went to Hableuse, by Pretal, out of Helianthe, today. The race, worth $4,000, was run over a course of 5,500 meters. Hableuse won by a short head from Brutus and paid 7 to 1 in the betting. Countess De Rivaud's Acadryos, by Melbourne, out of Arca, won the Lehon steeplechase over a 3,500 meter course. The winner paid 2 to 1.

TIME NEARS FOR DECIDING THOSE FOOTBALL TITLES

6 Major Teams Unbeaten and Untied.

Washington State is champion of the Pacific coast conference. Northwestern tops the Big Ten and Michigan will share honors provided the Wolverines defeat Chicago Saturday. Kansas and Oklahoma are tied for the Big Six crown. Georgia is eliminated from the race for the Southern conference title, which now lies between Alabama and Tulane. And three of the nation's nine undefeated football elevens are dropped from the list by ties or defeats.

The eyes of the central west followed Wisconsin's invasion of Northwestern and Minnesota's fight to upset Michigan at Ann Arbor. The favorites won, but were forced to demonstrate that championship class which had been the claim of their adherents. After a complacent first half which saw the Badgers supreme in attack and leading 7 to 0, Northwestern pressed with full power, eventually winning 20 to 7. Forty-eight thousand, the capacity of Dyche stadium, kept their seats to the thrilling finish despite inclement weather and the foggy dusk which all but obscured the players.

Gophers' Threat Fails.

Minnesota and Michigan reversed the situation before 60,000 spectators. Jack Wheeler returned a kick in the first quarter 45 yards to the Gophers' goal line and Stanley Hozer added the placement for the seventh point. After this period Minnesota gathered power, completely outplaying the Wolverines. The most serious threat, and which seemed certain to tie the score in the fourth period, failed when Michigan rallied to take the ball on downs seven yards from its goal. With Chicago, which Illinois defeated Saturday, 28 to 0, as the remaining opponent, it is highly probable that the Wolverines will tie Northwestern for first honors in the Western conference.

Purdue must be content with second place, although if the Boilermakers down Indiana Saturday, they, too, will have scored five victories. One defeat, 14 to 13, by Michigan in the opening combat, keeps Purdue from sharing the title with Northwestern. Purdue defeated Butler Saturday, 33 to 0.

Iowa and Ohio State led the Big Ten to intersectional victories. The Hawkeyes trounced Penn State, 19 to 0, while Fesler led the Buckeyes in their fight which avenged last year's defeat by Pittsburgh. The Panther fell, 16 to 7, in one of the best games of the day and this will assuage Ohio's failure in the conference.

Kansas, defeated on successive Saturdays by Pennsylvania and Nebraska, rallied to down Oklahoma, 13 to 0. The victory ties the Jayhawkers with the Sooners for honors in the Big Six.

Georgia Slows Up.

The Georgia Bulldog needs no alibi, but its double invasion of the east probably has worn down the fine edge of its attack. Previously Georgia had slumped sufficiently to play a scoreless tie with Florida when comparative scores indicated victory. Saturday Tulane ran wild, winning 25 to 0. The week before Georgia took a 7 to 6 victory over New York university on its second trip to the eastern seaboard. The first journey netted a win over Yale.

Alabama, victor over Louisiana State, 33 to 0, continued to set the pace in the south. It has eight wins. Tulane has won seven games but has lost one, a nonconference game with Northwestern. Georgia and Alabama play Thanksgiving day while Tulane's opponent on the same afternoon will be Louisiana.

Washington State clinched the Pacific coast championship and brought the title to the northwest for the first time since Washington's triumph in 1925. More than 41,000, an all time

Evanston, N. U. Students Join in Grid Celebration Today

Both town and gown will unite in usually complacent Evanston today to celebrate Northwestern's Big Ten football championship. Victory over Wisconsin last Saturday, which assured the Wildcats of at least a share in the 1930 conference grid honors, has provided the students and citizenry of the north shore town with the impetus to start celebration.

DICK HANLEY.

All classes at the university will be dismissed at noon today. A student massmeeting will be held at University hall on the campus at 1 o'clock, at which the team and coaches will be feted. This session will be followed by an all-university dance.

Another pep session will be held in the gymnasium in the evening. Evanston business men will play a prominent part in the evening affair. At the close of the pep session the student body will proceed to north side theaters which have thrown their doors open to the celebrators for the evening.

City Testimonial Later.

Evanston's official testimonial to the team will not be held until after the Notre Dame game, since all banquets and other parties for the squad are taboo until that time. Thomas Airth, president of the Evanston chamber of commerce, stated yesterday that a city wide celebration is being planned for next week when luncheon clubs and other groups will hold an all-Evanston banquet in honor of Coach Dick Hanley and his Wildcats.

Saturday, following the victory over Wisconsin, Capt. Hank Bruder was presented with a diamond fraternity pin by the alumni and active members of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

No Practice Today.

Meanwhile, the team is going about preparing for the Notre Dame clash Saturday. With seven straight victories already tucked away, the Purple is not at all awed at the prospects of facing the eleven from South Bend. The Wildcats regard Saturday's engagement as just another football game.

Coach Hanley has excused the entire varsity squad from practice this afternoon as is customary on Monday. Tomorrow the players will get down to serious work. All the men came out of Wisconsin game in good shape.

Pug Rentner, the Wildcat's star full back, will not play against Notre Dame. Coach Hanley stated yesterday that he had abandoned all hope of using his forward passing ace any more this season. Rentner's arm has failed to round into shape since it was injured in the Minnesota game two weeks ago.

Although tickets for Saturday's game were sold out five weeks ago, Northwestern still is besieged with requests for tickets. Efforts to obtain tickets are futile, however, since the last of them were placed in the mail yesterday.

N. U. WORRIES ROCKNE

"Northwestern has a strong, fine team," he said, "and our players were badly battered in their game yesterday with Drake."

While the Bulldogs were doped to provide a breathing spell on the Irish card, they proved tougher than expected and Assistant Coach Hunk Anderson kept the varsity in for more than half the game.

Tom Kassis, left guard, was the only varsity man seriously injured, but it is believed that he will be able to play against the Wildcats. Frank Leahy, who has been on the side lines all season due to injuries, rejoined the squad last week and will also probably be available for duty.

Not only the Wildcats are providing a thorn in Rockne's side. He must also look ahead to the games with Army and Southern California, both of which have developed to a high state of perfection after misleading starts.

In spite of the rigors of the three games to come, Rockne will not call any practice for his first squad tomorrow because he believes that rest will do more good. The squad will return full force Tuesday, however, and the hardest work of the season is anticipated.

The western crown and possibly a national championship will be at stake when the two undefeated elevens clash before a capacity crowd of 48,000 at Evanston.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Rain and mud that devitalized the New York Giants' famed aerial attack today held no terrors for the Chicago Bears, and Bronko Nagurski, former Minnesota full back, ripped through the New York line for two touchdowns at the Polo grounds to give the Chicagoans a 12 to 0 triumph. A crowd of 5,000 huddled in the stands seeking shelter from an interminable drizzle.

Plowing through the mire for three periods without a score, the greater power of the Bears' ground game finally brought about a tally just as the fourth quarter opened. Then, as dusk enshrouded the field and forced illumination by flood lights, Benny Friedman started hurling passes in a vain attempt to recoup a losing game.

Lintzenich Intercepts Pass.

One of Friedman's flips sailed into the waiting arms of Lintzenich on the 20 yard line. The Bear back slithered through the mud to the ten yard stripe before he was downed, and then Nagurski dove over on the fourth play for the second touchdown.

The Bears clearly played the New Yorkers, registering thirteen first downs to five, and pressing the fighting deep into Giant territory on two occasions before a march was terminated successfully. Early in the first period the Bears went from the Giant 27 yard line to the 11 yard stripe, but three thrusts at the line and a forward pass failed to gain an inch and the ball was lost on downs.

Bears' Drive Halted.

Then in the third quarter a 48 yard march, with Red Grange, Nagurski, and Lintzenich bearing the brunt of the attack, brought Chicago to the 6 yard line and again the Bears failed to make a first down.

A succession of plays at the beginning of the final session ended in the initial score of the hard fought game. Starting at his own 41 yard mark, Nagurski slammed through the line for nine yards. Grange made it first down, and a pass from Grange to Johnson traversed 28 yards, putting the ball on the Giants' 22 yard line.

Grange slipped inside tackle on a cutback to the 16 yard line, and on a quarter back sneak Brumbaugh went on to the 7 yard line. Then Nagurski went over for the score. Garland Grange failed to kick the point.

Bears Score Again.

Immediately after the kickoff the Giants were pressed back to their own goal line as the result of a well placed punt by Nagurski that rolled out on the 6 yard line. Pass after pass failed and then one was intercepted. Four quick line thrusts gave Chicago its second score.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Cardinals, 13; Packers, 6. In this manner Ernie Nevers and his teammates ended the Packer winning streak of 22 victories, 12 of which were compiled last year when Green Bay, undefeated, won the National league title. The game was played before 17,000, at Comiskey park.

Last week Green Bay won its eighth game of this season by the margin of a point after touchdown. Chicago's Bears were the losers. This morning the Packers continue to lead the championship race only because the Bears won from the New York Giants, 12 to 0. Thus the Giants continue in second place with two defeats, the first at the hands of the Packers in early season.

Misplays in First Quarter.

The first quarter, although scoreless, was a succession of misplays, each team seemingly determined to present the other with victory. Then the Cardinals scored, whipping into the sluggish Bay line for a march of 51 yards, which ended with Charley Belden across the last line, after a short forward pass completed behind the line of scrimmage.

The Packers came back from the intermission confident and determined. With the advantage of a recovery of Boyd's fumble on the Cardinal 35 yard line, Green Bay kept possession until Hurdis McCrary went spinning through the line for the tying score. Dunn missed the point.

Nevers Crashes Over.

So into the final period the rivals fought. Then the Cardinals, gathering strength as they went, smashed down field for 44 yards, with Ernie Nevers scoring. Nevers added the final point, making certain that Green Bay only might tie in the remaining four minutes. But the Packers' rout was complete. They received the kickoff, lost the ball on downs, and never regained it. The final whistle blew with the Cardinals on the Packers' two yard line and a third touchdown at hand.

The Packers have represented perfection in professional football so long they have become a measuring rule for the game. Thus the thousands who yesterday hoped for victory, were stunned when it was achieved. Perhaps Green Bay did not play as in other games. Perhaps the team was stale from a succession of hard contests. No losing team ever appears to advantage in defeat.

Cards Excel on Attack.

Explanations aside, the Packers lost to a team which excelled in all phases of attack. Nevers outkicked both Verne Lewellen and Johnny Blood. His passes were completed when the outcome rested on completion. His direction of the Cardinal attack showed no fault. And his mates played as a unit, seldom yielding on defense, always preparing a path for Belden, Rose, and Boyd for thrusts outside of tackle, and fairly bowling over the Packer line when Nevers crashed directly into that line.

Franta recovered Gene Rose's fumble on the opening kickoff, and the Packers had their first scoring opportunity 33 yards from the Cardinal goal. Lewellen passed to Englemann on the Cards' ten yard line. Two line plays gained a yard. Then the Packers lost 15 for holding by Hubbard. The Cards again were forced to battle on their ten yard line, when Lewel-

Willaman Also Suggests Hinchman, Selby.

(This is the third of a series discussing Big Ten football players who are likely to be named most valuable to their teams and so become candidates for THE TRIBUNE'S most valuable player award.)

WESLEY FESLER.

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—"Although no Ohio State player has been named for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S most valuable player award since the plan has been in force," Coach Sam Willaman said tonight, "I believe it has created better fighting spirit and put more zeal into the Buckeye players than any other single thing in our season."

He praised the new plan, which this season will permit the players of each Big Ten team to select the most valuable man of their number as a candidate for the conference award.

"We have many valuable players on the first varsity team. The seven seniors have been almost invaluable to what success we have had this year," Willaman said. "But I believe many of the men consider Wesley Eugene Fesler, end, back field man, signal caller, forward passer and receiver, punter, and acting captain, the most valuable player on the Buckeye team.

Fesler Most Versatile.

"Fesler, barring none, is the most versatile player I have ever seen. He earned all-American honors as an end in his sophomore and junior years and now is an outstanding ball carrier. Defensively Fesler is one of the best ends in the country.

"It was only a few weeks ago that he missed his first minute of play in any game since he started on the varsity in 1927. He could have continued playing against Wisconsin, but I thought it would be best for his own welfare to remove him, because he was battered and bruised. The Badgers played hard football that day, and our whole team felt it," Willaman said.

Fesler, whose home is in Youngstown, O., is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds.

Names Hinchman, Selby.

Willaman also included Lewis Hinchman and Sam Selby in his list of most valuable players.

Selby has gained the respect of all his opponents in the three years he has played at guard. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. Singapore Sam, as the teammates know him, is completing his studies in the college of engineering and comes from West Middletown, O. Willaman voiced the opinion that Selby was one of the outstanding guards in the conference.

Hinchman, until recently the signal caller of the Buckeyes, has carried the ball for more yardage during the games he has participated in than any other Ohio player. Hinchman is in his first year on the squad. With the exception of Fesler he is the fastest man on the team. He comes from Columbus, where he played four years on the North High school team. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 169.

85,000 Deer Hunters Invade Michigan Woods

BY BOB BECKER.

Michigan is being blown wide open this week by the high speed bullets of the deer hunters. How many thousands of these gunners have been roaming through the forests since last Saturday, the opening day of the 1930 deer season, is not known yet. The report on license sales has not been released.

However, approximately $5,000 licenses were distributed by the Michigan conservation department because another great crowd of hunters was anticipated this fall, in spite of the fact that $50 bill for hunting licenses may not be quite so numerous this November as they have been in previous years.

Last year, if we remember our statistics correctly, there were close to 70,000 deer hunters scurrying through the forests of Michigan to get a shot or two at a buck. Considering the fact that not more than a fifth or a fourth of that number represent skilled woodsmen and capable rifle shots who can strike off into the woods, keep their directions straight and stalk a deer, one can imagine the wild bombardment that occurred in the Michigan woods.

When it was all over and the bucks were hauled out to the roads, there were left in the woods for the wolves to eat several thousand does and young deer of illegal size.

This year the bow and arrow deer hunters will get a break in the upper peninsula of Michigan. No longer will they have to dodge bullets and compete with the boom boom of the high power rifles. According to an announcement from Blaney, Mich., a small town northeast of Manistique, a large tract of timber has been set aside solely for the deer hunting activities of the enthusiastic Robin Hoods.

This reserve for the bow and arrow deer hunters contains several thousand acres and is close to a game refuge so the crafty bowman who knows how to outwit a white tailed buck ought to have plenty of chances to try his skill. The cult of bow and arrow hunting has seen a big increase in the last five years mainly due to the sensational feats of Art Young, the bowman who has killed practically every kind of big game with steel tipped arrows.

hawks outdid their rivals, for Roach made 10 while Gardiner was obliged to get into action but five times. Three of these five were dandies, however, after the first line of defense had failed to function.

The New York goalie's most diligent work was made necessary by two bombardments by Ripley and Couture. In a flurry a little later Somers and March each got a shot in rapid succession from close range, but Roach was equal to both emergencies.

The instance which drew a major penalty for Carrigan was the tripping of Gottseling when Johnny was making a dash with the puck that seemed in a fair way to produce a marker until Carrigan brought down the fleet Chicago wing man.

AMERICANS BEAT MAROONS

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The New York Americans opened the local hockey season by defeating the Montreal Maroons at Madison Square Garden tonight, by the score of 1 to 0. A crowd of 15,000 persons saw the contest, which started with Mayor James J. Walker facing the puck.

The victory was the first score by the local players this season. In their two other games they gained one tie and were defeated once.

FALCONS WIN, 5-1

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Philadelphia's luckless Quakers took their third National Hockey league beating at the hands of the Detroit Falcons here tonight, 5 to 1, in a rough game.

After a one-all tie in the first period the Quakers saw their hopes vanish when Alex McKinnon, bulky defense man, injured an ankle and had to leave the game. Gordon Fraser, who took his place at defense, drew a ten minute major penalty for injuring Harvey Rockburn, Falcon defense player. Rockburn was cut on the head, but finished the game.

Jimmy Creighton scored first for the Falcons and W. Kilrea got the lone Quaker goal in the first period. In the second period Ebbie Goodfellow, center, scored for the Falcons, and in the final frame Larry Aurie scored two goals and Carson Cooper a third.

The injury was received in the annual Syracuse-Colgate game here Saturday. Stevens' condition is considered dangerous.

Stevens was injured in the first half of the game when he was tackled by the Maroon players. He was carried from the field unconscious and remained so for a half hour. Only members of his family and Head Coach Vic Hanson are allowed to see him.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Spectacular upsets in both eastern and western divisions of the Northern Indiana High School conferences gave Mishawaka and Froebel of Gary the 1930 football titles in their respective sections yesterday. They will meet Nov. 22 at Gary to decide the all league championship.

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe, veteran billiard star, defends his 18.1 balkline title against Welker Cochran of Hollywood at the Strand academy this week in a 3,600 point match beginning tomorrow. Twelve blocks of 300 points each will be played afternoon and evening every day this week.

At stake will be the diamond championship medal held by Hoppe and a side forfeit of $250.

The match marks Hoppe's first move in his break with the National Billiard association, which has controlled professional billiards through the sponsorship of equipment companies. The association has refused to recognize the match.

attendance record, sat through the game which was played with the handicap of a cold driving rain. State capitalized Washington's first quarter fumble with a field goal 48 yards from the goal posts. In this manner did the "lost art" of goal kicking win and in such a manner did Yale defeat Priceton, 10 to 7.

Albie Booth provided the three points in the first half of Yale's battle at Princeton which later proved essential. Perhaps it was the inspiration received from Coach Roper, who finished his career Saturday, that urged on the Tigers. Regardless of the source, they played their best game of the season and failed of victory only by inches in the closing minutes when Yale held within two yards of its goal.

Oregon Loses First Game.

Oregon, previously victor over Washington, and undefeated in six games, provided the Pacific coast its only upset of the day. Oregon State celebrated homecoming with a 15 to 0 win on a muddy field. It was its first conference triumph.

Fordham and Marquette followed Oregon in the tumble from the list of teams undefeated and untied. Marquette and the University of Detroit went scoreless at Milwaukee, the Golden Avalanche twice turning back U. of D. attacks.

Fordham fell before St. Mary's, 20 to 12. Leading 12 to 0 at the half, 40,000 believed Fordham would win its fifteenth consecutive victory. The string dated back to 1928, but St. Mary's intercepted a pass for the third touchdown when Fordham vainly tried to overcome a 14 to 12 lead. The winning touchdown also was scored in the fourth quarter and was made possible by Fordham's fumble on its 30 yard line. The third score came after a 70 yard run on the pass interception.

Holy Cross took a 27 to 6 victory over Harvard, the worst defeat Harvard has received since Arnold Haween began coaching at his alma mater.

New York university defeated Georgetown, 2 to 0, on a safety in the fourth period, a freak play. The Georgetown kicker, standing in the end zone behind his own goal line, kicked out safely, but in kicking stepped backward out of the field which automatically was ruled a safety and two points for New York university.

Southern Methodist, playing its third intersectional game, defeated the Navy, 20 to 7. Pennsylvania recovered from its 60 to 20 defeat by Notre Dame, by whipping Georgia Tech, 14 to 7.

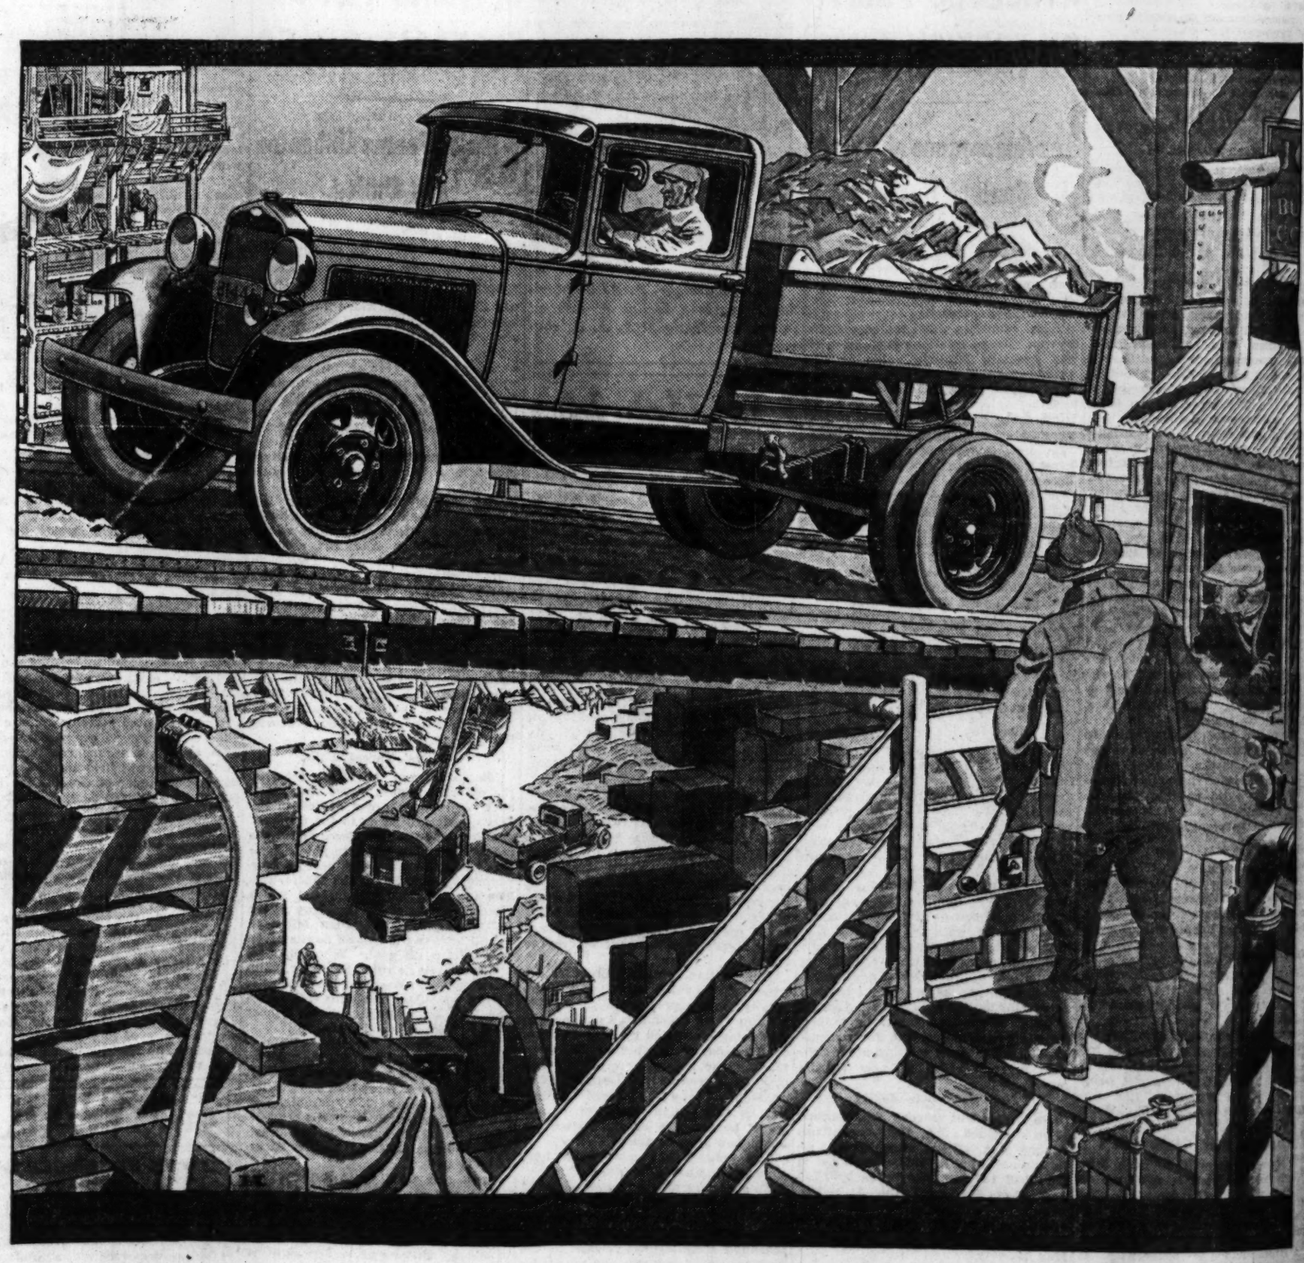
The Ford Truck gives liberal service

AT SCANT COST



WHERE there are goods to be hauled and work to be done, the Ford 1½-ton truck finds its proper place. You will see these trucks in widespread service, lending their power and strength to the jobs in hand. In each case, the full measure of hauling value they give is increased by their marked economy.

Mechanical excellence, which contributes to reliability and capable performance in the Ford truck, is evident throughout its chassis. The 4-cylinder engine develops 40 horse-power at 2200 r. p. m., which is but a moderate engine-speed. More than twenty ball and roller bearings reduce friction and wear at important points in the chassis, adding to the life of the truck.

Simplicity of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems also insures uninterrupted service, and lowers the cost of maintenance.

Other features of importance are the forty different kinds of steel in the chassis; the extensive use of fine steel forgings; the spiral bevel gear rear axle, with straddle-mounted pinion; 4-speed transmission; large, fully enclosed brakes; and dual rear wheels, available at small additional cost.

There is a wide range of bodies, making the Ford truck adaptable to economical service in many businesses. See this truck at the showroom of your Ford dealer. You can find the name and address of the nearest dealer in your "Where to Buy It" Classified Telephone Directory under the name "Ford."

TIE FOR TITLE IS MICHIGAN GOAL IN CHICAGO CONTEST

Kipke Expects Charity Game Will Be Close.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Its 1930 record spotless because of a 45 yard twisting run for a touchdown by Jack Wheeler and a desperate goal line defense against the best Minnesota could offer, Michigan will start work tomorrow afternoon for its final contest, the Saturday charity game with the University of Chicago. Victory would give the Wolverines a joint claim with Northwestern on the Big Ten title.

The Minnesota game left the Michigan squad bruised and battered. Indications are that all of the regulars will be in satisfactory condition by Tuesday. Only a light workout will be held tomorrow.

Michigan has had to play at top speed to win all its games this season, and Coach Harry Kipke is fearful that the team will go stale next Saturday.

Coach Kipke believes that the thousands who come to the charity contest will see a close game.

"I'll be pleased if we win by 7 to 6," he said this afternoon. "This talk of a big score and a lot of touchdowns is the bunk. Just beating Chicago will be enough."

The Maroon battle will see the close of the careers of Captain Jim Simpson, Jack Wheeler, Ralph Wills and Leslie Avery, of the Michigan backfield, and "Pete" Cornwell, Leo Draveling and Bob Morgan, linemen. Howard Auer, Stan Hozer, and Karl Richardson also are listed as members of the class of 1931, but each has played only one year and may be back for more schooling next fall.

BADGERS LOSE KABAT, SMITH.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The bruising encounter with Northwestern Saturday cost Wisconsin two and possibly three of its linesmen for the remainder of the season, it was learned today.

Gregory Kabat, Milwaukee, Wis., right guard, who blocked Bruder's punt for the Badgers' only touchdown in the first quarter, suffered a broken toe and sprained ankle, while Harold Smith, Freeport, Ill., right tackle, wrenched his knee. These two are definitely out of the Minnesota game, which ends the season Saturday. Ed Widerski, Duluth, Minn., left guard, was so battered that he also may be unable to play.

ILLINI GET HOLIDAY.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A holiday tomorrow is the recompense of the Illini for winning their first Big Ten victory, Coach Bob Zuppke announced today. Players who appeared against Chicago Saturday will report Tuesday to begin work for the final game against Ohio State in the stadium Saturday.

The Illini came out of the Chicago game in good physical condition, and, encouraged by their victory, look forward to a good showing against the Buckeyes. Carl Voyles, who scouted Ohio State in its victory over Pittsburgh, reported that the Buckeyes are greatly improved.

Ohio State, with a tie of Wisconsin and victories over Navy and Pitt, will invade the stadium full of confidence. Zuppke indicated today that there will be practically no changes in the Illini lineup. Wilson, sophomore end, who was not able to play against Chicago, may return.

The Scandinavians advanced a step in the International Cermak cup soccer series yesterday by beating the British team, 2 to 1, at De Paul field.

Shortly after the start of the second period Munro broke through the Scandinavians' defense to register the first goal with a twenty yard kick. A few minutes later, Brun evened the score with a penalty kick and later scored the winning goal after a long run. Lineup:

Newark Club of National Pro League Cancels Games

Newark, N. J., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Edwin Strandl, manager of the Newark club of the National pro football league, announced today he had made arrangements to cancel the team's remaining league games. Lack of public support caused the action, he said.

Cardinal Line Holds.

But three line smashes by Englemann netted only three yards and Oran Pape was downed before he could throw a pass.

Nevers kicked far down field to Lidberg, who fumbled. Kenneally recovered for the Cards on the Packer 40 yard line. Pape intercepted Nevers' pass on the second play, but Kassell returned the compliment by intercepting Lewellen's forward in midfield. Once more in the first period Green Bay offered to give away the game. Lewellen, in punt formation and standing behind his own goal line, passed. Belden intercepted 26 yards out. But the opportunity was rejected by the Cards, who lost the ball on downs.

Randolph blocked Lewellen's kick and recovered on the Packer's 19 yard line early in the second quarter. This opportunity also was wasted when Nevers fumbled on the third down and Perry recovered for Green Bay. Then Lewellen kicked to Belden on the Cards' 49 yard line and the rush was on.

Pass Starts Advance.

Nevers passed to Kassell for 15 yards and with Belden's aid, advanced to Green Bay's seven yard stripe. Twice the Packers held. Then Nevers shot a short pass to Belden behind the line of scrimmage and he dashed through the Bay's left tackle, diving the final yards to the goal. Nevers' place kick fell away to the left of the posts.

Boyd's fumble, with Green Bays' recovery only 35 yards from a score, was the Packers' opportunity at the start of the third quarter. McCrary dropped Dunn's pass with no one between him and the goal line, but a second, this to Dilweg, made first down on the Cards' 22 yard line.

Blood and McCrary failed on running plays, but Red Dunn, faking a throw, ran through the middle of the line to within three yards of the goal. Three times Duke Slater and Herb Blumer held the Packers' smashes, but a fourth effort scored over the Cards' left tackle. When Dunn's placement failed, the score remained tied, 6 to 6.

Long Punt Aids Cards.

As the third quarter ended, Nevers got off a 75 yard punt which stopped on the Packers' three yard line. This kick put the Bays on the defensive, and eventually brought their defeat. Green Bay, after Blood's kick from behind the goal, held the Cards, and Nevers' chance for a placement from the 28 yard line was frustrated by Randolph's poor pass at center.

But a minute later Boyd returned Blood's kick to Green Bay's 44 yard line. The march had started. Rose, Boyd, and Nevers carried the ball, and it was first down on the 32 yard line. Rose circled the Packers' right tackle on a triple reverse for 16 yards.

Nevers, Nevers, Nevers. Three smashes and the Cards were on the four yard line. Boyd gained three. Nevers added two feet. Again Nevers, and the Cardinals had won.

Loyola Beats De Paul, 28-6; Hofherr Stars

Loyola academy won the right to represent the north section in the Catholic league championship game next Sunday by defeating De Paul, 28 to 6, at Loyola stadium yesterday. It was Loyola's seventh straight victory and brought revenge for the defeats handed it by De Paul in recent years when it stood on the threshold of a sectional title. De Paul won the league championship in 1928 and 1929.

Harry Hofherr was the star of the game, contributing three touchdowns to Loyola's total. In the first quarter he dashed 45 yards for a touchdown, and shortly after, in returning a punt, ran 75 yards for another. He ran 80 yards in the third quarter for his third touchdown.

Ray Durkin and Jim Yore also featured for Loyola, the former scoring on a plunge in the second period and making good on four place kicks for the extra points after touchdowns. Reframe went over for De Paul's touchdown in the third quarter. He and Gravem shared honors for De Paul. Lineup:

LOYOLA [28].		DE PAUL [6].
Dunne	L. E.	Sweeney
Hack	L. T.	Wiatrak
Graze	L. G.	Harrison
Healy	C.	Zeck
Corrigan	R. G.	Mertes

Martin	R. E.	Anderson
Durkin	Q. B.	Weinand
Hofherr	L. H.	Lisner

Touchdowns—Hofherr [3]. Durkin. Reframe. Points after touchdown—Durkin [4 place kicks].

Mills Beat La Grange for Fifth Straight Win, 19-0

The Mills football team scored its fifth straight victory yesterday, defeating the La Grange All-Suburban eleven on the latter's field, 19 to 0. Downs, Collins, and Stuckey scored the victors' touchdowns, while Williams featured for La Grange.

SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER.

The Chicago Roamers and the Kucera All-Stars, indoor baseball teams, yesterday divided a double header at Simons park. The Roamers won the first game, 10 to 2, and the Kucera took the nightcap, 10 to 9.

W. MARYLAND HAS BEST GRID RECORD IN EAST

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The defeat of Fordham by St. Mary's of California leaves Western Maryland's strong eleven sitting on top the eastern football heap, sole undefeated and untied team in the section.

In a position to dispute Western Maryland's claims, however, are Dartmouth and the Army, each unbeaten and tied once. Both the Green and the Cadets play through a much more difficult schedule than Western Maryland, whose only victory over a major eleven was over Georgetown.

Colgate continues to lead the scoring list with a total of 349 points in eight games. Dartmouth, with 294, ranks second, and Cornell, with 260, third. On the other side of the picture is Bethany, which has lost seven straight games and yielded the opposition 327 points. Baltimore has permitted 320 enemy points in losing eight games in a row.

For the third time this year Len Macaluso of Colgate scored four touchdowns in one game Saturday, and to this feat he added two points after touchdowns and a field goal for 29 points, bringing his total for the season to 135. The figure exceeds by five points the record of Gene McEver of Tennessee, the nation's leading scorer last year.

As Bobby Goff of Rhode Island was idle Saturday, Jack Grossman of Rutgers scored two touchdowns to tie him for second place at 96 points. Bart Viviano of Cornell is fourth with an 84 point total.

The Colgate star heads the leaders in every respect but one. He has scored 18 touchdowns against 16 for Grossman and Goff, and has added 24 points, nearly double the total of any rival among the leaders. Ralph Hewitt of Columbia, however, is ahead of him in field goals with two to his credit.

Records of the leaders to date, as compiled by the Associated Press, follow:

"Should I go over him—or under? I took one chance and prayed.

U. S. BUSINESS, AT LEAST, ACTS MORE CHEERFUL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—There was more optimism witnessed in business and trade last week, although actual changes in an upward direction were few. There appeared to be recognition that the recovery might be slow, but a belief that conditions were at or near the bottom was reflected in the first substantial rally in prices which the stock exchange has witnessed for weeks.

Cotton and wheat closed above the lows to which they dropped earlier in the week but still at unsatisfactory levels. There was a slight rise in steel operating at Cleveland but a slight decline at Pittsburgh.

The advance in copper prices, some 26 per cent from the lowest price for 35 years, to the 12 cent level proved to be the outstanding industrial development of the last week, stimulating a demand for the metal in several directions. The effect of this rally was enhanced by the recommendation of the copper institute that production of copper be further curtailed.

Seen Significant.

As it is well known that many high cost producers have long since suspended their production, the resolution of an organization representing over 90 per cent of the copper producers in the world to keep the output in line with consumption was a significant measure, particularly as its adoption would extend beyond our borders.

In other directions there were few noteworthy changes, although scattered signs of improvement appeared in various industries. Some cheerfulness in business circles was derived from the firmer copper prices, on the grounds that any improvement in commodity prices is helpful at this juncture. Yet most observers agree that the major trend in business is still downward. The possibility of the contagion of stiffer copper prices spreading to other commodities has so far been little fathomed, but first thoughts are that, unless supply and demand become stabilized, no effective price advance can be maintained for any commodity.

Indicates Resolution.

In the same line of thought, the gesture of the steel industry in naming minimum prices for plates, shapes and bars, the first formal price announcement in almost two years, indicated a firm resolution to accept no further concessions on large fabricated structural orders. Although the minimum price of 1.60 cents, Pittsburgh, merely confirmed the price in effect, the announcement was interpreted as showing that prices have touched their lows.

Steel production was mildly lower during the week, however, and although the total production for the year is now estimated at some 12,000,000 tons below 1929.

Offerings last week totaled $36,164,000. The largest single issue this week is $19,692,000 Detroit bonds to be awarded Friday. Other issues above $1,000,000 are Long Beach, N. BOND MARKET TURNS UP FROM RECENT DEPTHS

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The bond market turned upward last week after prices had reached new depths for the year. The long period of liquidation that wiped out most of the gains of the previous advance was halted as expected, when a rally reversed the trend of stocks.

When selling of equity issues gave way to buying in midweek, necessitous liquidation of bond holdings to protect margin accounts dwindled and prices of fixed income securities moved upward for the first time in several weeks.

Prices at the start of the week dipped into new low ground for the year. As gauged by the average for 30 bonds the loss in the first few sessions was 9-10s of a point. At 97.6, the average for 30 domestic bonds was only a point above last year's bottom.

The improved sentiment toward securities was followed by an advance in first and second grade domestic issues during the last three days of a broadened demand, although only a portion of the week's losses was recovered.

PRICE ACTION OF DEC. WHEAT IS NEW TO TRADE

Buying 15,000,000 Bu. Starts Rumors.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders are having a new experience, entirely different from that encountered during the wild time when foreign governments were after supplies and took the offerings of speculators and cash handlers and paid for the cash wheat and moved it out.

Should the rumors afloat in the closing days of the week be confirmed, the United States wheat market and possibly that of Canada might be put on a more healthy basis. Purchases of around 15,000,000 bu of December wheat in the Chicago market on Friday and Saturday at 73@73½c started a report that 50,000,000 bu to 70,000,000 bu of wheat had been sold for export by the Grain Stabilization board and possibly some by the Farmers National company, both government subsidiaries.

Officials of these companies denied that there had been such sales made but the trade were not entirely in a state of mind to accept the denials. To have 15,000,000 bu or more bought within a ½c range was an experience that present day traders had never encountered.

New Winnipeg Low.

Ordinarily it might have sent the price up 5c a bushel, but instead of that, Winnipeg broke 6¼ to 8c in two days and 8⅝ to 9⅝c for the week, setting a new low record for November, 60c, with December down to 58½c and May 64⅝c, with only a small recovery at the last.

Losses in Chicago December wheat for the week, however, were only ¾c, with the more deferred deliveries off 4½@7c, as compared with a week ago, losses on May being 5¾c and July 7c. December in Chicago closed at 73@73¼c, March 73@72⅞c, May 74⅛@73¾c and July 73⅜@73½c, being around the lowest closing of the season and also the lowest in 28 years.

Declines in wheat prices were accelerated by back spreading of millions of bushels between Winnipeg and Chicago, also between wheat and corn in the Chicago market. Elevator interests who have been active in buying in their December and selling May at 6½ to 7c difference of late, with expectations of delivering the cash wheat on December contracts, took advantage of the situation and reversed their operations, securing profits of 4 to 4½c and will deliver their cash wheat on December sales.

This move was the result of an announcement of Chairman Legge of the farm board that the government would take delivery of 10,000,000 bu of December wheat. This, however, failed to have a strengthening influence on market values and brought a selling movement, forcing the government into the market to sustain values around the closing days of the week.

It is taken by close observers that the government is in the wheat market to stay and will use its efforts to sustain values. Were 50 million to 100 million bu of wheat moved out of the country, it is believed it would have a strengthening influence on values.

Bad Week for Pools.

It was a bad week for the pools, both in the northwest and southwest. In the northwest it is said the Canadian pool has hedged a good part of its holdings as fast as the market was able to take the selling, while in the southwest the selling was not so general. If this is the case the latter have suffered losses, while the Canadians have minimized them through hedging.

In addition to the disturbing influence of the farm board's operations there were other factors which made the trade nervous, and in a measure assisted in weakening values. Russian shipments were the largest so far, being 7,500,000 bu for the week, and it is said that Russia's program is to export 88 million bu for the season. Although there is said to be damage

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries reported today for the fiscal year ended Aug. 30 net profits of $7,074,621, equal, after preferred dividends, to $1.77 a share on the 3,769,025 shares of common stock now outstanding.

These earnings are equal to $2.21 per share on the 3,015,541 shares of common outstanding on Aug. 30, compared with the previous year's net profits of $14,514,628, or $5.23 a share on the 2,627,405 shares of common stock outstanding on Aug. 30, 1929. The earnings for 1930 do not include earnings of affiliated companies prior to the dates of their acquisition.

Harry M. Warner, president, in his letter to stockholders, said that as of Nov. 8 the company had total current assets in excess of $41,000,000, compared with total current liabilities of less than $19,000,000. Cash on hand was approximately $5,250,000, while bank loans, which he said would be repaid from current operations within the next 60 days, were $3,000,000.

"We are pleased," his letter said, "to say that since the first of September our business and our operations again show substantial profit. We are looking forward to a year of profitable operation. The company recently realized more than $14,000,000 from the sale of common stock. In August the directors omitted the quarterly dividend of $1 on the common stock.

It was stated the cars would be sold henceforth for silver pesos as a means to aid in strengthening the exchange of silver against gold. Florida Municipal Bonds' Predicament Is Discussed

BY SCRUTATOR.

Something has been written here before concerning Florida municipal bonds. Because there are some 150 million dollars or more of these securities, sold and bought as the bona fide obligations of towns and counties, now in default, it is considered that the matter is worth additional discussion.

Mention of this situation usually brings acrid comments to the effect that quite as many defaulted real estate bonds might be found in northern cities. The answer to that is that municipal bonds, secured by the taxing power, have always been regarded as among the safest investments; and that purchasers of them have a right to expect and demand a larger freedom from ordinary speculative risks.

The Barnett National bank of Jacksonville, an institution which is well outside the default belt, within the last week has sent out a letter bearing on the defaults and warning holders of the southern Florida municipals not to dump these issues at sacrifice prices nor to agree to allow their interests to be handled by groups who may be using the conditions for personal gain.

Bank Makes Review.

A review is made by the bank of the circumstances leading to the issuance as well as the decline of these municipals. The land boom, attracting a population out of line with orderly settlement, required improvements. People clamored for roads, streets, sewers and lights. A large part of the money raised went into such improvements. These improvements remain, and the Barnett bank points out that without paved roads built on borrowings, the sandy soil would be impassable for wheeled traffic twelve months in the year.

The trouble was that, not foreseeing the end of the boom and the shrinkage of population as well as property values, the cities and counties agreed to pay off their obligations in about ten years. This was particularly true of the improvement and assessment bonds. Difficulties in paying off were aggravated by bank failures, mostly due to the crash of a chain institution in another state, by storms and the fruit fly.

"Many communities became convinced they were faced by a hopeless task," the Barnett National bank added, "and were encouraged in this attitude by financial agents and fiscal advisers, most of whom were out for personal gain. There were formed various adjustment committees, bondholders committees, etc. Many of these agencies secured publicity in responsible publications. The object of much of this was to scare holders of Florida bonds into dumping them so they might be resold at a profit or used in a profitable compromise with the city or county.

Urge Holding Them.

"We urge the holders of bonds issued by Florida communities to hold them until they have requested the dealers from whom they purchased to investigate thoroughly.

"We take the position that these bonds should and will be paid, and we will maintain that position until convinced otherwise."

An extension of time in amortization is all that is necessary in most cases, it is held. It is to the interest of these Florida communities to pay in full under the proper arrangements. It is inconceivable that they will not want to keep credit and to borrow again. As for the holders, their best hope for getting the maximum return on their investment would seem to lie with the committee formed by the investment bankers who sold the bonds, rather than with any groups like those mentioned above as operating in Florida.

GERMANY SHOWS BEST POST-WAR TRADE BALANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—Germany's exports for the first three quarters of this year exceeded the imports by $148,000,000, the most favorable balance that Germany has known since the war. The total exports were $2,285,000,000. This favorable balance was further swelled by $143,000,000 for reparation deliveries in kind.

Exports have been steadily rising since June and in October amounted to $255,000,000. This improvement is especially due to an increase in exports of finished goods, which, it is believed, indicates a revival of foreign markets. Exporters hope that this will compensate for the falling off of home demands.

BELIEVE PARIS MAY GIVE LONDON CREDIT OF BILLION DOLLARS

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Financial leaders of France and England are studying details of a credit transaction of considerable importance between the two countries. It is understood Paris may in the near future extend to London a credit of 200,000,000 pounds, or about $1,000,000,000.

Details of this enormous operation are being considered by experts of the Banque de France and the Bank of England, although an announcement at this time that the transaction is assured of success might well be followed by a diplomatic denial.

The exact nature has not yet been decided in full. While the two governments are interested, it may well be that the transaction will be rather between financial interests.

It is not to be supposed that this loan by France to England, or perhaps it will better be called credit operation, would be followed by large shipments of gold to the Bank of England. It would be rather a bookkeeping operation. At present Paris has in London short term credits of some $600,000,000. It is known the city of London is quite uneasy about these credits, the calling of which might quite seriously inconvenience the Bank of England's gold reserve, which is none too large.

The seriousness of the situation may be gauged from the fact that short term French credits in London are almost equal to the gold reserve of the Bank of England. For some time British bankers have been thinking of the advantages of converting these short term credits into long term credits. It is presumed the proposed operation would care for these short term credits. That would account for some sixty per cent of the suggested 200 million pounds. For the rest, it is considered likely the French might turn over to the English credits they hold in New York, Amsterdam and other financial centers. It is evident such an operation would protect the gold reserve of the Bank of England to a large extent.

HUDSON MOTOR TO REHIRE 1,000 WORKERS TODAY

In line with plans for expanding production, the Hudson Motor Car company announces that it will reemploy another thousand workers today in its plants at Detroit. This is in addition to 3,500 men reemployed in the last three weeks and is in line with the company's policy to afford immediate work to as large a force as possible.

At the same time, President William J. McAneeny announces reductions of $175 on the base list price for new Hudson models, bringing it to $875, and of $170 on the new Essex model, bringing it to $595. The prices are the lowest in the company's history. The new models will be brought out at the end of this month.

STOCK MARKET PERFORMS THAT AWAITED RECOIL

Had Been Declining for Two Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York Nov. 16—The reversal of the downward trend in all financial markets which occurred last week was surprising only in that it had been so long postponed.

The stock market, after reaching the high point of the abortive attempt to stage an autumn bull market, had declined with only feeble interruptions for two months. The bond market, giving way under the depressing influence of the example set by stocks and weakened by the sacrifices of traders faced with the necessity of protecting their speculative accounts, dropped to a point where domestic issues were at the lowest prices for the year to date and foreign little better, weakness in commodities had been persistent and had resulted in the lowest prices for December wheat witnessed since 1902.

Brings Correction.

Such a state of affairs, reflecting the unbridled pessimism of a financial community in revolt from last year's excesses of optimism could not fail to bring its own correction. Whether it will be found that the low prices from which last week's recovery began represented the ultimate bottom of the 1930 decline remains to be seen. At least the markets have been given an opportunity to take stock of the situation and relief from the fear provoking influence of an unremitting succession of new low records.

How completely the financial markets had been under the influence of psychological rather than economic factors had been demonstrated by the unison in which they moved. The general tendency for declines in the stock market to be accompanied by reactionary movements in bonds and commodities had been noticeable for several weeks. The financial community had been enveloped in unrelieved forebodings of continued hard times.

Draws Nearer to End.

But while the speculative community had been giving itself over to an excess of pessimism, the business depression had been drawing closer to its end, in point of time, if not in tangible progress of events. The technical condition of the markets had been undergoing readjustments calculated eventually to bring about a re-

These bonds, issued under authority of the Illinois Legislature and approved by the Supreme Court of Illinois, are for revolving fund purposes, and, in the opinion of counsel, constitute direct, general obligations of the Board of Education of the City of Chicago, being a school district comprising the same territory included within the boundaries of the City of Chicago, payable from unlimited ad valorem taxes levied against all the taxable property therein.

We recommend these bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail

DEMAND GROWS FOR STEEL PIPE TO CARRY GAS

Fuel Distribution Calls for Millions of Tons.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Development of electrically welded pipe for distribution of oil, natural gas and gasoline has increased the demand for steel pipe to such an extent that potential requirement for the next three to five years is from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 tons, the Arthur G. McKee company, Cleveland engineers, estimates.

The growth of probable demand to such vast proportions is ascribed to the greater distances to which pipe lines may now be stretched by use of electrically welded and seamless pipe, which is built to withstand high pressures. The new type of pipe has largely replaced screwed lap weld pipe, the company observes.

Whereas the present potential electric welded pipe production per year is only 2,200,000 tons, the survey just completed by the McKee concern indicates a probable demand of between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 tons. The remainder of the country's potential pipe making capacity, fixed at nearly 8,000,000 tons, is divided as follows: Lap weld, 2,900,000 tons; butt weld, 932,000 tons; seamless, 1,735,000 tons. From its commercial inception three years ago electrically welded pipe has jumped from last to second place, while lap weld has not increased in production.

Advantages of electric welded pipe, which are held responsible by the survey report for increasing potential demand, are greater strength for like weight, absence of weld weakness, longer lengths and consequent cheaper laying costs.

Utah Radio Products.

Will you kindly send me any information you may have relative to Utah Radio Products? I would appreciate it if you could give me information on the net income for the year that ended June 30, 1930.—D. R. W.

Utah Radio Products company is one of the smaller manufacturers of radio units, loud speakers, etc. The present company was formed in August, 1928, and since that time has absorbed several other concerns.

For the year ended June 30, 1930, net income was $95,624, equal to 38 cents per share on 249,900 no par common shares. Net sales for the year totaled $3,857,767. For the preceding eleven months the company reported net income of $617,084, equal to $2.47 per share.

On June 30, 1930, current assets were $2,062,685, including cash or equivalent amounting to $487,114, receivables totaling $454,432, and inventories placed at $1,111,138. Current liabilities were $192,003. There was outstanding $80,200 of preferred stock, but no funded debt. Good will, patents, etc., were carried on the asset column at $270,562.

During the last year the company has been carrying forward the reorganization which had been embarked upon just before the beginning of the depression. It has also been developing several new products, including a remote control and a new type of electrolytic condenser.

Dividends on the common have not been paid since November, 1929. This stock is quite speculative.

Standard Oil of Ohio.

I would like to know if the new 5 per cent preferred put out by Standard Oil of Ohio is a good stock. —E. F. J.

Standard Oil company (Ohio) was incorporated in Ohio in 1870 as the first of the Standard Oil group. The company has several refineries in Cleveland, Toledo, and elsewhere, and conducts a marketing business in Ohio, maintaining about 1,000 service and bulk stations.

There is no funded debt. The new $12,000,000 issue of 5 per cent cumulative preferred (par $100) was offered in October to provide funds for the retirement of the 7 per cent preferred and for other purposes.

In the last ten years earnings have averaged an amount equivalent to more than six times the dividend requirements on this new issue of preferred.

In the seven months ended July 3, 1930, net income available for dividends on the preferred amounted to $2,294,052. In the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, such net income was $4,202,385.
